MAUDE ADAMS was 65 years old last week, but, like Peter Pan, she finds the years resting lightly upon her. Her new and, as usual, sedate appearance in the rotogravure brings also into view a uniquely interesting American college.

Miss Adams is a lecturer and counselor on the theater in Stephens college, at Columbia, Mo., a junior college of 1,100 girls where there is in progress a new and fascinating tour de force in women's education. It isn't faddish—and it's working.

This department has cast a possibly somewhat jaundiced eye on modern educational goings on. Here, unless we are greatly mistaken, is something to cheer about. Just as an attention-getter, let it be known at the start that when a girl matriculates at Stephens, one of the first things they teach her is how to use a lip-stick.

Don't get the idea that here they are readying girls for any such frivolous business as being debs or gadabouts or vamps or butterflies. This lip-stick work-out is just as important in the Stephens curriculum as the binomial theorem, or the quantum theory, or the prepositions used with the ablative, and possibly a lot more so. And rightly, as they elaborate it for an incoming girl. In effect they explain it like this:

"THE SENSIBLE use of cosmetics is just as important a detail of education as anything you will get out of your books. It is your business to be just as beautiful or personable as you can. It gives you assurance, and it makes things easier for you in get-

LONG-LOST JUDGE'S WIFE ASKS INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Stella M. Crater, whose politically prominent husband, Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, vanished mysteriously seven years ago, was described by friends today as ready to make "sensational charges" about his unsolved disappearance.

She would, they said, demand a new and sweeping re-investigation of the whole case by District Attorney-Elect Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey, vacationing in Bermuda, planned to fly home Monday.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Crater was hidden in the city by friends. She is scheduled to speak on a radio broadcast tomorrow at 2 p. m., central standard time, when she intends to amplify the charges.

Crater vanished August 6, 1930, in the midst of the sensational disclosures of the Seabury investigation.

He was one of the leading members of the bench, a friend and protege of United States Senator Robert F. Wagner and other Tammany higwigs.

Police say: he may have gone away voluntarily, he may have been kidnaped; he may have been deliberately or accidentally hurt so that he is not in his right mind; he may have suffered an attack of amnesia; he may have been slain in a holdup, or for political or personal motive.

ALEXANDRIA WILL HAVE NEW PAPER

Thomas O. Harris To Publish Morning Daily At Rapides Parish Capital

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Thomas O. Harris, well known north Louisiana newspaper man and at one time manager of the Monroe Morning World, announces the early publication of a new Louisiana daily, of which he will be the editor and publisher.

The new venture will be a morning paper, published daily and Sunday at Alexandria and backed chiefly by Alexandria capital. Articles of incorporation have been recorded, machinery and equipment ordered, a suitable building leased and publication will begin as quickly as the new plant can be made ready.

The officers and directors of the new concern are well known business and professional men of Alexandria. Board members are: W. P. Aertker, chairman; Thomas O. Harris, Harry O. Barker, Jr., Dr. W. Luther Stewart, John Martin Shevnin, J. O. Hussey, Sol Weil, Irving Ward-Steinman, George N. Baquet. Mr. Barker is president, Mr. Aertker vice-president and Mr. Harris secretary-treasurer of the new organization. Stockholders who signed the charter, in addition to the directors, are: Philip Scalfano, Ed Newcomb, Joseph Sterkx, Jr., I. J. Schwartzberg, J. M. Hirsch, Dr. Jonas U. Rosenthal, all of Alexandria; T. E. Banks, Colfax; J. H. Wade, Baton Rouge.

Mr. Harris says the new morning daily will be an independent Democratic paper, whose chief aim is to give the news and to avoid intense factionalism. He promises that it will be progressive and will try to serve the best interests of the territory in which it is published. The central location of Alexandria, he declares, makes it a highly promising spot in which to establish a morning newspaper. The business men supporting the new daily have great faith in its future. They expect it to become a very important factor in the steady development of the Alexandria area.

In addition to his vast newspaper experience, Mr. Harris has served many years in the public life of Louisiana. He has been secretary to Governors Blanchard and Parker, supervisor of public accounts and state auditor. He, therefore, has a comprehensive knowledge of state affairs which should prove useful in his new newspaper connection.

THIRD ATTACK GROUP TO RECEIVE TROPHY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The war department said today the third attack group of the general headquarters air force would be awarded the Colombian trophy for safety in the air for the second successive year at a ceremony tomorrow at Barksdale field, Louisiana.

The trophy is an annual award to the general headquarters air force group having the lowest rate of aircraft accidents per 1,000 flying hours. The third attack group rate was .172, the department said. No one was killed nor seriously injured during the year that ended June 30, 1937.

The department said Brigadier-General Frederick L. Martin and Colonel Robert E. M. Goolrick were "due much credit" for the safety record.

The trophy, given to the government in 1935 by the Colombian republic, is a silver cup.

Divisions From 'Hell On Wheels' Column Will Form Insurgent Spearhead

MARSHAL'S ONE ORDER TO SOLDIERS 'KEEP MOVING'

Forces Gathering Rapidly Now For 'Clean-Up' On Spanish Loyalist Army

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—As the Duke of Aosta prepared to relieve Marshal Rodolfo Graziani as viceroy of Ethiopia, word was received via transatlantic telephone today from informed circles in London that the insurgents in Spain were planning to unleash their "big push" to overthrow the loyalists next month.

The connection between the two is that the spearhead of the insurgent offensive would be Italian divisions taken from the speedy "hell on wheels" column that Graziani commanded in his plunge from the south of Ethiopia to Addis Ababa.

While the reason given for the Duke of Aosta taking the power in Ethiopia is that Mussolini wanted a member of the house of Savoy, the duke being a cousin of King Vittorio Emanuele, to be in command, there is the strong possibility that Graziani is coming to lend his aid for the insurgent "clean-up" in Spain.

Thus, if this takes place, history will be repeating itself for it was only

BUREAU PREDICTS COLDER WEATHER

20 To 26 Degrees In Trucking Regions Of Louisiana Forecast

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Weather forecasters here told residents of Louisiana and Mississippi that the coldest was yet to come despite the low temperatures prevailing throughout the two states today.

The outlook was for readings of from 20 to 26 degrees in the sugar and trucking regions of Louisiana and from 18 to 24 degrees in the interior of south Mississippi.

The drop to the freezing point in New Orleans brought the coldest November conditions since 1931. Weather bureau attaches said only five times in the history of the local station has the temperature been lower during the month.

A range of from 30 to 35 degrees was predicted for New Orleans tonight and protection of vegetation in the city and vicinity was advised. General conditions, however, were expected to be fair.

Low temperatures in Louisiana included 24 at Shreveport, Monroe and Melville while Alexandria and Leesville had 26 and Baton Rouge and Donaldsonville 27.

Tupelo, Miss., reported a low of 25 degrees and a light flurry of snow.

Slowly rising temperatures were forecast for the two states Sunday.

GENDUSA CONVICTED ON CAPITAL CHARGE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Peter Gendusa, 20-year-old painter, faced a possible death sentence following his conviction today of an attack on Thomas Dupont, 60, city comptroller's office clerk and the latter's sister, Miss Jennie Dupont, 53.

Gendusa was tried on the capital charge of breaking and entering in the night time and assault with a dangerous weapon. A criminal court jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged after four hours' deliberation.

John Beecham, 35-year-old negro chauffeur and house boy at the Dupont home, indicted jointly with Gendusa, testified at the latter's trial that the pair planned to rob the aged couple last July. Beecham testified that he struck Dupont with a machete and that Gendusa attacked the sister with an iron tire tool. The Duponts subsequently recovered.

Beecham was granted a severance when Gendusa's trial started, but the district attorney's office did not say when the negro would be tried.

Judge Fred W. Oser deferred sentencing Gendusa until next week.

WED TO ATONE

First degree murder charges were filed against Charles Bosshardt (above), 25, who told Sheriff Antone B. Prince of St. George, Utah, of killing Spencer Malan, a neighbor, three years ago. Then, to atone for his crime, which he confessed, police say, Bosshardt married his victim's widow. His story was verified when police found the body of the slain man—headless—in an old well into which it was cast three years ago. According to Sheriff Prince clothing identified the body as that of Malan. George Schaefer, 33, the widow's brother, was also held on first degree murder charges.

PARISH APPROVES NEW LIQUOR LAW

Ordinance Governs Sale Of Spirits And Closing Hours Of Night Spots

Effective immediately, sale of, or the giving away of intoxicating liquor in Ouachita parish between the hours of midnight Saturday and 6 a.m. of the following Monday are strictly forbidden. All public dance halls, cabarets, night clubs and roadhouses will be required to close their respective places of business at 2 a.m. on week days and to remain closed until 6 a.m. on the same days, except they are to stay closed from 2 a.m. Sunday until 6 a.m. Monday.

The ordinance, which is in conformity with those of the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, was introduced by D. Y. Smith, ward one member, at a special session of the Ouachita parish police jury held in the courthouse Saturday at 10 a.m. It was seconded by Berny Oakland, ward three member, and was approved by all members without further debate.

Violators of any provisions of the new ordinance will be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction will be punished by a fine of not more than $100, or by imprisonment in the parish jail for not more than 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court. Also upon a final conviction of the violation of section 3 of the ordinance, parish licenses for the sale of

'DO SOMETHING TO ENCOURAGE BUSINESS MAN' GIST OF PLANS

Many Experts Favor Abolition Of Tax On Undistributed Profits

DEFINITE INDICATION OF BALANCED BUDGET ASKED

Some Express Belief Only Monetary Action Can Bring Relief

By John Lear
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

A group of leading economists last night offered suggestions for ending the current slump in business activity.

The gist of their expressions was: "Do something to encourage business."

What form the encouragement would take was a matter of debate among economists who expressed their opinions in response to inquiries, but sentiment was strong for these points:

1. Abolish the tax on undistributed profits.
2. Revise or abolish the tax on capital gains.
3. End "government competition" with business.
4. Bolster public confidence by definitely indicating an intention to balance the budget.

Actual immediate balancing of the budget was not essential to recovery, a majority of the economists said, although a few disagreed. Some credited the budget's existing unbalance as a

5 CHARGED WITH ARMS SMUGGLING

Will Appear At Hearing Before Federal Commissioner In Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Witnesses were summoned here today for a federal grand jury investigation Monday into an alleged plot to smuggle ammunition from New Orleans into Honduras in violation of the neutrality laws.

Five men had been charged with conspiracy to smuggle ammunition into Honduras aboard the United Fruit company's steamship Sixaola and were ordered to appear Wednesday before United States Commissioner Reginald H. Carter, Jr.

The latest charge was filed against J. S. West, an employe of the United Fruit company in Honduras. District Attorney Rene A. Viosca charged that West, then in New Orleans, loaded 600 rounds of ammunition of .45 and .38-caliber in a taxicab and then onto the ship here consigned to himself in Honduras.

Viosca said the ammunition was not removed from the ship on its arrival in Honduras but was returned to New Orleans and fell into the hands of federal agents.

The other four men charged were Israel Slobotzky, connected with a furniture firm; Walter J. Stauffer,

War Veterans Don't Forget Buddies Still In Hospitals

The men of the A. E. F. do not forget.

Some of them are still suffering from the shocks they endured in that experience 20 years ago which some, with pitiful misunderstanding, refer to as "the great adventure."

Many are still living in the twilight zone of half-remembrance of the experiences which made that "adventure" a little hell. Some are still suffering the terrible scars that are mementoes of the shock of battle. Some are on beds of illness and pain.

Gone are the days when they proudly wore the uniform, and marched to the cheers of throngs, tramping bravely under fluttering flags to the patriotic tunes of two decades ago.

Today they have passed from the memory of the throngs. But their buddies who marched and fought and suffered with them have not forgotten.

Forty of them, patients in the Veterans' hospital at Alexandria, were vividly remembered Saturday on the annual pre-Thanksgiving visit of some of their fellows of Barkdull Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion.

There was nothing of false pity or superficial interest in the visit. Those 40 veterans, occupying a ward of the soldiers' hospital, have been adopted by their buddies of Barkdull Faulk post, who each year make the pilgrimage in a sincere effort to bring cheer and comfort to men who did their bit two decades ago.

They brought gifts of remembrances and good will, and with them went a company of entertainers to help assuage the pain and the suffering that is the price the fellows are still paying for their bravery of bygone days.

It was a joyous event for the veterans, and equally happy for those who contributed to the occasion. That is all there is to the story, except to tell how grateful the 40 veterans are

2 DEAD, 73 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

Condition Of Several Critical; One Under Coach For Two Hours

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Two passengers today were killed and 73 injured—a score of them slightly—in the wreck of a Norfolk and Western passenger train near here.

One coach bearing women and children rolled over and over down an embankment, coming to rest at the edge of the Bluestone river. Another passenger coach of the all-steel train and two baggage cars sprawled topsy-turvy across the tracks. Cause of the wreck was not determined.

Three of the passengers were critically injured and their recovery was doubtful.

Frank Booker, 31, negro of Williamson, W. Va., was thrown from a coach as it overturned and was killed instantly.

Miss Georgia Clyburn, 61, of Branwell, died of her injuries several hours later.

Those critically hurt were Irene Dunnan, 15, of Elkhorn, W. Va.; Dora Lee Gammon, 29, school teacher at Kimball, W. Va., and J. W. Dickenson, railroad employe at Bluestone, who was pinned under a coach for two hours.

The train, No. 24, en route from Columbus, O., to Norfolk, Va., had left the Bluestone powerhouse of the Norfolk and Western 30 miles west of here. Many of the injured were workmen returning from the plant's night shift.

Dickenson suffered one of the most horrifying experiences. He was pinned beneath one of the coaches.

Three doctors stood by and administered opiates while trainmen toiled two hours before he was freed. At a hospital later, doctors said one leg would have to be amputated.

JUSTICE O'NIELL'S WIFE DIES AT HOME

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles A. O'Niell, Sr., wife of the chief justice of the Louisiana supreme court, died today at the family residence in Franklin, La., from heart trouble. She had been ill a long time and had left their New Orleans residence about a year ago to recuperate in Franklin.

Her husband was with her when she died and several of their children from New Orleans left here immediately after receiving word of her death. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in Franklin.

Mrs. O'Niell is survived by the following children: Charles A. O'Niell, Jr., James O'Niell and Mrs. Betty O'Niell Moore of New Orleans; Mrs. Eton Tucker, Leland, Miss.; Mrs. Kathleen McSween and Mrs. Adrienne Billeiter of Shreveport; Mrs. Isabel Lowe, Tunica, Miss., and Mrs. Nora Farrington of Franklin.

LOYOLA GYM DAMAGED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at $1,500 today at the Loyola university gymnasium, chiefly to the roof and walls of the frame structure. John Nix, a student, broke through a locked door and carried most of the school's football equipment to safety.

JACKIE COOGAN AND BETTY WED

Scores Of Top-Flight Actors And Actresses Witness Ceremony

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Jackie Coogan, who starred with Charlie Chaplin as the ragged urchin in the silent screen hit "The Kid" 18 years ago, and Betty Grable, blonde screen actress who has been his sweetheart for three years, were married today in St. Brendan's Catholic church. The Rev. William L. Mullane officiated.

There were scores of top-flight movie actors and actresses in the little church to see the ceremony and speed the couple away on the briefest of honeymoons at Palm Springs, nearby desert resort. Jackie and Betty must be back on a movie lot next Monday to resume work in their picture, "College Swing."

Conn Grable, retired St. Louis stock broker, accompanied his daughter to the altar. Mrs. Lillian Grable, the bride's mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bernstein, mother and stepfather of the bridegroom, occupied front pews.

Miss Grable wore a light grey ensemble and veil with a silver fox coat.

When the brief ceremony was completed the newlyweds kissed at the altar and were greeted by photographers' flash bulbs as they walked down the aisle.

Among those who attended the wedding were Jack Haley, Buck Jones, Alice Faye and her husband, Tony Martin, and Anne Shirley. Alan Gordon, actor, was best man, and Bob Hope and Arthur Lake, actors, were ushers. Mrs. Grant Garrett, wife of a screen writer, and her sister, Mrs. David Arnold of Kansas City, attended Miss Grable.

The Jackie Coogan of 18 years ago wore patched and baggy pants. He was just starting a remarkable career as a child actor. Today, the Jackie Coogan who took the beautiful Betty Grable as his wife, was a millionaire.

Coogan appears infrequently today in the movies. His fortune was built as a child actor [illegible] the salary he earned in such pictures as "Peck's

CHUNGKING MADE SEAT OF NATION AS MINISTRIES LEAVE NANKING

Only Handful Of Dazed Troops Found In Newly Captured City

COLLAPSE OF RESISTANCE LAID TO POOR LEADERSHIP

Friction Between Nanking Government And Several Generals Told

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21 (Sunday).—(AP)—Japanese drove west to new conquests today following the sudden fall of Soochow, key-point of China's "Hindenburg line."

Chinese strove to form a strong, new defense line to bar the invaders' progress to Nanking, from which the government yesterday formally announced removal of the capital to Chungking in Szechwan province.

Foreign military observers, however, expressed doubt that the Chinese would make a determined stand before Nanking and some predicted the city would be given up after little struggle.

In that event, they said, Chinese troops would follow their government into the hinterland.

The new Chinese line, along which 130,000 troops were reported entrenched, stretched from Wusih, 25 miles north of Soochow, to Kiangyin, a distance of nearly 35 miles.

Japanese drove toward the line, northwest of Shanghai, from three points.

They announced that after a bombardment which lasted throughout the night their marines had captured the Fushan forts, stronghold of the Yangtze river 33 miles northeast of Soochow.

Further inland a column from Changshu was reported to have oc-

ORLEANS' RIGHT TO BAN SHOW UPHELD

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Judge Wayne G. Borah in federal district court today denied an injunction seeking to prohibit city officials from banning a two weeks' engagement of the play "Tobacco Road."

But Carlton Miles, executive representative of Tobacco Road, Inc., said the show would go on Monday night.

"The city has stated its only concern is to see that the ordinances regulating such shows are upheld," Miles asserted, "and the play violates no state statute or city ordinance prohibiting immoral or indecent shows and entertainments."

Judge Borah ruled the city was within its rights to enforce an ordinance against the Erskine Caldwell play, which treats of poor white Georgia farmers.

BUREAU PREDICTS COLDER WEATHER

20 To 26 Degrees In Trucking Regions Of Louisiana Forecast

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Weather forecasters here told residents of Louisiana and Mississippi that the coldest was yet to come despite the low temperatures prevailing throughout the two states today.

The outlook was for readings of from 20 to 26 degrees in the sugar and trucking regions of Louisiana and from 18 to 24 degrees in the interior of south Mississippi.

The drop to the freezing point in New Orleans brought the coldest November conditions since 1931. Weather bureau attaches said only five times in the history of the local station has the temperature been lower during the month.

A range of from 30 to 35 degrees was predicted for New Orleans tonight and protection of vegetation in the city and vicinity was advised. General conditions, however, were expected to be fair.

Low temperatures in Louisiana included 24 at Shreveport, Monroe and Melville while Alexandria and Leesville had 26 and Baton Rouge and Donaldsonville 27.

Tupelo, Miss., reported a low of 25 degrees and a light flurry of snow.

Slowly rising temperatures were forecast for the two states Sunday.

GENDUSA CONVICTED ON CAPITAL CHARGE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Peter Gendusa, 20-year-old painter, faced a possible death sentence following his conviction today of an attack on Thomas Dupont, 60, city comptroller's office clerk and the latter's sister, Miss Jennie Dupont, 53.

Gendusa was tried on the capital charge of breaking and entering in the night time and assault with a dangerous weapon. A criminal court jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged after four hours' deliberation.

John Beecham, 35-year-old negro chauffeur and house boy at the Dupont home, indicted jointly with Gendusa, testified at the latter's trial that the pair planned to rob the aged couple last July. Beecham testified that he struck Dupont with a machete and that Gendusa attacked the sister with an iron tire tool. The Duponts subsequently recovered.

Beecham was granted a severance when Gendusa's trial started, but the district attorney's office did not say when the negro would be tried.

Judge Fred W. Oser deferred sentencing Gendusa until next week.

WED TO ATONE

First degree murder charges were filed against Charles Bosshardt (above), 25, who told Sheriff Antone B. Prince of St. George, Utah, of killing Spencer Malan, a neighbor, three years ago. Then, to atone for his crime, which he confessed, police say, Bosshardt married his victim's widow. His story was verified when police found the body of the slain man—headless—in an old well into which it was cast three years ago. According to Sheriff Prince clothing identified the body as that of Malan. George Schaefer, 33, the widow's brother, was also held on first degree murder charges.

PARISH APPROVES NEW LIQUOR LAW

Ordinance Governs Sale Of Spirits And Closing Hours Of Night Spots

Effective immediately, sale of, or the giving away of intoxicating liquor in Ouachita parish between the hours of midnight Saturday and 6 a.m. of the following Monday are strictly forbidden. All public dance halls, cabarets, night clubs and roadhouses will be required to close their respective places of business at 2 a.m. on week days and to remain closed until 6 a.m. on the same days, except they are to stay closed from 2 a.m. Sunday until 6 a.m. Monday.

The ordinance, which is in conformity with those of the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, was introduced by D. Y. Smith, ward one member, at a special session of the Ouachita parish police jury held in the courthouse Saturday at 10 a.m. It was seconded by Berny Oakland, ward three member, and was approved by all members without further debate.

Violators of any provisions of the new ordinance will be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction will be punished by a fine of not more than $100, or by imprisonment in the parish jail for not more than 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court. Also upon a final conviction of the violation of section 3 of the ordinance, parish licenses for the sale of

FATHEREE RESIGNS

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—T. B. Fatheree, dean of men and secretary of the Young Men's Christian association at Mississippi State college, today submitted his resignation, effective December 1. He said he resigned to accept a staff assignment with the farm security administration at Little Rock, Ark. His territory will include Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas.

War Veterans Don't Forget Buddies Still In Hospitals

The men of the A. E. F. do not forget.

Some of them are still suffering from the shocks they endured in that experience 20 years ago which some, with pitiful misunderstanding, refer to as "the great adventure."

Many are still living in the twilight zone of half-remembrance of the experiences which made that "adventure" a little hell. Some are still suffering the terrible scars that are mementoes of the shock of battle. Some are on beds of illness and pain.

Gone are the days when they proudly wore the uniform, and marched to the cheers of throngs, tramping bravely under fluttering flags to the patriotic tunes of two decades ago.

Today they have passed from the memory of the throngs. But their buddies who marched and fought and suffered with them have not forgotten.

Forty of them, patients in the Veterans' hospital at Alexandria, were vividly remembered Saturday on the annual pre-Thanksgiving visit of some of their fellows of Barkdull Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion.

There was nothing of false pity or superficial interest in the visit. Those 40 veterans, occupying a ward of the soldiers' hospital, have been adopted by their buddies of Barkdull Faulk post, who each year make the pilgrimage in a sincere effort to bring cheer and comfort to men who did their bit two decades ago.

They brought gifts of remembrances and good will, and with them went a company of entertainers to help assuage the pain and the suffering that is the price the fellows are still paying for their bravery of bygone days.

It was a joyous event for the veterans and equally happy for those who contributed to the occasion. That is all there is to the story, except to tell how grateful the 40 veterans are

'DO SOMETHING TO ENCOURAGE BUSINESS MAN' GIST OF PLANS

Many Experts Favor Abolition Of Tax On Undistributed Profits

Some Express Belief Only Monetary Action Can Bring Relief

By John Lear

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

A group of leading economists last night offered suggestions for ending the current slump in business activity.

The gist of their expressions was: "Do something to encourage business."

What form the encouragement would take was a matter of debate among economists who expressed their opinions in response to inquiries, but sentiment was strong for these points:

1. Abolish the tax on undistributed profits.
2. Revise or abolish the tax on capital gains.
3. End "government competition" with business.
4. Bolster public confidence by definitely indicating an intention to balance the budget.

Actual immediate balancing of the budget was not essential to recovery, a majority of the economists said, although a few disagreed. Some credited the budget's existing unbalance as a

5 CHARGED WITH ARMS SMUGGLING

Will Appear At Hearing Before Federal Commissioner In Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Witnesses were summoned here today for a federal grand jury investigation Monday into an alleged plot to smuggle ammunition from New Orleans into Honduras in violation of the neutrality laws.

Five men had been charged with conspiracy to smuggle ammunition into Honduras aboard the United Fruit company's steamship Sixaola and were ordered to appear Wednesday before United States Commissioner Reginald H. Carter, Jr.

The latest charge was filed against J. S. West, an employe of the United Fruit company in Honduras. District Attorney Rene A. Viosca charged that West, then in New Orleans, loaded 600 rounds of ammunition of .45 and .38-caliber in a taxicab and then onto the ship here consigned to himself in Honduras.

Viosca said the ammunition was not removed from the ship on its arrival in Honduras but was returned to New Orleans and fell into the hands of federal agents.

The other four men charged were Israel Slobotzky, connected with a furniture firm; Walter J. Stauffer,

2 DEAD, 73 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

Condition Of Several Critical; One Under Coach For Two Hours

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Two passengers today were killed and 73 injured—a score of them slightly—in the wreck of a Norfolk and Western passenger train near here.

One coach bearing women and children rolled over and over down an embankment, coming to rest at the edge of the Bluestone river. Another passenger coach of the all-steel train and two baggage cars sprawled topsy-turvy across the tracks. Cause of the wreck was not determined.

Three of the passengers were critically injured and their recovery was doubtful.

Frank Booker, 34, negro of Williamson, W. Va., was thrown from a coach as it overturned and was killed instantly.

Miss Georgia Clyburn, 61, of Branwell, died of her injuries several hours later.

Those critically hurt were Irene Dumnan, 15, of Elkhorn, W. Va.; Dora Lee Gammon, 29, school teacher at Kimball, W. Va., and J. W. Dickenson, railroad employe at Bluestone, who was pinned under a coach for two hours.

The train, No. 24, en route from Columbus, O., to Norfolk, Va., had left the Bluestone powerhouse of the Norfolk and Western 10 miles west of here. Many of the injured were workmen returning from the plant's night shift.

Dickenson suffered one of the most horrifying experiences. He was pinned beneath one of the coaches.

Three doctors stood by and administered opiates while trainmen toiled two hours before he was freed. At a hospital later, doctors said one leg would have to be amputated.

JUSTICE O'NIELL'S WIFE DIES AT HOME

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles A. O'Niell, Sr., wife of the chief justice of the Louisiana supreme court, died today at the family residence in Franklin, La., from heart trouble. She had been ill a long time and had left their New Orleans residence about a year ago to recuperate in Franklin.

Her husband was with her when she died and several of their children from New Orleans left here immediately after receiving word of her death. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in Franklin.

Mrs. O'Niell is survived by the following children: Charles A. O'Niell, Jr., James O'Niell and Mrs. Betty O'Niell Moore of New Orleans; Mrs. Erin Tucker, Leland, Miss.; Mrs. Kathleen McSween and Mrs. Adrienne Billeiter of Shreveport; Mrs. Isabel Lowe, Tunica, Miss., and Mrs. Nora Farrington of Franklin.

LOYOLA GYM DAMAGED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at $1,500 today at the Loyola university gymnasium, chiefly to the roof and walls of the frame structure. John Nix, a student, broke through a locked door and carried most of the school's football equipment to safety.

JACKIE COOGAN AND BETTY WED

Scores Of Top-Flight Actors And Actresses Witness Ceremony

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Jackie Coogan, who starred with Charlie Chaplin as the ragged urchin in the silent screen hit, "The Kid," 18 years ago, and Betty Grable, blonde screen actress who has been his sweetheart for three years, were married today in St. Brendan's Catholic church. The Rev. William L. Mullane officiated.

There were scores of top-flight movie actors and actresses in the little church to see the ceremony and speed the couple away on the briefest of honeymoons at Palm Springs, nearby desert resort. Jackie and Betty must be back on a movie lot next Monday to resume work in their picture, "College Swing."

Conn Grable, retired St. Louis stock broker, accompanied his daughter to the altar. Mrs. Lillian Grable, the bride's mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bernstein, mother and stepfather of the bridegroom, occupied front pews.

Miss Grable wore a light grey ensemble and veil, with a silver fox coat.

When the brief ceremony was completed the newlyweds kissed at the altar and were greeted by photographers' flash bulbs as they walked down the aisle.

Among those who attended the wedding were Jack Haley, Buck Jones, Alice Faye and her husband Tony Martin, and Anne Shirley. Alan Gordon, actor, was best man, and Bob Hope and Arthur Lake, actors, were ushers. Mrs. Grant Garrett, wife of a screen writer, and her sister, Mrs. David Arnold of Kansas City, attended Miss Grable.

The Jackie Coogan of 18 years ago wore patched and baggy pants. He was just starting a remarkable career as a child actor. Today, the Jackie Coogan who took the beautiful Betty Grable as his wife, was a millionaire.

Coogan appears infrequently today in the movies. His fortune was built as a child actor and the salary he earned in such pictures as "Peck's

CHUNGKING MADE SEAT OF NATION AS MINISTRIES LEAVE NANKING

Friction Between Nanking Government And Several Generals Told

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21 (Sunday).—(AP)—Japanese drove west to new conquests today following the sudden fall of Soochow, key-point of China's "Hindenburg line."

Chinese strove to form a strong, new defense line to bar the invaders' progress to Nanking, from which the government yesterday formally announced removal of the capital to Chungking in Szechwan province.

Foreign military observers, however, expressed doubt that the Chinese would make a determined stand before Nanking and some predicted the city would be given up after little struggle.

In that event, they said, Chinese troops would follow their government into the hinterland.

The new Chinese line, along which 130,000 troops were reported entrenched, stretched from Wusih, 25 miles north of Soochow, to Kiangyin, a distance of nearly 35 miles.

Japanese drove toward the line, northwest of Shanghai, from three points.

They announced that after a bombardment which lasted throughout the night their marines had captured the Fushan forts, stronghold of the Yangtze river 33 miles northeast of Soochow.

Further inland, a column from Changshu was reported to have oc-

17 ARRESTED IN NARCOTIC DRIVE

Nation-Wide Ring Doing $750,000 Yearly Business Reported Smashed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A trail that started with the source of supply for a narcotic addict in New York had led treasury agents today to a series of raids in five cities in which they had smashed a nation-wide ring doing a yearly business of $750,000.

Six months of quiet investigations paved the way for the raids. And when the agents cracked down last night, they arrested 17 persons, including the wife and brother of a member of the notorious "Lucky" Luciano gang and a former president of the Chinese Hip Sing tong.

Treasury officials said the 17 seized in New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, San Francisco, and Butte, Mont., were importers and large scale dealers in narcotics.

The synchronized raids started last night but complete results were not available until today when announced formally by the treasury.

Most of those arrested, the treasury said, operated through a tong organization. Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of narcotics, said seizures made earlier in the investigation indicated that opium, morphine and

ORLEANS' RIGHT TO BAN SHOW UPHELD

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Judge Wayne G. Borah in federal district court today denied an injunction seeking to prohibit city officials from banning a two weeks' engagement of the play "Tobacco Road."

But Carlton Miles, executive representative of Tobacco Road, Inc., said the show would go on Monday night.

"The city has stated its only concern is to see that the ordinances regulating such shows are upheld," Miles asserted, "and the play violates no state statute or city ordinance prohibiting immoral or indecent shows and entertainments."

Judge Borah ruled the city was within its rights to enforce an ordinance against the Erskine Caldwell play, which treats of poor white Georgia farmers.

REPUDIATES CONFESSION

TEACHERS CLOSE ANNUAL MEETING

Adopt Resolutions Calling For More Adequate Yearly Salaries

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Louisiana Teachers association in closing session of the forty-fifth annual convention today adopted resolutions favoring "more adequate annual salaries" for teachers, "adequate sick leave," continuance of the teachers' tenure law, equalization of the pay of elementary and high school teachers and opposition to a change in the method of selecting of parish superintendents of education by school boards.

An incident of the final session was an attempt of a minority group of the association to condemn the "undercratic" method of election of officers. The move was defeated by an uncounted but overwhelming vote after it was explained by proponents that it was an effort to end the "caucus system" of nominating candidates. Successful opponents of the move argued that nominations were open from the floor and that the charge of undemocracy was incorrect.

The resolution condemning the caucus methods was offered by V. K. Fletcher, assistant principal at Selma, in behalf of the Grant Parish Teachers' association. Called upon to explain his resolution by E. R. Hester, principal of the Arcadia High school, Fletcher said that some of the members of the association, as well as the Grant parish group, were opposed to holding caucuses for the selection of candidates.

The resolution to condemn caucuses was defeated on a motion offered by E. R. Minchew to table.

After the vote had been taken, proponents of the Fletcher resolution held the floor and continued to protest against what they said they considered "undemocratic methods." One teacher said "we come to these conventions and find everything cut and dried. We don't know what is going on."

Miss Margaret Williams, New Orleans, one of the protestants, offered a motion providing "that in the future candidates give notice before hand of their candidacies."

"I think that is a good motion" said President L. E. Frazar. He called for a voice vote and it carried unanimously.

AMNESIA VICTIM RETURNS TO HOME

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—After being missing from his home and place of employment since Monday, James Watts, 45, saw filer of the A. B. Learned Saw mill of Natchez, Miss., returned home late Thursday night. He said he had crossed the Mississippi river into Louisiana, but did not remember what had happened. He added that his head was hurting him and that apparently he had been struck a blow over the head. An intensive search had been inaugurated by Chief of Police J. N. Stone of Natchez and Sheriff Audley B. Conner. Louisiana officials had been notified to be on the lookout for Watts, who is well known in this section, having been employed at the Learned mill for a number of years.

ting a job, and in social and professional intercourse.

"Most girls need skilled guidance in the care of their skin and the arrangement of their hair. It is a highly individualized matter, and it is deeply involved in the discovery and release of your own authentic personality. Some girls may require but slight use of cosmetics. So much the better. But, on the whole, they become indispensable in women's equipment in facing the world, and the sensible thing is to learn how to use them effectively."

Then comes the voice record. It is a phonographic transcription of the girl's natural, conversational speaking voice. It is the take-off both for noting and curing defects of speech, and for discovering speech qualities and aptitudes indicating linguistic or histrionic talent worth cultivating. Good speech too, is emphasized as invaluable in a girl's life equipment.

Rigorous and continuous training follows up the record. Solomon, listing all the virtues of the perfect woman, concluded mournfully, "But where can such a woman be found?" After all these years, Stephens college, manned by a young and venturesome faculty, is out to supply the answer. They believe that by carefully selecting their students, and laying a foundation of perfect physical fitness and soundly conditioned behavior, they can achieve this desideratum of the ages—the perfect woman.

THE EDUCATION of body, mind and spirit is their three-part foundation. Before the girls are shepherded into their academic work, they must be made physically fit. That means not only sound physical health, but it means posture, carriage, ease and grace of movement, and that more subtle blend of intangibles called poise. This basic conditioning and exploration of minds and personalities gives the girls' mentors guidance for a high degree of selectiveness in leading them into their courses in the humanities and the liberal arts.

The opening stress on bodily fitness does not imply secondary interest in mind or spirit. Rather the contrary. Once the girls have shown their fitness for any academic subject, there are rigorous work-a-day standards of scholarship, with no short cuts and no concessions to sleazy or faddish educational techniques. And as they move along, there are repeated vocational aptitude tests. Latent capacities and interests are discovered and encouraged.

THE "PERFECT American woman," which is their objective, will be an effective person who will find her way in the world because her own unique resources have been found and developed. Just by way of contrast, run over a few of those mediaeval pictures of scholars, and on down to the Durer pictures of Melanothon and Erasmus—glum, emaciated, undernourished people who look the "before taking" picture in the old patent medicine advertisements.

Through the centuries there has been associated with scholarship painful abstemiousness, pious abnegation and doleful subservience to some relentless taskmaster. "Burning the midnight oil" has such an association. But at Stephens they keep the girls so fit they sate their souls with knowledge in an ordinary day shift, and have some fun at night, or get a beauty sleep.

Beauty, vitality, charm, health, poise and eager zest for life are cornerstones of this new curriculum in women's education. The foster-father of one of these Stephens girls is boiling with excitement over what the college is doing. "It is making my girl healthy, happy and useful," he said, "and what more can you ask of education than that?"

cupied Anchen, which is within eight miles of Wusih.

Four thousand Chinese troops retreated from Soochow after the Japanese took it in what one of their army spokesmen called "one of the most amazing captures of an important city in the annals of war."

A Domei (Japanese) news agency correspondent with the Japanese in Soochow reported the city was captured as a small vanguard of Japanese, hooded against the rain, walked through the gates unmolested and raised their flag on a pagoda.

Chinese troops, he said, were thrown into a panic and the Japanese who followed the vanguard quickly captured 2,000 of them.

One thousand other Chinese soldiers were killed in hand-to-hand fighting, he reported, and the remainder fled in confusion.

A Japanese army spokesman yesterday said Soochow fell without a shot being fired. He declared only a handful of dazed Chinese troops were in Soochow when 15 Japanese soldiers reached the gateway city to Nanking. Lack of Chinese resistance was attributed to extreme fatigue after long forced marches.

Chinese military officials today expressed hope that their troops who retreated from Soochow would be able to reform along the Kiangyin-Wusih line.

Advices from Nanking said a large number of troops was passing through that city. The soldiers apparently formed reconstructed and re-equipped divisions.

The Japanese advance now has brought Kwangfoh, where five American missionaries had established a refugee camp, within the Nipponese lines without known fighting.

The Americans therefore were considered safe.

A number of Americans and other foreigners were understood to have left Nanking for Hankow or other points up the Yangtze river but disrupted communications kept the details from Shanghai.

Foreign observers believed that political friction and military incompetence were largely responsible for China's reverses.

Expressing only praise for the bravery of Chinese troops, foreign military authorities criticized Chinese leadership for a fatal lack of cooperation and the breakdown of supply lines.

It was learned authoritatively that friction between the Nanking government and certain Chinese generals concerning troop disposition caused Chinese forces to be replaced in the Hangchow bay area the day Japanese units landed there. The new Chinese units wilted before the Japanese march inland, forcing China's withdrawal from Pootung and Hungjao, Shanghai sections that previously had been successfully defended.

Full evacuation of Nanking to Chungking, on the Yangtze river in Szechwan province, was not expected for at least a week, though the government had been moving its ministries for the past few days.

TEACHERS CLOSE ANNUAL MEETING

Adopt Resolutions Calling For More Adequate Yearly Salaries

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Louisiana Teachers association in closing session of the forty-fifth annual convention today adopted resolutions favoring "more adequate annual salaries" for teachers, "adequate sick leave," continuance of the teachers' tenure law, equalization of the pay of elementary and high school teachers and opposition to a change in the method of selecting of parish superintendents of education by school boards.

An incident of the final session was an attempt of a minority group of the association to condemn the "undercratic" method of election of officers. The move was defeated by an uncounted but overwhelming vote after it was explained by proponents that it was an effort to end the "caucus system" of nominating candidates. Successful opponents of the move argued that nominations were open from the floor and that the charge of undemocracy was incorrect.

The resolution condemning the caucus methods was offered by V. K. Fletcner, assistant principal at Selma, in behalf of the Grant Parish Teachers' association. Called upon to explain his resolution by E. R. Hester, principal of the Arcadia High school, Fletcher said that some of the members of the association, as well as the Grant parish group, were opposed to holding caucuses for the selection of candidates.

The resolution to condemn caucuses was defeated on a motion offered by E. R. Minchew to table.

After the vote had been taken, proponents of the Fletcher resolution held the floor and continued to protest against what they said they considered "undemocratic methods." One teacher said "we come to these conventions and find everything cut and dried. We don't know what is going on."

Miss Margaret Williams, New Orleans, one of the protestants, offered a motion providing "that in the future candidates give notice before hand of their candidacies."

"I think that is a good motion" said President L. E. Frazar. He called for a voice vote and it carried unanimously.

AMNESIA VICTIM RETURNS TO HOME

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—After being missing from his home and place of employment since Monday, James Watts, 45, saw filer of the A. B. Learned Saw mill of Natchez, Miss., returned home late Thursday night. He said he had crossed the Mississippi river into Louisiana, but did not remember what had happened. He added that his head was hurting him and that apparently he had been struck a blow over the head. An intensive search had been inaugurated by Chief of Police J. N. Stone of Natchez and Sheriff Audley B. Conner. Louisiana officials had been notified to be on the lookout for Watts, who is well known in this section, having been employed at the Learned mill for a number of years.

ting a job, and in social and professional intercourse.

"Most girls need skilled guidance in the care of their skin and the arrangement of their hair. It is a highly individualized matter, and it is deeply involved in the discovery and release of your own authentic personality. Some girls may require but slight use of cosmetics. So much the better. But, on the whole, they become indispensable in women's equipment in facing the world, and the sensible thing is to learn how to use them effectively."

Then comes the voice record. It is a phonographic transcription of the girl's natural, conversational speaking voice. It is the take-off both for noting and curing defects of speech, and for discovering speech qualities and aptitudes indicating linguistic or histrionic talent worth cultivating. Good speech too, is emphasized as invaluable in a girl's life equipment.

Rigorous and continuous training follows up the record. Solomon, listing all the virtues of the perfect woman, concluded mournfully, "But where can such a woman be found?" After all these years, Stephens college, manned by a young and venturesome faculty, is out to supply the answer. They believe that by carefully selecting their students, and laying a foundation of perfect physical fitness and soundly conditioned behavior, they can achieve this desideratum of the ages—the perfect woman.

THE EDUCATION of body, mind and spirit is their three-part foundation. Before the girls are shepherded into their academic work, they must be made physically fit. That means not only sound physical health, but it means posture, carriage, ease and grace of movement, and that more subtle blend of intangibles called poise. This basic conditioning and exploration of minds and personalities gives the girls' mentors guidance for a high degree of selectiveness in leading them into their courses in the humanities and the liberal arts.

The opening stress on bodily fitness does not imply secondary interest in mind or spirit. Rather the contrary. Once the girls have shown their fitness for any academic subject, there are rigorous work-a-day standards of scholarship, with no short cuts and no concessions to sleazy or faddish educational techniques. And as they move along, there are repeated vocational aptitude tests. Latent capacities and interests are discovered and encouraged.

THE "PERFECT American woman," which is their objective, will be an effective person who will find her way in the world because her own unique resources have been found and developed. Just by way of contrast, run over a few of those mediaeval pictures of scholars, and on down to the Durer pictures of Melanothon and Erasmus—glum, emaciated, undernourished people who look the "before taking" picture in the old patent medicine advertisements.

Through the centuries there has been associated with scholarship painful abstemiousness, pious abnegation and doleful subservience to some relentless taskmaster. "Burning the midnight oil" has such an association. But at Stephens they keep the girls so fit they sate their souls with knowledge in an ordinary day shift, and have some fun at night, or get a beauty sleep.

Beauty, vitality, charm, health, poise and eager zest for life are cornerstones of this new curriculum in women's education. The foster-father of one of these Stephens girls is boiling with excitement over what the college is doing. "It is making my girl healthy, happy and useful," he said, "and what more can you ask of education than that?"

cupied Anchen, which is within eight miles of Wusih.

Four thousand Chinese troops retreated from Soochow after the Japanese took it in what one of their army spokesmen called "one of the most amazing captures of an important city in the annals of war."

A Domei (Japanese) news agency correspondent with the Japanese in Soochow reported the city was captured as a small vanguard of Japanese, hooded against the rain, walked through the gates unmolested and raised their flag on a pagoda.

Chinese troops, he said, were thrown into a panic and the Japanese who followed the vanguard quickly captured 2,000 of them.

One thousand other Chinese soldiers were killed in hand-to-hand fighting, he reported, and the remainder fled in confusion.

A Japanese army spokesman yesterday said Soochow fell without a shot being fired. He declared only a handful of dazed Chinese troops were in Soochow when 15 Japanese soldiers reached the gateway city to Nanking. Lack of Chinese resistance was attributed to extreme fatigue after long forced marches.

Chinese military officials today expressed hope that their troops who retreated from Soochow would be able to reform along the Kiangyin-Wusih line.

Advices from Nanking said a large number of troops was passing through that city. The soldiers apparently formed reconstructed and re-equipped divisions.

The Japanese advance now has brought Kwangfoh, where five American missionaries had established a refugee camp, within the Nipponese lines without known fighting.

The Americans therefore were considered safe.

A number of Americans and other foreigners were understood to have left Nanking for Hankow or other points up the Yangtze river but disrupted communications kept the details from Shanghai.

Foreign observers believed that political friction and military incompetence were largely responsible for China's reverses.

Expressing only praise for the bravery of Chinese troops, foreign military authorities criticized Chinese leadership for a fatal lack of cooperation and the breakdown of supply lines.

It was learned authoritatively that friction between the Nanking government and certain Chinese generals concerning troop disposition caused Chinese forces to be replaced in the Hangchow bay area the day Japanese units landed there. The new Chinese units wilted before the Japanese march inland, forcing China's withdrawal from Pootung and Hungjao, Shanghai sections that previously had been successfully defended.

Full evacuation of Nanking to Chungking, on the Yangtze river in Szechwan province, was not expected for at least a week, though the government had been moving its ministries for the past few days.

CANNED BARN COSTS FARMER TRIVIAL SUM

SEMINOLE, Okla.—(AP)—Farmer Charles Tate's barn is built entirely of empty oil cans—4,100 of them donated by a motor company here.

The walls proper are constructed of 2,100 cans and 3,000 cans form the "lining." The barn is 20 feet long and nine feet wide and will house 100 White Leghorn chickens.

Total cost: 25 cents for nails.

PROGRESS MADE ON GRIGGS WELL

Good Oil Showing Reported In Concordia Wildcat Test

E. T. Oakes-Griggs No. 1, a test well for oil or gas located in section 36-18-1 west, Lincoln parish, half a mile west of the Ouachita parish line and approximately 19 miles west of Monroe, yesterday was reported drilling at 2,400 feet. Operators reported 10-inch surface casing was set at 950 feet and the well will be drilled to at least 6,000 feet. It is located in a block of approximately 12,000 acres assembled by Oakes, discoverer of the Lisbon oil field in Claiborne parish.

Reports were current in Monroe yesterday to the effect that the Coastal Minerals Development company had encountered a good showing of oil in a wildcat well drilled in Concordia parish on the plantation of S. L. Winston, Sr., prominent planter and a police juror.

The well is reported to have topped pay sand at 2,200 feet but salt water broke in during the testing of the well. It was reported the operators plan to cement the bottom of the hole in an effort to shut off the salt water.

Several wells drilled in Concordia parish in recent years have encountered strong gas showings but the Winston test is the first well which has showed any appreciable amount of oil, it was said.

OFFICERS INVESTIGATE ATTACK ON T. D. M'CLOUD

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Deputy Sheriffs J. D. Cross and Fred Schuchs, with the aid of state police and Chief of Police E. D. Burkin, continued their investigation of the mysterious attack on T. D. McCloud 48-year-old plantation owner of the Lake St. John community. McCloud was found in an unconscious condition on top of a levee near the 40-Acre store by several negroes early Thursday morning, suffering from wounds on the head and temple. He was carried to the Natchez Charity hospital.

Because of the fact that his condition was so grave physicians at the hospital refused to allow the planter to be questioned.

CONGRESS' CHIEF OBJECT RECOVERY

Makes Restoration Of Prosperity, And Not Reform, Its Goal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A recession and election-conscious special session of congress, called to expedite New Deal long range social and economic planning objectives, disclosed in its first week of confusion an urgent desire to make recovery, not reform, its goal.

It popped up in committees where responsible party leaders strove to urge some part of the president's legislative program through parliamentary snarls. It featured off-stage conferences between high ranking White House aides and congressional visitors. It doubtless was reflected in such indirect contacts as President Roosevelt himself had with legislative captains despite the tooth ailment that kept him away from his desk most of the week.

Yet it all produced no definite idea of what to do or when to do it to bolster faltering business. An admittedly overwhelming congressional sentiment to overhaul New Deal tax policies ran head-on into budget balancing difficulties.

That is where the political shoe pinches. Congress is ready for tax slashing moves to aid business but has found no other sources of revenue to fill the gap in the government purse they would thus create. It is confronted by a warning from Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee and likely leader of the tax revision drive next session, that too hasty action might force resort to a manufacturers' sales tax and to levying upon low income groups never before reached. And that, although the senator did not say so, on the eve of a congressional campaign.

The senate, unhampered by restrictive rules that make house revolt against administration leadership difficult, closed a week of talk-fest tactics to stall off a vote on the anti-lynching bill with intimations that some step, if no more than a gesture, might be taken there soon to assure business and the country that tax revision, budget balancing and any other possible action to reverse the recession cycle would be given right of way in the regular session.

Possibilities of attaching tax revision riders to unrelated house measures were explored; but with pessimistic warnings that house jealousy of its revenue initiation rights would compel the senate to wait on house action.

What some onlookers believe might happen is a move to put through a resolution pledging both congress and the president, if he signed it, to an immediate tax revision-budget balancing program when the regular session opens in January. There is little doubt that any such plan would rally strong support in both houses.

COTTON GIN USES FULL NEW SYSTEM

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A new type of cotton gin, which its inventor says will quadruple the production of ginned cotton, was viewed here today by S. H. McCrory, chief engineer of the United States bureau of agricultural engineering.

Frank H. Watson, of Bridgeport and Jonesboro, Ark., has applied for patents on the new gin in the United States and in Russia and other European countries.

The device, departing from the Eli Whitney gin invented in 1792, which uses saws and ribs to separate the lint from cotton seeds, employs a belt with hooked teeth revolving at a rate of from 3,500 to 4,000 feet a minute.

Centrifugal force throws the seed tangently from the belt while the hooked teeth carry the force to duffers.

Watson has had his invention housed in an experimental factory here for a year.

It was understood Secretary Wallace had delegated McCrory to study the device in an effort to determine its possible economic effect on the cotton industry. McCrory was accompanied by Charles F. Bennett of Leland, Miss., a department of agriculture expert on ginning operations.

NEGRO YOUTH SLIGHTLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Frank Smith, 16-year-old negro youth, was slightly injured Saturday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock when he was hit by an automobile near Girard. The negro was brought to St. Francis sanitarium where he was reported suffering from contusions on the head and back.

The car which struck the negro was driven by State Police Captain Rex Ensminger, who reported he was driving east on the highway when a truck and trailer pulled out of a parking place. The negro boy stepped from behind the trailer into the path of Captain Ensminger's car, who, although he applied his brakes, was unable to stop the machine in time to avoid hitting the youth.

Captain Ensminger took the negro in his automobile to Crew lake where an ambulance picked him up and brought him to the local hospital.

FOURTH VICTIM OF EXPLOSION EXPIRES

TYLER, Tex., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Thirteen-year-old Velma Hubbard died in a hospital here tonight, fourth and last member of her family to succumb to burns received when a gasoline stove exploded at their home at Arp early today.

The others, Bud Hubbard, 36, Velma's father, her mother, 30, and three-year-old brother, Roy, died this afternoon.

It was learned Hubbard repaired the gasoline heater yesterday, and today was pumping air into the gasoline tank, when it sprang a leak, spraying gasoline vapor into the rom.

The explosion occurred when the vapor came in contact with a fire.

GERTRUDE M'CARTHY AND CAFFERY WED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery and Miss Gertrude McCarthy of Chicago were married today by Sebastiao Cardinal Leme in the private chapel of the Arch Episcopal Palace at Sao Joaquim.

A message from Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, imparting the pope's blessing on the couple, was read at the conclusion of the two-ring ceremony before a small number of guests in the red and gold chapel.

The religious wedding was preceded by a civil ceremony held in the United States embassy.

CONGRESSMEN HOPE FOR LAKE CHARLES CHANNEL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Senator John H. Overton, of Louisiana, and Representative Rene L. DeRouen, Ville Platte, La., expressed hope the 1938 rivers and harbors appropriations bill would provide funds to start construction of the Lake Charles, La., deep water channel and the Pearl river waterway.

Both projects, the former to cost $2,200,000 and the latter $3,000,000, have been authorized.

DeRouen, rivers and harbors committee member, said the amount of money that might be appropriated depended upon engineers' estimates of the sum to be spent in the first year of construction. He said the estimates had not been announced.

The Lake Charles channel would afford a new and shorter route to the Gulf of Mexico for ocean vessels, while the Pearl river waterway was designed to provide intracoastal water transportation in the boundary area of southeastern Louisiana and south Mississippi.

PROGRESS MADE ON GRIGGS WELL

Good Oil Showing Reported In Concordia Wildcat Test

E. T. Oakes-Griggs No. 1, a test well for oil or gas located in section 36-18-1 west, Lincoln parish, half a mile west of the Ouachita parish line and approximately 19 miles west of Monroe, yesterday was reported drilling at 2,400 feet. Operators reported 10-inch surface casing was set at 950 feet and the well will be drilled to at least 6,000 feet. It is located in a block of approximately 12,000 acres assembled by Oakes, discoverer of the Lisbon oil field in Claiborne parish.

Reports were current in Monroe yesterday to the effect that the Coastal Minerals Development company had encountered a good showing of oil in a wildcat well drilled in Concordia parish on the plantation of S. L. Winston, Sr., prominent planter and a police juror.

The well is reported to have topped pay sand at 2,200 feet but salt water broke in during the testing of the well. It was reported the operators plan to cement the bottom of the hole in an effort to shut off the salt water.

Several wells drilled in Concordia parish in recent years have encountered strong gas showings but the Winston test is the first well which has showed any appreciable amount of oil, it was said.

OFFICERS INVESTIGATE ATTACK ON T. D. M'CLOUD

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Deputy Sheriffs J. D. Crors and Fred Schuchs, with the aid of state police and Chief of Police E. D. Burkin, continued their investigation of the mysterious attack on T. D. McCloud 48-year-old plantation owner of the Lake St. John community. McCloud was found in an unconscious condition on top of a levee near the 40-Acre store by several negroes early Thursday morning, suffering from wounds on the head and temple. He was carried to the Natchez Charity hospital.

Because of the fact that his condition was so grave physicians at the hospital refused to allow the planter to be questioned.

CONGRESS' CHIEF OBJECT RECOVERY

Makes Restoration Of Prosperity, And Not Reform, Its Goal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A recession and election-conscious special session of congress, called to expedite New Deal long range social and economic planning objectives, disclosed in its first week of confusion an urgent desire to make recovery, not reform, its goal.

It popped up in committees where responsible party leaders strove to urge some part of the president's legislative program through parliamentary snarls. It featured off-stage conferences between high ranking White House aides and congressional visitors. It doubtless was reflected in such indirect contacts as President Roosevelt himself had with legislative captains despite the tooth ailment that kept him away from his desk most of the week.

Yet it all produced no definite idea of what to do or when to do it to bolster faltering business. An admittedly overwhelming congressional sentiment to overhaul New Deal tax policies ran head-on into budget balancing difficulties.

That is where the political shoe pinches. Congress is ready for tax slashing moves to aid business but has found no other sources of revenue to fill the gap in the government purse they would thus create. It is confronted by a warning from Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee and likely leader of the tax revision drive next session, that too hasty action might force resort to a manufacturers' sales tax and to levying upon low income groups never before reached. And that, although the senator did not say so, on the eve of a congressional campaign.

The senate, unhampered by restrictive rules that make house revolt against administration leadership difficult, closed a week of talk-fest tactics to stall off a vote on the anti-lynching bill with intimations that some step, if no more than a gesture, might be taken there soon to assure business and the country that tax revision, budget balancing and any other possible action to reverse the recession cycle would be given right of way in the regular session.

Possibilities of attaching tax revision riders to unrelated house measures were explored; but with pessimistic warnings that house jealousy of its revenue initiation rights would compel the senate to wait on house action.

What some onlookers believe might happen is a move to put through a resolution pledging both congress and the president, if he signed it, to an immediate tax revision-budget balancing program when the regular session opens in January. There is little doubt that any such plan would rally strong support in both houses.

COTTON GIN USES FULL NEW SYSTEM

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A new type of cotton gin, which its inventor says will quadruple the production of ginned cotton, was viewed here today by S. H. McCrory, chief engineer of the United States bureau of agricultural engineering.

Frank H. Watson, of Bridgeport and Jonesboro, Ark., has applied for patents on the new gin in the United States and in Russia and other European countries.

The device, departing from the Eli Whitney gin invented in 1792, which uses saws and ribs to separate the lint from cotton seeds, employs a belt with hooked teeth revolving at a rate of from 3,500 to 4,000 feet a minute.

Centrifugal force throws the seed tangently from the belt while the hooked teeth carry the force to duffers.

Watson has had his invention housed in an experimental factory here for a year.

It was understood Secretary Wallace had delegated McCrory to study the device in an effort to determine its possible economic effect on the cotton industry. McCrory was accompanied by Charles F. Bennett of Leland, Miss., a department of agriculture expert on ginning operations.

NEGRO YOUTH SLIGHTLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Frank Smith, 16-year-old negro youth, was slightly injured Saturday afternoon about 1:30 o clock when he was hit by an automobile near Girard. The negro was brought to St. Francis sanitarium where he was reported suffering from contusions on the head and back.

The car which struck the negro was driven by State Police Captain Rex Ensminger, who reported he was driving east on the highway when a truck and trailer pulled out of a parking place. The negro boy stepped from behind the trailer into the path of Captain Ensminger's car, who, although he applied his brakes, was unable to stop the machine in time to avoid hitting the youth.

Captain Ensminger took the negro in his automobile to Crew lake where an ambulance picked him up and brought him to the local hospital.

FOURTH VICTIM OF EXPLOSION EXPIRES

TYLER, Tex., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Thirteen-year-old Velma Hubbard died in a hospital here tonight, fourth and last member of her family to succumb to burns received when a gasoline stove exploded at their home at Arp early today.

The others, Bud Hubbard, 36, Velma's father, her mother, 30, and three-year-old brother, Roy, died this afternoon.

It was learned Hubbard repaired the gasoline heater yesterday, and today was pumping air into the gasoline tank, when it sprang a leak, spraying gasoline vapor into the rom.

The explosion occurred when the vapor came in contact with a fire.

GERTRUDE M'CARTHY AND CAFFERY WED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery and Miss Gertrude McCarthy of Chicago were married today by Sebastiao Cardinal Leme in the private chapel of the Arch Episcopal Palace at Sao Joaquim.

A message from Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, imparting the pope's blessing on the couple, was read at the conclusion of the two-ring ceremony before a small number of guests in the red and gold chapel.

The religious wedding was preceded by a civil ceremony held in the United States embassy.

CONGRESSMEN HOPE FOR LAKE CHARLES CHANNEL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Senator John H. Overton, of Louisiana, and Representative Rene L. DeRouen, Ville Platte, La., expressed hope the 1938 rivers and harbors appropriations bill would provide funds to start construction of the Lake Charles, La., deep water channel and the Pearl river waterway.

Both projects, the former to cost $9,200,000 and the latter $3,000,000, have been authorized.

DeRouen, rivers and harbors committee member, said the amount of money that might be appropriated depended upon engineers' estimates of the sum to be spent in the first year of construction. He said the estimates had not been announced.

The Lake Charles channel would afford a new and shorter route to the Gulf of Mexico for ocean vessels, while the Pearl river waterway was designed to provide intracoastal water transportation in the boundary area of southeastern Louisiana and south Mississippi.

The Hope Of The World

A reader after listing the complications and conflicts in evidence all over this globe asks, "Is there any hope for this world?"

The question suggests that the inquirer has not fully grasped the purpose of this world.

The earthly sphere of life is not a particularly exalted one spiritually; or rather, we should say, this world is not populated with a grade of souls that are imbued with a high spiritual quality. They are here for a short while; they learn more or less about spiritual things, and pass on to another world.

There is no reason to believe that the grade of human souls coming into the world today is essentially any better than the grade that came at the beginning of recorded history.

Oh, yes, the conditions under which souls of today are living are better than they were thousands of years ago; the opportunities are better and the customs are better. The human soul is greatly influenced by the environment in which he is placed and the customs with which he is surrounded. In this way the soul has a better opportunity now to progress spiritually than ever before.

In prehistoric ages few persons had the chance to find out important truths which today are available to everyone. So today it is possible for the whole people to advance spiritually if they choose to do so. That was not the case thousands of years ago. If the same babies that came here then had been reared under the same conditions that prevail today, there is nothing to show that they would not have done just as well and just as badly as the babies born today.

Compare this world and its inhabitants with the first grade in grammar school and you will get the point. The children who enter the first grade in grammar school have about the same degree of intelligence as those who entered when the first grade of school was established. But today they make better progress because the equipment and environment of the first grade is better. However, if those pupils did not go higher than the first grade they would have no education worth mentioning. Except as the first grade is a preparation for a higher grade, it is educationally worthless. The first grade of itself is nothing and never will be. If pupils stopped with the first grade and there were no higher grades for them to go into, one might reasonably say there is no hope for the first grade.

So with this world; it is a low grade in preparation for other higher grades. If this is the height to which souls attain and there is no higher level, then indeed there is no hope; there is nothing to it. But if we look on this world as a grade in which to educate ourselves spiritually as a preparation for entering a higher sphere after leaving this one, then there is hope—not for this world, but for those who leave this world.

This world will probably never have a better grade of souls in it than it now has and always has had. But the training of souls that come here, the influences to which they are subjected, can be vastly improved. And that is the reason why we should constantly strive for better government and better social, educational and economic conditions, so that souls here may have the best possible environment and influence.

LAWS AND GOOD SENSE

The Philadelphia bureau of municipal research, trying to laugh obsolete ordinances from city records by publicizing ridiculous laws that were never repealed, is setting a good example for both sides over what is and what isn't constitutional.

Already unearthed are these sample verbotens: smoking on bridges, in public squares and parks; carrying umbrellas into public markets; riding velocipedes in parks.

Even in that day of simple living, those "lawless" actions involved no greater matters of public defense, health, morals or welfare. They involved nothing more than individual exercise of good taste and judgment by citizens.

A good many lawmakers today are making the same mistake of sticking their official noses in where they have no business. Merely by distinguishing between legal essentials and non-essentials, those lawmakers can save themselves from looking silly. It isn't a matter of the constitution at all.

TO DICTATORS (PERSONAL)

Once the "strong man" virus bites, the effect is hard to throw off. Even Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, fleeing from Berlin as his mirage of a place in the sun faded, found it difficult to forget the glory he left.

His party was halted at the Dutch border by a sergeant who requested their weapons. The retinue was aghast. "The emperor hand his sword to a common sergeant? The emperor will deal only with a general!"

That was on Armistice day, 1918. Twenty years later, celebrating the anniversary of his exile, Wilhelm is just the weariest and oldest of the Hohenzollerns, an exiled woodchopper and a classic example to the current set of dictators and international would-be's—if they were smart enough to know it.

Still, the people of all sections seem rather nice unless they make you feel inferior.

RHYME AND REASON

By ANNE CAMPBELL

PRIDE BEFORE A FALL HOLIDAY

The turkey gobbler proudly stalks
Around the new red barn.
Nobody stops him as he walks,
Or says a word to warn
Him of the fate of turkey-cocks!

The gobbler's feathers do not droop.
He is well satisfied!
Superior to chicken-coop,
And lesser fowl, his pride
Will land him shortly in the soup!

THE MACHINE A FRIEND

By BRUCE CATTON

What we are getting into right now may be another depression, a flare-back of the old one or just a mild "seasonal recession," but it is a pretty safe bet that before long someone will be standing up in meeting to blame it all on that old villain, The Machine.

The indictment is familiar to all of us. Work that used to be done by human hands is done nowadays by machines. The hands are idle, and the man who is attached to them is on nobody's payroll. Consequently he is not in the market for the goods the machines produce; consumption fails to keep up with demand, and every so often we get into the direst sort of mess.

But simply to restate the old indictment gets us nowhere. Old Man Machine has been in court periodically for about a decade now, and no one has any very clear idea about what, if anything, should be done. The one certainty is that he is here to stay and that we might just as well make the best of him.

And since that is true, it is worth while to have a look at the other side of the picture. That may help us to understand that our salvation lies in exploiting the machine to the very utmost rather than in any fruitless attempt to turn the clock back.

A little booklet which shows the machine's rating on the credit side of the ledger has just been produced by the National Machine Tool Builders' association.

The booklet invites you to go right down the line in your own home and see how the machine has made life easier and less expensive for you. The kitchen, for instance; it is infinitely handier than it was in grandmother's day, and it is the scene of far less drudgery. Why? Because of machinery.

About a dozen years ago the nation was producing some 200,000 electric refrigerators a year. They sold at about $400 apiece. Today, with production stepped up to 2,000,000 a year, the average price is $163—and you get a better refrigerator.

Go down in the basement and look at the washing machine. In 1921 the average washer cost $142; today's machine, which is much better, costs around $65. Or go out in the garage and inspect the family auto—and, as you do, reflect that 30 years ago the auto was a toy for the wealthy, whereas today the average auto-owning family has an income of about $30 a week. In that same period of time, incidentally, the average wage in the auto industry has risen from 25 to 80 cents an hour, and the number of auto workers has jumped from 80,000 to 400,000.

Now these are not exceptional cases. The same sort of thing is true all along the line. The machine age has made the things we use cheaper, better and more plentiful than they were a generation ago.

And our troubles, perhaps, have come because we have not gone far enough with the machine; not because we have gone too far. Abundance, cheapness, use—our salvation lies there, somewhere, instead of in demands that the machines be restrained.

A BOOK REVIEW

A BOOK FOR THOSE CONCERNED WITH THE LEGAL PHASES OF INVENTION

Harry Aubrey Toulmin, Jr., one of the most prominent attorneys of the middle west, has made a contribution of tremendous importance to the members of his own profession and to the field of invention as well by his new book, "Invention and the Law," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York.

The book, probably the first of its kind ever compiled, discusses virtually every important court decision on patentable inventions. It is especially designed to assist the lawyer in the preparation of any case involving inventions and brings to bear on the subject an impartial presentation of both the pro and the con decisions in a vast variety of issues brought before the courts. Thus the book provides for the trial table in a single volume, a summary of the findings of the court in succinct, helpful and reasonably complete form the author's ordered presentation. It covers statements of the principle at issue in each case, supported by quotations from the opinions of the supreme court of the United States and the various United States circuit courts of appeal. The author buttresses his examination of various decisions by citing cases on the subject from the British courts, with the explanation that those decisions are of leading importance in arriving at legal conclusions in this country.

Mr. Toulmin is by no means unknown to the literary world. This is his third book. An earlier one, demonstrating his familiarity with economic as well as legal questions, is "Millions in Mergers." In "With Pershing in Mexico" Mr. Toulmin stresses an entirely different familiarity, that of his knowledge of military tactics. His experience as a cavalry officer in the Pershing forces which went into Mexico in 1916 is a highly intelligent treatise on the lessons learned from that campaign.

The author is one of the most distinguished members of the American bar. His home is in Dayton, O., and he is acknowledged as one of the most able attorneys practicing before the United States supreme court. His new book is worth the most ardent perusal by lawyers and by laymen who have any interest at all in the subject of patentable inventions.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

A columnist's mail is, I believe, his most highly appreciated reward. Some of the more self opinionated and free advice givers of the guild profess to receive many lambasting epistles. I do not receive a dozen mean tempered letters a year, although I do receive many which conscientiously do not agree with me and object to something I have written.

But in the main, the correspondence is encouraging and stimulating. As I write for some 500 newspapers and one of the largest circulating magazines, the mail is necessarily large. And long experience has developed an uncanny "feel" of a letter's contents. I have been so impressed I have discussed it with psychologists and hand-writing experts.

I invariably know before opening a letter whether it is pleasant or unpleasant and whether or not it will be interesting to me. I never miss. The most vicious letters are from the Broadway environs, the most tolerant from the far west—California, Nevada, Washington and Oregon.

Seamen, as a rule, are interesting letter writers. Especially when they describe their travels. I have a correspondent in Port Said, an Eurasian lady with a quaint philosophy. She writes me twice a year—the dates always are February 12 and July 7. And a beach-comber in the South Seas sends me refreshing slants on a mind once active that now concentrates on merely lazing while the world drifts along.

I have many correspondents among nice old ladies because, I presume, of my many grandma references. It is surprising how alert they are to the modern viewpoint. Men in prison rarely write without a touch of bitterness, and they can scarcely be blamed for that.

Carolyn Wells thinks the dandiest opening for a book was in George du Maurier's "Trilby." Thus:

"It was a fine, sunny, showery day in April. The big studio window was open at the top, and let in a pleasant breeze from the northwest."

An interesting letter, in a Pennsylvania boarding school hand, came recently. The writer applied for a position as a house servant. We had a feeling the letter was written by someone else, so we had the writer call. She was a highly educated woman in her late 20's. Her marriage and comfortable fortune had gone on the rocks, and she had calmly analyzed her situation and arrived at this conclusion: "I had domestic science training and, being unfitted for any specialized work, saw that I could, by becoming a domestic, reside in respectable neighborhoods, eat the best of food and at current wages could save more than most professional women. It became a question of swallowing my pride or going on relief."

Cal Tinney is, many believe, the nearest in manners and approach to Will Rogers. Born in Oklahoma, he syndicates a daily paragraph of homely wit and is also featured on the radio. He has a drawl and a natural hesitancy in speech that makes him remindful of the famous and beloved cowboy—but like so many, he lacks that certain something Rogers had that cannot be duplicated.

One of the comic gestures of the cafes after war was declared with Germany took place at the Kaiserhoff, a Teutonic eating place on Broadway below Forty-second street a few steps. Three days after the declaration of war, the name Kaiserhoff was shining clearly in white against a fluttering red, white and blue background of an electrically lighted American flag.

A dining out rhyme:
Elbows on the table,
Cigarets in the air,
So, ten thousand Mabels
Are dining everywhere.

Baseball fans seem to think Babe Ruth has been treated rather shabbily after his years of filling box-office tills. Babe, it appears, wants a managerial berth of some class A club, but all the club owners are "in conference" when he calls. Fans as well as sports writers believe he would make a good pilot for any club. He has had the experience, and while he is a natural slugger he has also always played heady ball. Babe is, of course, not starving. He put by for the inevitable rainy day but he is tired of just playing golf and going to see other teams play. It would seem as little as the big club owners could do to get together and find some outlet for his talents.

SENSING British strategy, Gen George Washington in October 1776, withdrew his forces from the north end of Manhattan and concentrated them in the much stronger position near White Plains, N. Y.

Capt. Nathan Hale had just been captured on Manhattan Island, while seeking information within the British lines, and had been executed as a spy.

On the 28th General Howe advanced to Washington's position and found the Americans strongly intrenched and quite equal in numbers. He hesitated, doubted and, finally, spurred on to do something, sent 4000 men to storm Chatterton's hill. After a sharp, short action, some 1600 Americans retreated to the main army, having lost only half as many men as the British.

Encouraged, Howe then sent for reinforcements and waited two days. The third it rained, and the next, when Howe finally moved, he found Washington had withdrawn to a higher and quite impregnable position. Here Washington held all the passes and awaited attack. Howe studied the picture for two or three days longer and then withdrew without a shot to Dobb's Ferry, a wasted maneuver. The so-called battle of White Plains is commemorated by a 1926 U. S. stamp.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

There are references to hair dyes in the literature of ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome. Today, people still dye their hair. Everyone, therefore, ought to be familiar with the dangers and difficulties associated with the process.

Ever since the first woman looked into a mirror and decided that she might look better with some modifications, women have been tampering with their faces and their hair. That is why so many thousands of preparations for this purpose are on the market.

There is no substance known that will restore the original color to gray hair, regardless of what the hair may have looked like in the first place. Nevertheless, women spend thousands of dollars a year on preparations supposed to have this virtue.

Among the vegetable dyes used for the hair, henna is the best known, but indigo wood extracts, sage and camomile meal have also been popular.

Dyes are difficult to prepare. The results are not permanent because the hair grows. Most of the dyes do not penetrate the hair shaft, but merely coat it. Furthermore, repeated use of dyes makes the hair brittle. Hair treated with most of these dyes as well as with hydrogen peroxide is likely to appear in peculiar colors and sometimes even with a spotted appearance.

A perfect job of hair dyeing means matching the hair precisely; it means complete dyeing at least once each month, with touching up in between times.

For bleaching the hair, hydrogen peroxide is most commonly employed. While the substance itself will not always injure the hair, the ammonia which is applied with it will make the hair brittle and even destroy it.

Camomile meal, used to produce a red color in dark hair or a gold color in light hair, must be prepared with the greatest care to get a uniform result.

Henna is probably the oldest of all of the hair dyes. It gives a copper color to dark hair, but if the hair is gray the henna produces a red color.

Paraphenylendiamine produces shades varying from auburn to brown and black. In those people who are susceptible—and it would seem that this includes from 3 to 5 per cent of all people—this product will produce a serious reaction in the skin. Furthermore, the mere fact that a person has been using this hair dye successfully is no indication that he may not at some time suddenly develop sensitivity to it.

Hair dressers are advised, therefore, to test a small patch of the preparation on a small part of the skin before applying it en masse.

TEACHERS RETURN FROM CONVENTION

Local delegates and teachers who attended the annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers' association in Shreveport returned Saturday night well pleased with the results of the series of meetings which started Thursday and continued through Friday and Saturday.

A number of teachers from the parish, city and St. Matthew's schools and from the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university attended.

Those who attended from Northeast Center were Dean C. C. Colvert, Miss Grace Ingledue, George T. Walker and Dr. Hosea Phillips.

Mr. Walker, head of the department of commerce, addressed the commercial education of the association with the subject, "Should Shorthand and Typewriting Be Taught in Smaller High Schools?"

Miss Grace Ingledue, instructor in speech, and editor of the Louisiana Speech Journal, spoke at the convention on "The Grapevine Route—Or" which was the somewhat unusual title of a journalistic theme.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Farm legislation on the preferred list for the speci session and a new, de luxe farm pr gram—embodying the allegedly be features of previous programs plu certain new ones—will emerge befor the 75th congress marches home to th 1938 elections.

Just as the new program will b fancier—and perhaps more effectiv it also will be more expensive. Guess run all the way from $600,000,000 to billion dollars a year.

Although disputes may rage amon Secretary Wallace, the farm organiz tions and farm-interested leaders c Capitol Hill, the main features of th measure finally passed are fairly su to include:

1—Continuation of the present "sc conservation" program with its cr control program, payments to farme for allocation of crop land to "soi building" crops and base acreages f cotton, wheat, corn, rice and toba co.

2—Revival of the old AAA volu tary adjustment programs, includi the system of benefit payments, a production "goals."

3—An ever-normal granary syste under which farmers would store enough in good crop years to car the country through lean crop year with farmers receiving commodi loans conditional on acreage redu tion promises. This system would a ply to cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco a rice and probably other crops.

4—A new policy of attempting maintain "parity income" for farme —an extension of the old AAA "pari price" policy. When it is impossib or seems inadvisable to push prices to "parity," benefit payments could paid with the aim of establishi farmer incomes on a base comparab with the relation of farmer and no farmer incomes in the period 1909-

5—Revival of processing taxes, least on cotton and wheat. Roosev insists on new taxes to cover any ad ed expense of the new farm progra and the whole program's probable c will be about $500,000,000 plus the to revenue from processing taxes.

Urge Compulsory Control

The most controversial aspect of cu rent pow-wows over farm legislati concerns Secretary Wallace's des that the ever-normal granary be pr tected from disastrous experienc such as the old federal farm board by some form of compulsory contr His idea is to establish marketi quotas and impose punitive fines, s of 50 per cent, on each bushel sold an individual in excess of quota. A time the granary began to bulge, W lace contends, it would be essential apply some instrument which will p vent the "surplus reserves" from b coming too top-heavy.

Other important figures among th framing legislation, including Cha man Marvin Jones of the house ag culture committee, feel that the voluntary AAA system will take c of the situation and that compuls control tends to encourage forei competition with agricultural expo Jones, however, agrees that comp sory control is needed for tobac and Wallace is veering toward adm sion that it isn't necessary for crops. So compromise is likely. there is still a third group which see to prefer unlimited production, w full subsidy and some arrangement "dump" surpluses abroad.

Need Court Somersault

There are other complicating fact in the background:

No one in congress or the admin tration appears interested in the f that measures planned will require complete supreme court somersault they are to be found constitution Political expediences have become extricably intertwined with farn needs and problems and the natio need for farmer purchasing pow Cotton brokerage houses and simi interests are more effective beh scenes than is ordinarily supposed.

Conflicts of south and west, al with plans of southern Democra leaders to wrest party leadership fr Roosevelt, are likely to gum so things up. And, regardless of the tent and content of whatever congr may pass, pressure groups are alm sure to be able to influence admin tration of the new act in ways wh will be of no benefit to consumers a taxpayers.

The Hope Of The World

A reader after listing the complications and conflicts in evidence all over this globe asks, "Is there any hope for this world?"

The question suggests that the inquirer has not fully grasped the purpose of this world.

The earthly sphere of life is not a particularly exalted one spiritually; or rather, we should say, this world is not populated with a grade of souls that are imbued with a high spiritual quality. They are here for a short while; they learn more or less about spiritual things, and pass on to another world.

There is no reason to believe that the grade of human souls coming into the world today is essentially any better than the grade that came at the beginning of recorded history.

Oh, yes, the conditions under which souls of today are living are better than they were thousands of years ago; the opportunities are better and the customs are better. The human soul is greatly influenced by the environment in which he is placed and the customs with which he is surrounded. In this way the soul has a better opportunity now to progress spiritually than ever before.

In prehistoric ages few persons had the chance to find out important truths which today are available to everyone. So today it is possible for the whole people to advance spiritually if they choose to do so. That was not the case thousands of years ago. If the same babies that came here then had been reared under the same conditions that prevail today, there is nothing to show that they would not have done just as well and just as badly as the babies born today.

Compare this world and its inhabitants with the first grade in grammar school and you will get the point. The children who enter the first grade in grammar school have about the same degree of intelligence as those who entered when the first grade of school was established. But today they make better progress because the equipment and environment of the first grade is better. However, if those pupils did not go higher than the first grade they would have no education worth mentioning. Except as the first grade is a preparation for a higher grade, it is educationally worthless. The first grade of itself is nothing and never will be. If pupils stopped with the first grade and there were no higher grades for them to go into, one might reasonably say there is no hope for the first grade.

So with this world; it is a low grade in preparation for other higher grades. If this is the height to which souls attain and there is no higher level, then indeed there is no hope; there is nothing to it. But if we look on this world as a grade in which to educate ourselves spiritually as a preparation for entering a higher sphere after leaving this one, then there is hope—not for this world, but for those who leave this world.

This world will probably never have a better grade of souls in it than it now has and always has had. But the training of souls that come here, the influences to which they are subjected, can be vastly improved. And that is the reason why we should constantly strive for better government and better social, educational and economic conditions, so that souls here may have the best possible environment and influence.

LAWS AND GOOD SENSE

The Philadelphia bureau of municipal research, trying to laugh obsolete ordinances from city records by publicizing ridiculous laws that were never repealed, is setting a good example for both sides over what is and what isn't constitutional.

Already unearthed are these sample verbotens: smoking on bridges, in public squares and parks; carrying umbrellas into public markets; riding velocipedes in parks.

Even in that day of simple living, those "lawless" actions involved no greater matters of public defense, health, morals or welfare. They involved nothing more than individual exercise of good taste and judgment by citizens.

A good many lawmakers today are making the same mistake of sticking their official noses in where they have no business. Merely by distinguishing between legal essentials and non-essentials, those lawmakers can save themselves from looking silly. It isn't a matter of the constitution at all.

TO DICTATORS (PERSONAL)

Once the "strong man" virus bites, the effect is hard to throw off. Even Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, fleeing from Berlin as his mirage of a place in the sun faded, found it difficult to forget the glory he left.

His party was halted at the Dutch border by a sergeant who requested their weapons. The retinue was aghast. "The emperor hand his sword to a common sergeant? The emperor will deal only with a general!"

That was on Armistice day, 1918. Twenty years later, celebrating the anniversary of his exile, Wilhelm is just the weariest and oldest of the Hohenzollerns, an exiled woodchopper and a classic example to the current set of dictators and international would-be's—if they were smart enough to know it.

Still, the people of all sections seem rather nice unless they make you feel inferior.

RHYME AND REASON

By ANNE CAMPBELL

PRIDE BEFORE A FALL HOLIDAY

The turkey gobbler proudly stalks
Around the new red barn.
Nobody stops him as he walks,
Or says a word to warn
Him of the fate of turkey-cocks!

The gobbler's feathers do not droop.
He is well satisfied!
Superior to chicken-coop,
And lesser fowl, his pride
Will land him shortly in the soup!

THE MACHINE A FRIEND

By BRUCE CATTON

What we are getting into right now may be another depression, a flareback of the old one or just a mild "seasonal recession," but it is a pretty safe bet that before long someone will be standing up in meeting to blame it all on that old villain, The Machine.

The indictment is familiar to all of us. Work that used to be done by human hands is done nowadays by machines. The hands are idle, and the man who is attached to them is on nobody's payroll. Consequently he is not in the market for the goods the machines produce; consumption fails to keep up with demand, and every so often we get into the direst sort of mess.

But simply to restate the old indictment gets us nowhere. Old Man Machine has been in court periodically for about a decade now, and no one has any very clear idea about what, if anything, should be done. The one certainty is that he is here to stay and that we might just as well make the best of him.

And since that is true, it is worth while to have a look at the other side of the picture. That may help us to understand that our salvation lies in exploiting the machine to the very utmost rather than in any fruitless attempt to turn the clock back.

A little booklet which shows the machine's rating on the credit side of the ledger has just been produced by the National Machine Tool Builders' association.

The booklet invites you to go right down the line in your own home and see how the machine has made life easier and less expensive for you. The kitchen, for instance; it is infinitely handier than it was in grandmother's day, and it is the scene of far less drudgery. Why? Because of machinery.

About a dozen years ago the nation was producing some 200,000 electric refrigerators a year. They sold at about $400 apiece. Today, with production stepped up to 2,000,000 a year, the average price is $163—and you get a better refrigerator.

Go down in the basement and look at the washing machine. In 1921 the average washer cost $142; today's machine, which is much better, costs around $65. Or go out in the garage and inspect the family auto—and, as you do, reflect that 30 years ago the auto was a toy for the wealthy, whereas today the average auto-owning family has an income of about $30 a week. In that same period of time, incidentally, the average wage in the auto industry has risen from 25 to 80 cents an hour, and the number of auto workers has jumped from 80,000 to 400,000.

Now these are not exceptional cases. The same sort of thing is true all along the line. The machine age has made the things we use cheaper, better and more plentiful than they were a generation ago.

And our troubles, perhaps, have come because we have not gone far enough with the machine; not because we have gone too far. Abundance, cheapness, use—our salvation lies there, somewhere, instead of in demands that the machines be restrained.

A BOOK REVIEW

A BOOK FOR THOSE CONCERNED WITH THE LEGAL PHASES OF INVENTION

Harry Aubrey Toulmin, Jr., one of the most prominent attorneys of the middle west, has made a contribution of tremendous importance to the members of his own profession and to the field of invention as well by his new book, "Invention and the Law," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York.

The book, probably the first of its kind ever compiled, discusses virtually every important court decision on patentable inventions. It is especially designed to assist the lawyer in the preparation of any case involving inventions and brings to bear on the subject an impartial presentation of both the pro and the con decisions in a vast variety of issues brought before the courts. Thus the book provides for the trial table in a single volume, a summary of the findings of the court in succinct, helpful and reasonably complete form the author's ordered presentation. It covers statements of the principle at issue in each case, supported by quotations from the opinions of the supreme court of the United States and the various United States circuit courts of appeal. The author buttresses his examination of various decisions by citing cases on the subject from the British courts, with the explanation that those decisions are of leading importance in arriving at legal conclusions in this country.

Mr. Toulmin is by no means unknown to the literary world. This is his third book. An earlier one, demonstrating his familiarity with economic as well as legal questions, is "Millions in Mergers." In "With Pershing in Mexico" Mr. Toulmin stresses an entirely different familiarity, that of his knowledge of military tactics. His experience as a cavalry officer in the Pershing forces which went into Mexico in 1916 is a highly intelligent treatise on the lessons learned from that campaign.

The author is one of the most distinguished members of the American bar. His home is in Dayton, O., and he is acknowledged as one of the most able attorneys practicing before the United States supreme court. His new book is worth the most ardent perusal by lawyers and by laymen who have any interest at all in the subject of patentable inventions.

A columnist's mail is, I believe, his most highly appreciated reward. Some of the more self opinionated and free advice givers of the guild profess to receive many lambasting epistles. I do not receive a dozen mean tempered letters a year, although I do receive many which conscientiously do not agree with me and object to something I have written.

But in the main, the correspondence is encouraging and stimulating. As I write for some 500 newspapers and one of the largest circulating magazines, the mail is necessarily large. And long experience has developed an uncanny "feel" of a letter's contents. I have been so impressed I have discussed it with psychologists and hand-writing experts.

I invariably know before opening a letter whether it is pleasant or unpleasant and whether or not it will be interesting to me. I never miss. The most vicious letters are from the Broadway environs, the most tolerant from the far west—California, Nevada, Washington and Oregon.

Seamen, as a rule, are interesting letter writers. Especially when they describe their travels. I have a correspondent in Port Said, an Eurasian lady with a quaint philosophy. She writes me twice a year—the dates always are February 12 and July 7. And a beach-comber in the South Seas sends me refreshing slants on a mind once active that now concentrates on merely lazing while the world drifts along.

I have many correspondents among nice old ladies because, I presume, of my many grandma references. It is surprising how alert they are to the modern viewpoint. Men in prison rarely write without a touch of bitterness, and they can scarcely be blamed for that.

Carolyn Wells thinks the dandiest opening for a book was in George du Maurier's "Trilby." Thus:

"It was a fine, sunny, showery day in April. The big studio window was open at the top, and let in a pleasant breeze from the northwest."

An interesting letter, in a Pennsylvania boarding school hand, came recently. The writer applied for a position as a house servant. We had a feeling the letter was written by someone else, so we had the writer call. She was a highly educated woman in her late 20's. Her marriage and comfortable fortune had gone on the rocks, and she had calmly analyzed her situation and arrived at this conclusion: "I had domestic science training and, being unfitted for any specialized work, saw that I could, by becoming a domestic, reside in respectable neighborhoods, eat the best of food and at current wages could save more than most professional women. It became a question of swallowing my pride or going on relief."

Cal Tinney is, many believe, the nearest in manners and approach to Will Rogers. Born in Oklahoma, he syndicates a daily paragraph of homely wit and is also featured on the radio. He has a drawl and a natural hesitancy in speech that makes him remindful of the famous and beloved cowboy—but like so many, he lacks that certain something Rogers had that cannot be duplicated.

One of the comic gestures of the cafes after war was declared with Germany took place at the Kaiserhoff, a Teutonic eating place on Broadway below Forty-second street a few steps. Three days after the declaration of war, the name Kaiserhoff was shining clearly in white against a fluttering red, white and blue background of an electrically lighted American flag.

A dining out rhyme:
Elbows on the table,
Cigarets in the air,
So, ten thousand Mabels
Are dining everywhere.

Baseball fans seem to think Babe Ruth has been treated rather shabbily after his years of filling box-office tills. Babe, it appears, wants a managerial berth of some class A club, but all the club owners are "in conference" when he calls. Fans as well as sports writers believe he would make a good pilot for any club. He has had the experience, and while he is a natural slugger he has also always played heady ball. Babe is, of course, not starving. He put by for the inevitable rainy day but he is tired of just playing golf and going to see other teams play. It would seem as little as the big club owners could do to get together and find some outlet for his talents.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Farm legislation is on the preferred list for the special session and a new, de luxe farm program—embodying the allegedly best features of previous programs plus certain new ones—will emerge before the 75th congress marches home to the 1938 elections.

Just as the new program will be fancier—and perhaps more effective, it also will be more expensive. Guesses run all the way from $600,000,000 to a billion dollars a year.

Although disputes may rage among Secretary Wallace, the farm organizations and farm-interested leaders on Capitol Hill, the main features of the measure finally passed are fairly sure to include:

1—Continuation of the present "soil conservation" program with its crop control program, payments to farmers for allocation of crop land to "soil-building" crops and base acreages for cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco.

2—Revival of the old AAA voluntary adjustment programs, including the system of benefit payments, and production "goals."

3—An ever-normal granary system under which farmers would store up enough in good crop years to carry the country through lean crop years, with farmers receiving commodity loans conditional on acreage reduction promises. This system would apply to cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice and probably other crops.

4—A new policy of attempting to maintain "parity income" for farmers—an extension of the old AAA "parity price" policy. When it is impossible or seems inadvisable to push prices up to "parity," benefit payments could be paid with the aim of establishing farmer incomes on a base comparable with the relation of farmer and non-farmer incomes in the period 1909-14.

5—Revival of processing taxes, at least on cotton and wheat. Roosevelt insists on new taxes to cover any added expense of the new farm program and the whole program's probable cost will be about $500,000,000 plus the total revenue from processing taxes.

Urge Compulsory Control

The most controversial aspect of current pow-wows over farm legislation concerns Secretary Wallace's desire that the ever-normal granary be protected from disastrous experiences, such as the old federal farm board's, by some form of compulsory control. His idea is to establish marketing quotas and impose punitive fines, say of 50 per cent, on each bushel sold by an individual in excess of quota. Any time the granary began to bulge, Wallace contends, it would be essential to apply some instrument which will prevent the "surplus reserves" from becoming too top-heavy.

Other important figures among those framing legislation, including Chairman Marvin Jones of the house agriculture committee, feel that the old voluntary AAA system will take care of the situation and that compulsory control tends to encourage foreign competition with agricultural exports. Jones, however, agrees that compulsory control is needed for tobacco, and Wallace is veering toward admission that it isn't necessary for all crops. So compromise is likely. But there is still a third group which seems to prefer unlimited production, with full subsidy and some arrangement to "dump" surpluses abroad.

Need Court Somersault

There are other complicating factors in the background:

No one in congress or the administration appears interested in the fact that measures planned will require a complete supreme court somersault if they are to be found constitutional. Political expediences have become inextricably intertwined with farmer needs and problems and the nation's need for farmer purchasing power. Cotton brokerage houses and similar interests are more effective behind scenes than is ordinarily supposed.

Conflicts of south and west, along with plans of southern Democratic leaders to wrest party leadership from Roosevelt, are likely to gum some things up. And, regardless of the intent and content of whatever congress may pass, pressure groups are almost sure to be able to influence administration of the new act in ways which will be of no benefit to consumers and taxpayers.

100 MORE LEGION MEMBERS SOUGHT

One hundred additional memberships in the American Legion are being sought by Sam A. Orchard, fifth district commander, by November 27. This is in accord with information that he has just received from L. L. McCormick, department vice-commander in charge of membership. Mr. McCormick stated in a letter that at least 100 memberships are now needed in this area in order to have at least 300 more memberships received in department headquarters by November 27.

Provided this can be accomplished, the department of Louisiana will make good the promise of the department commander to have 10,025 enrolled in national headquarters on November 30. It will also mean that this department will be placed as third in the "big ten."

The department vice-commander paid a high tribute to Mr. Orchard for his work and excellent co-operation generally in the campaign for members as reported on Armistice day.

LASALLE PARISH FARM GROUPS TO BE ELECTED

JENA, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—A series of farmers meetings will be held in LaSalle parish, beginning Monday, for the purpose of electing community committeemen to serve in the administration of the federal agricultural program for next year.

The meetings will be held as follows:

Monday—Antioch, 8:30 a.m.; Rosefield, 10:30 a.m.; Olla, 2:30 p.m.

Tuesday—Cypress Bayou, 7 a.m.; Searcy, 2:30 p.m.

Wednesday—Jena, 1 p.m.

'POSSUMS HUNTED BY LEAN HOUNDS

Season Opens In Louisiana But Much Of Former Excitement Gone

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Lean hounds, under frosted moonbeams, once more are baying through woodlands of the south behind 'possums scurrying for trees and holes, but:

Old-timers who reminisce over such things as hoop-skirts, show-boats, carriage horses and duels, are sad.

"Time was," they say, "when 'possum hunting was something. It was excitement, mystery, danger. Tally-hoing behind 'possums had it all over fox chasing.

"But what has happened?

"Where are the merry parties that took bracers to ward off the nipping chill of night air and headed over hills and down valleys behind noisy dogs?

"Where are the gallant gentlemen who chanced sharp teeth by climbing trees and shaking cornered 'possums into sacks held by other gentlemen as pretty ladies screamed in frightened excitement?

"And where are the after-hunt camp fires where food was plentiful, conversation sparkled, belles flirted with beaux and yarn-spinners thrived?

"Nowadays it's movies, radios, automobiles.

"And who's doing the hunting? Unromantic woodsmen getting maybe 25 or 30 cents for skins."

But the season is on just the same and from now until January or February the hounds will run and the 'possums will die and some few folks will carry on bravely with the old traditions of the chase.

Almost all the states say you can hunt at night but a few, like Louisiana, make you rely on dogs, sticks, sacks and bare hands—not guns—as weapons.

And negroes are back in the roasting and baking heaven of 'possum and 'taters.

The Louisiana season which opened today, will end in February.

THEFT REPORTED

Jesse Grisham, 203 Mitchell's lane, West Monroe, yesterday reported to the Monroe police department the theft of an overcoat and hat which he said were stolen Friday night from an automobile which was parked at the Lakeside Country club.

THE BABY HAS GOT A TOOTH

Do get up and light the fire; go and tell your Aunt Mariar, that our President has got an aching tooth. I figure that the lucky dog that falls heir to this discarded molar—and be allowed to carry it in his vest pocket instead of the proverbial rabbit foot will strike oil or turn out to be a hero—in the way of killing sows with pigs, cows with calves and plowing up cotton. The money blowed for this project would have paid the cost of unporting chops and feed stuff for two months—until the pastures grew green—and beef steak at 40 cents a pound, for my people, the poor.

The more I learn about present day prosperity, the more I admire the picture of Washington crossing the Delaware and General Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans and his squirrel hunting soldiers with their muzzle loading, flint lock rifles, bales of cotton for breast works and the Star Spangled colors. Is it possible that the red blood of American patriotism has congealed and turned to skimmed sheep's milk—when so many have laid down their lives in order that my people, the poor, might exist.

I am for the over-taxed underdog—even on down to the grave, my coffin painted green for IRELAND and the American flag of 1776 engraved on my tombstone—and if the good Lord will extend my life, I am and will be for fighting for the cause of Jimmie Noe for our Governor. This generous, fine gentleman befriended me when my afflicted wife was in Pineville asylum, and allowed me to bring her home. I ask the public to excuse my rustic, rough way of expressing my sincere feelings toward this ex-soldier of the World war. I would go to H— for Jimmie Noe, if necessary.

I am not in politics for a dime, nor a dollar. At one time I gave $1,500.00 cash in behalf of old age pensions. I would not turn on my heel for a lousy political dollar. Christ himself preached humility and in his bare feet. This 252 pounds of luxury-taxing-the-widow-2-per-cent-on-her-husband's-drug-bill-and-funeral-expenses will be fought by me to the last ditch. Put me in jail if you like, but you cannot silence my guns of justice in behalf of American womanhood, the babies and the memory of Betty Ross who made the first American flag.

THE WORD "LUXURY" is misleading in name and purpose, so far as the poor and needy are concerned. There are so many taxes on a loaf of bread that there is no room left for the butter, if they could afford butter. There are many other items being vital and absolutely necessary to sustain life in the bodies of the poor, and love and courage in their hearts. I will enumerate them in the future and will specify as to the unfairness of persecuting MY PEOPLE, THE POOR. We never miss the water until the well runs dry. We quarreled and fussed, and finally crucified our Lord and Savior on the cross. They assassinated Huey P. Long, the truly true poor man's friend, the greatest statesman from the Pelican State; and Jimmie Noe and Paul Fink seem to be about his only real color bearers in Ouachita and Jackson Parish today.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB ORGANIZED

Northeast Center Group Plans To Conduct Series Of Debates

The Social Science club, sponsored by L. M. Norton in conjunction with all the other social science instructors at Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, has been organized. Gilbert Brown has been named president and Florence Young secretary.

The purpose of the club is to study and discuss social and political problems of the day. A general discussion in open forums of problems dealing with sociology, history, government and psychology is one of the main features of the newly-organized club. Later in the year it is proposed to form a debating team and conduct intercollegiate debates.

The club will meet Friday at the activity period. For the next meeting it has been planned to make a study of "Robert's Rules of Order." At the following meeting there will be a discussion of the Sino-Japanese war, in which viewpoints of both warring nations will be considered.

This is the first club of the sort ever organized at the local Center and it promises to be highly interesting and successful.

BAPTIST CHILDREN TO GIVE PROGRAM

Rev. L. A. Materne, field representative of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, and a group of children from the home will render a program at the First Baptist church today at 11 a. m.

November has been designated among Southern Baptists as "Orphanage month" and all over the southland at Thanksgiving time offerings of food and clothing are being received by these Baptist orphans' homes in each of the 18 Southern Baptist states.

The Louisiana Baptist Children's home will gladly receive at this harvest season: Flour, meal, sugar, salt, soda, lard, meat (cured or alive), corn, oats, potatoes, syrup, peanuts, popcorn, rice and canned goods.

Any such items as friends of the local institution wish to contribute may be left at the First Baptist church at any time during the week.

A truck from the home will call at this church on Thanksgiving day for whatever food supplies have been received there.

TRAPPING STARTED IN COAST PARISHES

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Trappers of the coast parishes set steel snares today as the season opened for muskrat. Armand P. Daspit, director of the wild life division of the state conservation department, said a better yield than last year's was expected.

In the 1936-37 season 2,546,820 pelts were taken, of which 2,200,520 were muskrats. This season will close February 1, 1938. Opossum, raccoon, mink, otter, wolf, skunk, civet, wildcat and weasel also may be taken.

CHURCH RECEIVES $1,000 DONATION

Anonymous Parents Saved Fund To Educate Child Who Burned To Death

RUSTON, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Included in the fund donated for construction of a new Methodist church in Ruston is a sum of $1,000, listed in the record book simply as "A Gift of God."

Circumstances under which the unusual donation was made have just been related by J. D. Holland, treasurer of the church building committee, which group has obtained sufficient funds for erecting the new auditorium here. The story is as follows:

Several months ago, before the canvass for the church donations began, a man telephoned Rev. Guy M. Hicks, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church at Ruston, making an appointment to meet the pastor at his home here.

Appearing at the parsonage at 9 o'clock the next morning, the caller told Rev. Hicks about the birth of a daughter several years ago.

"When the little girl was born," the man stated, "my wife and I began to create a fund for her education. When she was about three years old, however, the child's clothing caught fire and she was burned to death.

"Through the years that have followed her death, we have kept up the fund we started for her," the man continued. "Now we are wondering whether you will accept this fund as a donation to the church building fund."

Advised by Rev. Hicks that the church would "be glad to accept it," the man removed from his pockets seven $100 bills and $300 in bills of smaller denominations, a total of $1,000.

"May I refer to your gift when we begin soliciting funds for the new building?" Rev. Hicks asked the visitor.

The man hesitated a moment. "Yes, you may mention it," he said, "upon the condition that our names will never be disclosed. Just list the donation as 'A Gift of God.'"

Only Rev. Hicks knows the name of the man who called at his home that morning.

The pastor notified Mr. Holland of the anonymous gift as soon as the man departed, and the money was deposited to the church account. Since that time an organized canvass for funds has been conducted and the committee has "in sight" enough money to meet the contract price of $43,350 for construction of the auditorium. The construction award recently was let to C. E. Andrews, Ruston contractor, and work on the edifice is to begin immediately. The new brick structure, to seat about 700 people, is scheduled to be completed by May 1, 1938.

BODY FOUND IN GARAGE

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 20—(AP)—Dr. Willis P. Butler, Caddo parish coroner, said he received a report today that the body of A. M. Dodge, about 50 years old, a hotel operator at Trees City, was found in a garage at his home. The report said the man died from a pistol wound. The coroner left for Trees City to determine the cause of death.

'POSSUMS HUNTED BY LEAN HOUNDS

Season Opens In Louisiana But Much Of Former Excitement Gone

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Lean hounds, under frosted moonbeams, once more are baying through woodlands of the south behind 'possums scurrying for trees and holes, but:

Old-timers who reminisce over such things as hoop-skirts, show-boats, carriage horses and duels, are sad.

"Time was," they say, "when 'possum hunting was something. It was excitement, mystery, danger. Tally-hoing behind 'possums had it all over fox chasing.

"But what has happened?

"Where are the merry parties that took bracers to ward off the nipping chill of night air and headed over hills and down valleys behind noisy dogs?

"Where are the gallant gentlemen who chanced sharp teeth by climbing trees and shaking cornered 'possums into sacks held by other gentlemen as pretty ladies screamed in frightened excitement?

"And where are the after-hunt camp fires where food was plentiful, conversation sparkled, belles flirted with beaux and yarn-spinners thrived?

"Nowadays it's movies, radios, automobiles.

"And who's doing the hunting? Unromantic woodsmen getting maybe 25 or 30 cents for skins."

But the season is on just the same and from now until January or February the hounds will run and the 'possums will die and some few folks will carry on bravely with the old traditions of the chase.

Almost all the states say you can hunt at night but a few, like Louisiana, make you rely on dogs, sticks, sacks and bare hands—not guns—as weapons.

And negroes are back in the roasting and baking heaven of 'possum and 'taters.

The Louisiana season which opened today, will end in February.

THEFT REPORTED

Jesse Grisham, 203 Mitchell's lane, West Monroe, yesterday reported to the Monroe police department the theft of an overcoat and hat which he said were stolen Friday night from an automobile which was parked at the Lakeside Country club.

THE BABY HAS GOT A TOOTH

Do get up and light the fire; go and tell your Aunt Mariar, that our President has got an aching tooth. I figure that the lucky dog that falls heir to this discarded molar—and be allowed to carry it in his vest pocket instead of the proverbial rabbit foot will strike oil or turn out to be a hero—in the way of killing sows with pigs, cows with calves and plowing up cotton. The money blowed for this project would have paid the cost of importing chops and feed stuff for two months—until the pastures grew green—and beef steak at 40 cents a pound, for my people, the poor.

The more I learn about present day prosperity, the more I admire the picture of Washington crossing the Delaware and General Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans and his squirrel hunting soldiers with their muzzle loading, flint lock rifles, bales of cotton for breast works and the Star Spangled colors. Is it possible that the red blood of American patriotism has congealed and turned to skimmed sheep's milk—when so many have laid down their lives in order that my people, the poor, might exist.

I am for the over-taxed underdog—even on down to the grave, my coffin painted green for IRELAND and the American flag of 1776 engraved on my tombstone—and if the good Lord will extend my life, I am and will be for fighting for the cause of Jimmie Noe for our Governor. This generous, fine gentleman befriended me when my afflicted wife was in Pineville asylum, and allowed me to bring her home. I ask the public to excuse my rustic, rough way of expressing my sincere feelings toward this ex-soldier of the World war. I would go to H— for Jimmie Noe, if necessary.

I am not in politics for a dime, nor a dollar. At one time I gave $1,500.00 cash in behalf of old age pensions. I would not turn on my heel for a lousy political dollar. Christ himself preached humility and in his bare feet. This 252 pounds of luxury-taxing-the-widow-2-per-cent-on-her-husband's-drug-bill-and-funeral-expenses will be fought by me to the last ditch. Put me in jail if you like, but you cannot silence my guns of justice in behalf of American womanhood, the babies and the memory of Betty Ross who made the first American flag.

THE WORD "LUXURY" is misleading in name and purpose, so far as the poor and needy are concerned. There are so many taxes on a loaf of bread that there is no room left for the butter, if they could afford butter. There are many other items being vital and absolutely necessary to sustain life in the bodies of the poor, and love and courage in their hearts. I will enumerate them in the future and will specify as to the unfairness of persecuting MY PEOPLE, THE POOR. We never miss the water until the well runs dry. HARGIS ELECTED CLUB PRESIDENT

Rayville Kiwanians Name Officers And Directors For Coming Year

RAYVILLE, La., Nov. 20.—(Special) Robert S. Hargis, principal of the Rayville High school for the past seven years, was elected president of the Rayville Kiwanis club for 1938, at the club's regular meeting this week. President-elect Hargis has been a member of the local club almost since its organization in 1934, and has filled a number of important positions in the club. During 1937 he has served as a member of the board of directors and as chairman of the committee on vocational guidance.

Ernest G. Brown, deputy clerk of court of Richland parish, was elected first vice-president. Mr. Brown, a charter member of the club, has served during 1937 as second vice-president. Dr. H. C. Chambers, who has been a director of the club since its organization, was named second vice-president.

F. S. Key, who has served in the latter capacity for the past several years, was elected treasurer of the club. The office of secretary will be filled by election by the board of directors at its December meeting.

Members of the board elected for a two-year term, beginning January 1, are J. C. Salmon, clerk of court of Richland parish; Warren Hunt, attorney; Jesse E. Stodghill, hardware and lumber dealer, and W. L. Jackson, druggist.

W. W. Kelly and Mayor William T. Jones are members of the board whose terms have not expired.

All 1938 officers will be installed late in December at a special meeting.

The applicants are Mrs. Velma L. Pennebaker, Mrs. Blanche E. Tucker, Richard L. McLemore, Nathan R. Funderburk, and Felix M. Limons. The examination will be held at Winnsboro on November 27.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sixteen new oil wells were completed and 18 permits for drilling in Louisiana were issued during the week ending October 18, the state conservation department reported today.

The Lisbon field in Claiborne parish and the Tullos field in LaSalle parish each had four completions during the week. Initial daily production of wells in the Tullos field, however, ranged between only five and 40 barrels a day.

The name of the field, the producer, name of the well and initial daily production of each follow in order:

Bellevue, Bossier parish, C. H. French, Larkin No. 1, 15 barrels; Caddo, Caddo parish, H. and H. Drilling company (A. R. Hancock), S. C. Helpman No. 1, 40 barrels; Evangeline, Acadia parish, Ladak Oil company, Inc., Jules Clement No. 2, 250 barrels; Iowa, Calcasieu parish, Magnolia Petroleum company, B. T. Waits No. 12, 192.24 barrels.

Lisbon, Claiborne parish, four wells: R. L. Bauman, C. S. L. Patton No. 2, 1,680 barrels; A. O. Olson, T. F. Patton No. A-4, 583.20 barrels; Red Iron Drilling—E. W. Gill, et al., S. M. English No. 1, 480 barrels; Sloan and Zook, H. W. Patton No. 4, 259.20 barrels.

Rodessa, Caddo parish, two wells: F. W. Burford, R. A. Terry No. 1, 1,566.72 barrels; Vaughn Production company, Yates No. 1, 1,100 barrels.

Sulphurmines, Calcasieu parish, Union Sulphur company, fee No. 849, 84.40 barrels.

Tullos, LaSalle parish, four wells: J. E. Grandstaff, K. Russell No. B-1, 5 barrels; Petroleum Heat and Power corporation, Wright No. 1, 40 barrels; T. and J. Oil company, town of Tullos No. 2, 40 barrels, and Trio Oil company, Urania Lumber company No. A-1, 30 barrels.

The conservation department estimated that the state produced 239,449 barrels of crude oil daily during the week ending November 13, 169,349 barrels in the Gulf coast region and 70,100 barrels in north Louisiana.

Permits for drilling operations (one to each applicant unless otherwise specified) were issued to the following:

Ladak Oil company, Inc., Acadia parish; Triangle Drilling company, Bossier; Union Producing company, Bossier; Louisiana Oil Producing company, three, Caddo; Standard Oil company of Louisiana, Caddo; Union Producing company, Caddo.

The Texas company, Iberia; Shell Petroleum corporation, Iberville; Humble Oil and Refining company, two, Terrebonne; North American Consolidated, Webster and Ohio Oil company, Webster.

ST. MATTHEW'S CARNIVAL DECLARED BIG SUCCESS

The St. Matthew's Catholic carnival held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the Adler building proved the most successful of any similar event ever held here, stated Mrs. W. A. Burgoyne, general chairman. After all accounts were checked up and bills paid, there was a balance shown of profit of $1,400, which was $200 more than that of a year ago.

All those who participated in making the affair a success were commended by Mrs. Burgoyne.

The money raised will be devoted to the general fund of St. Matthew's church.

POLICE JURORS WILL TOUR PARISH ROADS

The members of the Ouachita parish police jury will make a two-day tour of inspection of all roads in Ouachita parish that are maintained by this group. The start of the trip will be made from the courthouse Tuesday at 8 a.m. and the party will proceed through the parish during the morning and afternoon, viewing the condition of roads.

On Wednesday the trip will be resumed both morning and afternoon.

Trips of this nature are made in spring and late fall in order that members of the police jury can be closely informed as to the needs of highways in the various wards of the parish.

Two Carloads Of Furniture To Be Installed In Caldwell Edifice

Two carloads of furniture are to be installed by January 1 in the new Caldwell parish courthouse in Columbia by Monroe Office equipment of this city. On a bid of $8,500, the lowest entered, it was awarded the contract for furnishing the new public structure.

The contract was awarded several weeks ago by the Caldwell parish police jury, which selected only the best and highest quality equipment for the edifice, now nearing completion. The building is one of the most modern of its kind in the nation and the fixtures will be thoroughly in keeping with the structure.

Such furnishings as steel desks, files, counters, cupboards and accessories are being supplied through Shaw-Walker company of Muskegon, Mich., word's largest manufacturer of office furniture. Wood items, consisting of tables, chairs and accessories, will come from the factory of Sikes company of Buffalo, N. Y. Both firms are represented exclusively in Monroe and northeast Louisiana.

Besides these two concerns, Monroe Office equipment is the exclusive northeast Louisiana representative of such nationally-known firms as National Blank Book company and Underwood-Elliott-Fisher company. The latter establishment is the world's largest manufacturer of adding machines, accounting machines and typewriters.

Monroe Office equipment has been doing business in this city and its trade territory for the past 14 years. It is in a position to handle orders of any size for office equipment and supplies.

The firm operates at 510 Walnut street. Its telephone number is 567.

DELCO CONTEST UNDER WAY HERE

Reward Awaits Owner Of Oldest Battery At United Electric Service

United Electric Service, Inc., 308 North Third street, which sells and services Delco automobile batteries, is endeavoring to find out several things about this product and the service that goes with it:

Who in this vicinity has the oldest Delco battery still in operation.

What the average life of a Delco battery is.

The number of Delco batteries in use in Monroe and its surrounding territory.

What the attitude of the average motorist is toward his battery—if he is conscious of having a Delco battery in his car; if he is devoting the proper attention to the battery; if he is having it properly serviced.

Why Delco battery owners are not availing themselves of the unsurpassed free battery service offered by United Electric Service.

Whether they are having their Delco batteries serviced elsewhere, and why.

To determine these facts, United Electric Service is sponsoring a contest in which the owner of the oldest Delco battery still in service will receive a new battery and a liberal reward. The contest started the first of the current month and will continue until December 1. In launching the contest, the firm ran an advertisement in The World and The News-Star. It read:

"REWARD—WANTED Oldest Delco Battery Still in Operation. Win a Liberal Reward and New Delco Battey. Let 'Sheriff' Six-Volt (Shorty) Jones inspect your battery and determine if you have this rascal hiding in your car."

Placards and handbills bearing the same wording have also been widely distributed by the firm.

There is still plenty of time to enter the contest; but prospective entrants are urged to act promptly and have their batteries inspected immediately in order to prevent a last-minute rush with its accompanying inconveniences.

United Electric Service has one of the most scientific battery departments in the nation. Equipped with the latest approved devices and manned by experts in their line, it is in a position to give the highest quality of service.

Constantly endeavoring to improve its service to the public, the firm welcomes suggestions from its patrons. That is one of the primary purposes of the contest now in progress—to determine if the battery department is doing everything it can to keep Delco batteries in this area in tip-top condition, to determine if owners of Delco batteries are receiving every consideration they are entitled to.

The telephone number of United Electric Service is 365.

HONEST ADVICE GIVEN BY CASCIO

Monroe Tire Exchange Owner Gives Customers Benefit Of His Experience

For sound advice about automobile tires and tubes, go to Joe Cascio, owner of Monroe Tire exchange, 2008 DeSiard street. If your tires and tubes are worn out, he will suggest that you buy a new or a serviceable used set—according to the state of your finances at the time. If your tires and tubes are merely weak in spots, he will tell you to have them vulcanized. If a weakness in the former is not too pronounced, he will likely advocate a boot or casing lining.

And Mr. Cascio is fully qualified to offer advice, too. He has been in the tire business for years. Moreover, he is conscientious. The patrons of Monroe Tire exchange are not merely his customers, they are his friends.

Besides handling Miller tires and tubes in the line of new merchandise, Monroe Tire exchange has a wide selection of serviceable used tires and tubes, some of which have seen only slight wear. All used tires and tubes are priced remarkably low. The new merchandise is sold at the lowest standard prices.

Monroe Tire exchange is equipped with steam vulcanizers capable of turning out the highest class of work in re-enforcing weak spots in any make and size of tire or tube. An expert with years of experience is in charge of this phase of the firm's business.

Boots and lining for all sizes and makes of tires are sold by the concern, which also stocks used automobile wheels and rims. A filling station handling gasoline, oil and other items is operated in connection with the tire exchange.

Mr. Cascio allows liberal trade-in values on tires taken from an automobile when his firm replaces them with new ones.

The telephone number of Monroe Tire exchange is 2767.

GLASS PRODUCT IDEAL MATERIAL

Structural Glass Enhances Eye Value And Property Value Of Homes

There's breath-taking beauty in bathrooms and kitchens of structural glass, impossible to achieve in any other material, according to John Bailey, owner of Bailey Glass company, 208 North Second street.

No other product provides the matchless color range of structural glass, he said. There are 30 separate colors—beautiful solid hues and rich agate shades. These permit 150 different combinations.

Any color scheme desired in a bathroom or kitchen can be carried out with structural glass, a lastingly beautiful material, Mr. Bailey pointed out. The ease with which it is installed—applied directly over old walls—is an important factor in the adaptability and economy of the product, he said.

Mr. Bailey stressed the fact that structural glass gives a glazer unlimited scope in working out unique and individualistic effects in bathrooms and kitchens. Besides making a home infinitely more livable and increasing its market value to a remarkable degree, structural glass, he said, gives the finishing touch to thorough modernization.

Mr. Bailey's concluding remarks about structural glass were: "Structural glass is a permanent, lifetime improvement. It does not absorb odors and its flint-like surface will never check, craze or grow dull. A damp cloth is all that is required to keep it lustrous and beautiful. Structural glass pays for itself many times over, when its unrivaled advantages are weighed against its moderate cost. Eye value and property value of homes are permanently enhanced with structural glass."

Besides installing structural glass, Bailey Glass company engages in every form of glass work. It installs window glass, plate glass, automobile glass and store fronts.

Mr. Bailey will gladly furnish estimates on any kind of glass work. The telephone number of his company is 36.

INTERNATIONAL BUILDING PLANT

Facilities For The Manufacture Of Full Line Of Trucks Being Expanded

Construction of a large manufacturing plant for the building of engines for the entire International line of motor trucks on a 75-acre tract in southeast Indianapolis is nearing completion and the plant is expected to begin production of engines by February 1, 1938.

When completed, the new plant, including buildings, equipment and machinery, will cost more than $4,000,000, will have an initial manufacturing capacity of 700 truck engines per day and will employ over 3,000 men.

The addition of this new unit to the International Harvester company's manufacturing operations results from the rapidly growing demand for International motor trucks. The new Indianapolis plant is the longest step in factory expansion taken by the harvester company in many years and constitutes one of the largest additions to Indianapolis industry since the World war.

In 1936 the registration of new International trucks in the United States was 34.6 per cent ahead of 1935, which previously had been the best year in the company's truck business Aided by the new "D" line of streamlined trucks, announced last April and now being distributed by International dealers, 1937 registrations are running well ahead of 1936. The estimated 1938 demand for International trucks is so great that it is considerably in excess of the company's present manufacturing capacity. Months ago, therefore, the company gave consideration to an expansion of its truck manufacturing facilities. The erection of a new plant for the manufacture of engines for the entire line of trucks seemed the most logical solution of the manufacturing problem.

The Harvester company's Indianapolis expansion is in line with the policy to keep manufacturing operations constantly in pace with the growth in popularity of its products. The company is the nation's largest manufacturer of a full line of motor trucks, ranging from half-ton light delivery trucks to 15-ton six-wheelers. It is the leading manufacturer of heavy-duty trucks, having led the industry in the sale of trucks in that class for seven consecutive years.

In Monroe the International Harvester company, Inc., operates at 720 DeSiard street, and besides handling International motor trucks and industrial power, also distributes a full line of McCormick-Deering farm operating equipment. The management invites all who are in the market for trucks and farm equipment to inspect the lines on display at the store here.

ALIGNMENT MAKES AUTOMOBILE SAFE

Eliminates Unbalanced Strain And Wear And Tear On Car And Tires

An automobile out of alignment is a dangerous automobile.

An automobile out of alignment is an expensive automobile.

It is dangerous because it is difficult to handle.

It is expensive because of the strain on rigid parts, because of unbalanced wear and tear on moving parts.

Sida Walker, owner of Luther and Reed garage, 236 South Grand street, which specializes in Bear alignment service and the reconditioning of automobile brakes, could have made these statements. But he didn't.

They are axiomatic automotive facts.

A few years ago, when a car was seriously wrecked, it was sold to a scrap metal dealer. Now, a twisted mass of wreckage is brought to Luther and Reed garage, where expert mechanics straighten the wheels, axles and frame and align the front and rear ends on Bear machines. Then, after it goes through a body and fender shop, the automobile is the same old bus it was before it participated in a crash.

Manufactured by the Bear Manufacturing company of Rock Island, Ill., the Bear alignment machine straightens bent wheels, axles and frames cold. This is considered to be the best method because the alloy steel used in automobiles does not safely withstand reheating.

But an automobile need not have been in a crash to require alignment on the Bear machines maintained by Luther and Reed garage. Just every day usage may get the front or rear end out of line.

And when either does, that means unbalanced strain on all the rigid parts of the car and uneven wear and tear, not only on almost every moving part, but on all four tires.

If you are an economical motorist, you will have your automobile's alignment frequently checked at Luther and Reed garage.

The most important argument in favor of alignment, however, is safety. An automobile that is completely in line is a safe car. It responds immediately to the driver's touch on the steering wheel. There is no disconcerting shimmying, weaving and wandering. The car rolls straight ahead.

Luther and Reed garage is now in a position to give the promptest of alignment service. Equipped with two Bear machines and manned by mechanics who have specialized in aligning over long periods, the firm turns out work rapidly, but with precision.

In addition to its alignment work, the garage specializes in the servicing of brakes. Besides experienced mechanics, it has adequate tools to thoroughly recondition brakes on all makes of automobiles. Mr. Walker said brakes could be fixed as good, if not better, in his garage than anywhere else in town.

The telephone number of Luther and Reed garage is 4000.

HUNTERS WARNED NOT TO SHOOT TELEPHONE POSTS OR INSULATORS

Sheriff Milton Coverdale of Ouachita parish and Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell of Monroe yesterday warned hunters against shooting at telephone posts and wires.

A complaint from the New Orleans office of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company was received by the local officials in which that company claimed that long-distance telephone services had been interrupted on several occasions as the result of hunters and others armed with guns shooting at telephone wires and glass insulators.

Sheriff Coverdale yesterday pointed out that this practice is against the law and constitutes malicious mischief and those found shooting at telephone posts or wires will be prosecuted.

Chief Reitzell said that the practice constitutes violations of two city ordinances, the first aimed against unlawful shooting of firearms within the city limits and the other ordinance defining the act complained of as being malicious mischief.

Both officials instructed their respective departments to arrest all persons caught in the act of shooting at telephone posts or wire or in any way damaging lines of communication.

When an automobile is BEAR ALIGNED . . . it gets you there SAFE—and ON TIME.

HARGIS ELECTED CLUB PRESIDENT

Rayville Kiwanians Name Officers And Directors For Coming Year

RAYVILLE, La., Nov. 20.—(Special) Robert S. Hargis, principal of the Rayville High school for the past seven years, was elected president of the Rayville Kiwanis club for 1938, at the club's regular meeting this week. President-elect Hargis has been a member of the local club almost since its organization in 1934, and has filled a number of important positions in the club. During 1937 he has served as a member of the board of directors and as chairman of the committee on vocational guidance.

Ernest G. Brown, deputy clerk of court of Richland parish, was elected first vice-president. Mr. Brown, a charter member of the club, has served during 1937 as second vice-president. Dr. H. C. Chambers, who has been a director of the club since its organization, was named second vice-president.

F. S. Key, who has served in the latter capacity for the past several years, was elected treasurer of the club. The office of secretary will be filled by election by the board of directors at its December meeting.

Members of the board elected for a two-year term, beginning January 1, are J. C. Salmon, clerk of court of Richland parish; Warren Hunt, attorney; Jesse E. Stodghill, hardware and lumber dealer, and W. L. Jackson, druggist.

W. W. Kelly and Mayor William T. Jones are members of the board whose terms have not expired.

All 1938 officers will be installed late in December at a special meeting.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sixteen new oil wells were completed and 18 permits for drilling in Louisiana were issued during the week ending October 18, the state conservation department reported today.

The Lisbon field in Claiborne parish and the Tullos field in LaSalle parish each had four completions during the week. Initial daily production of wells in the Tullos field, however, ranged between only five and 40 barrels a day.

The name of the field, the producer, name of the well and initial daily production of each follow in order:

Bellevue, Bossier parish, C. H. French, Larkin No. 1, 15 barrels; Caddo, Caddo parish, H. and H. Drilling company (A. R. Hancock), S. C. Helpman No. 1, 40 barrels; Evangeline, Acadia parish, Ladak Oil company, Inc., Jules Clement No. 2, 250 barrels; Iowa, Calcasieu parish, Magnolia Petroleum company, B. T. Waits No. 12, 192.24 barrels.

Lisbon, Claiborne parish, four wells: R. L. Bauman, C. S. L. Patton No. 2, 1,680 barrels; A. O. Olson, T. F. Patton No. A-4, 583.20 barrels; Red Iron Drilling—E. W. Gill, et al., S. M. English No. 1, 480 barrels; Sloan and Zook, H. W. Patton No. 4, 259.20 barrels.

Rodessa, Caddo parish, two wells: F. W. Burford, R. A. Terry No. 1, 1,566.72 barrels; Vaughn Production company, Yates No. 1, 1,100 barrels.

Sulphurmines, Calcasieu parish, Union Sulphur company, fee No. 849, 84.40 barrels.

Tullos, LaSalle parish, four wells: J. E. Grandstaff, K. Russell No. B-1, 5 barrels; Petroleum Heat and Power corporation, Wright No. 1, 40 barrels; T. and J. Oil company, town of Tullos No. 2, 40 barrels, and Trio Oil company, Urania Lumber company No. A-1, 30 barrels.

The conservation department estimated that the state produced 239,449 barrels of crude oil daily during the week ending November 13, 169,349 barrels in the Gulf coast region and 70,100 barrels in north Louisiana.

Permits for drilling operations (one to each applicant unless otherwise specified) were issued to the following:

Ladak Oil company, Inc., Acadia parish; Triangle Drilling company, Bossier; Union Producing company, Bossier; Louisiana Oil Producing company, three, Caddo; Standard Oil company of Louisiana, Caddo; Union Producing company, Caddo.

The Texas company, Iberia; Shell Petroleum corporation, Iberville; Humble Oil and Refining company, two, Terrebonne; North American Consolidated, Webster and Ohio Oil company, Webster.

ST. MATTHEW'S CARNIVAL DECLARED BIG SUCCESS

The St. Matthew's Catholic carnival held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the Adler building proved the most successful of any similar event ever held here, stated Mrs. W. A. Burgoyne, general chairman. After all accounts were checked up and bills paid, there was a balance shown of profit of $1,400, which was $200 more than that of a year ago.

All those who participated in making the affair a success were commended by Mrs. Burgoyne.

The money raised will be devoted to the general fund of St. Matthew's church.

POLICE JURORS WILL TOUR PARISH ROADS

The members of the Ouachita parish police jury will make a two-day tour of inspection of all roads in Ouachita parish that are maintained by this group. The start of the trip will be made from the courthouse Tuesday at 8 a.m. and the party will proceed through the parish during the morning and afternoon, viewing the condition of roads.

On Wednesday the trip will be resumed both morning and afternoon.

Trips of this nature are made in spring and late fall in order that members of the police jury can be closely informed as to the needs of highways in the various wards of the parish.

No other product provides the matchless color range of structural glass, he said. There are 30 separate colors—beautiful solid hues and rich agate shades. These permit 150 different combinations.

Any color scheme desired in a bathroom or kitchen can be carried out with structural glass, a lastingly beautiful material, Mr. Bailey pointed out. The ease with which it is installed—applied directly over old walls—is an important factor in the adaptability and economy of the product, he said.

Mr. Bailey stressed the fact that structural glass gives a glazer unlimited scope in working out unique and individualistic effects in bathrooms and kitchens. Besides making a home infinitely more livable and increasing its market value to a remarkable degree, structural glass, he said, gives the finishing touch to thorough modernization.

Mr. Bailey's concluding remarks about structural glass were: "Structural glass is a permanent, lifetime improvement. It does not absorb odors and its flint-like surface will never check, craze or grow dull. A damp cloth is all that is required to keep it lustrous and beautiful. Structural glass pays for itself many times over, when its unrivaled advantages are weighed against its moderate cost. Eye value and property value of homes are permanently enhanced with structural glass."

Besides installing structural glass, Bailey Glass company engages in every form of glass work. It installs window glass, plate glass, automobile glass and store fronts.

Mr. Bailey will gladly furnish estimates on any kind of glass work. The telephone number of his company is 36.

INTERNATIONAL BUILDING PLANT

Facilities For The Manufacture Of Full Line Of Trucks Being Expanded

Construction of a large manufacturing plant for the building of engines for the entire International line of motor trucks on a 75-acre tract in southeast Indianapolis is nearing completion and the plant is expected to begin production of engines by February 1, 1938.

When completed, the new plant, including buildings, equipment and machinery, will cost more than $4,000,000, will have an initial manufacturing capacity of 700 truck engines per day and will employ over 3,000 men.

The addition of this new unit to the International Harvester company's manufacturing operations results from the rapidly growing demand for International motor trucks. The new Indianapolis plant is the longest step in factory expansion taken by the harvester company in many years and constitutes one of the largest additions to Indianapolis industry since the World war.

In 1936 the registration of new International trucks in the United States was 34.6 per cent ahead of 1935, which previously had been the best year in the company's truck business Aided by the new "D" line of streamlined trucks, announced last April and now being distributed by International dealers, 1937 registrations are running well ahead of 1936. The estimated 1938 demand for International trucks is so great that it is considerably in excess of the company's present manufacturing capacity. Months ago, therefore, the company gave consideration to an expansion of its truck manufacturing facilities. The erection of a new plant for the manufacture of engines for the entire line of trucks seemed the most logical solution of the manufacturing problem.

The Harvester company's Indianapolis expansion is in line with the policy to keep manufacturing operations constantly in pace with the growth in popularity of its products. The company is the nation's largest manufacturer of a full line of motor trucks, ranging from half-ton light delivery trucks to 15-ton six-wheelers. It is the leading manufacturer of heavy-duty trucks, having led the industry in the sale of trucks in that class for seven consecutive years.

In Monroe the International Harvester company, Inc., operates at 720 DeSiard street, and besides handling International motor trucks and industrial power, also distributes a full line of McCormick-Deering farm operating equipment. The management invites all who are in the market for trucks and farm equipment to inspect the lines on display at the store here.

ALIGNMENT MAKES AUTOMOBILE SAFE

Eliminates Unbalanced Strain And Wear And Tear On Car And Tires

An automobile out of alignment is a dangerous automobile.

An automobile out of alignment is an expensive automobile.

It is dangerous because it is difficult to handle.

It is expensive because of the strain on rigid parts, because of unbalanced wear and tear on moving parts.

Sida Walker, owner of Luther and Reed garage, 236 South Grand street, which specializes in Bear alignment service and the reconditioning of automobile brakes, could have made these statements. But he didn't.

They are axiomatic automotive facts.

A few years ago, when a car was seriously wrecked, it was sold to a scrap metal dealer. Now, a twisted mass of wreckage is brought to Luther and Reed garage, where expert mechanics straighten the wheels, axles and frame and align the front and rear ends on Bear machines. Then, after it goes through a body and fender shop, the automobile is the same old bus it was before it participated in a crash.

Manufactured by the Bear Manufacturing company of Rock Island, Ill., the Bear alignment machine straightens bent wheels, axles and frames cold. This is considered to be the best method because the alloy steel used in automobiles does not safely withstand reheating.

But an automobile need not have been in a crash to require alignment on the Bear machines maintained by Luther and Reed garage. Just every day usage may get the front or rear end out of line.

And when either does, that means unbalanced strain on all the rigid parts of the car and uneven wear and tear, not only on almost every moving part, but on all four tires.

If you are an economical motorist, you will have your automobile's alignment frequently checked at Luther and Reed garage.

The most important argument in favor of alignment, however, is safety. An automobile that is completely in line is a safe car. It responds immediately to the driver's touch on the steering wheel. There is no disconcerting shimmying, weaving and wandering. The car rolls straight ahead.

Luther and Reed garage is now in a position to give the promptest of alignment service. Equipped with two Bear machines and manned by mechanics who have specialized in aligning over long periods, the firm turns out work rapidly, but with precision.

In addition to its alignment work, the garage specializes in the servicing of brakes. Besides experienced mechanics, it has adequate tools to thoroughly recondition brakes on all makes of automobiles. Mr. Walker said brakes could be fixed as good, if not better, in his garage than anywhere else in town.

The telephone number of Luther and Reed garage is 4000.

HUNTERS WARNED NOT TO SHOOT TELEPHONE POSTS OR INSULATORS

Sheriff Milton Coverdale of Ouachita parish and Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell of Monroe yesterday warned hunters against shooting at telephone posts and wires.

A complaint from the New Orleans office of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company was received by the local officials in which that company claimed that long-distance telephone services had been interrupted on several occasions as the result of hunters and others armed with guns shooting at telephone wires and glass insulators.

Sheriff Coverdale yesterday pointed out that this practice is against the law and constitutes malicious mischief and those found shooting at telephone posts or wires will be prosecuted.

Chief Reitzell said that the practice constitutes violations of two city ordinances, the first aimed against unlawful shooting of firearms within the city limits and the other ordinance defining the act complained of as being malicious mischief.

Both officials instructed their respective departments to arrest all persons caught in the act of shooting at telephone posts or wire or in any way damaging lines of communication.

FIRESTONE AIDS YULE SHOPPING

Lay-Away Plan For Christmas Buying Already In Effect At Store

Stop! — Look! — Listen!

Christmas is slightly more than a month off.

Don't delay your shopping any longer. Start now. Beat the rush. By starting early, you are in a position to make leisurely selections, appropriate choices.

To facilitate Christmas shoppping, Firestone Auto Supply and Service stores, corner of Washington and North Third streets, has inaugurated a liberal lay-away plan. A small down payment will reserve any of the more than 2,000 items handled by the firm.

The establishment, the telephone number of which is 505, is filled to the brim with articles that would make most acceptable Christmas gifts, useful Christmas gifts.

Just to mention a few:

Tires and tubes, batteries, electric home radios, battery home radios, automobile radios, automobile robes, bicycles and scooters.

If you are looking for something less expensive, you will be able to find that too at Firestone Auto Supply and Service stores. It has on display all kinds of essential motor car accessories. Any one of the innumerable minor items would warm the heart of a motorist.

But Christmas is not the only season that liberal terms are offered by the firm. Its budget plan, which makes buying convenient, even for persons of the most limited means, is is in effect throughout the year.

At the present time, Firestone Auto Supply and Service stores has an unusually wide selection of used bicycles and used radios, all of which are in excellent condition. The radios are selling for $5 each; the bicycles, from $5 up.

Among the people of London, cricket, football and lawn tennis rank as the most important ball games.

GRAZIANI, ACE LEADER IN WAR, MAY AID REBELS

after a long wait after the start of the African war that Graziani was called in as a "pinch hitter" and given permission to start rolling his offensive in southern Ethiopia.

When the insurgents start their major offensive, according to London advices, they are going to push forward with all possible speed in an effort to end the war within two months for the long, drawn-out conflict is placing an inestimable drain on their supplies and soldiers.

Speed and mobility will be the orders for this new advance in Spain, and few military leaders are as able to direct that kind of advance as Graziani.

For three months at the beginning of the Ethiopian war he fretted behind his entrenchments at Dolo on the border of Italian Somaliland. Finally, in January, 1936, when the Italian advance from the north was being slowed down by the Ethiopian armies, Graziani was given permission to start up from the south in the hope that he could harass Haile Selassie's troops enough to make mandatory the immediate shift of Ethiopian troops from the north to the south.

That strategy was more successful than the Italian high command had first believed possible, for Graziani gave one order to his "hell on wheels" column, which the writer accompanied on that offensive, and that was to keep moving.

So fast did Graziani's army move that it cut completely through the heart of the Ethiopian lines until the Italians were fighting almost as many of the enemy on their flanks and rear as they were forward. But, the order came to "keep 'em rolling," and roll they did, leaving the slow moving enemy far behind.

When and if he goes to Spain, Graziani, who once told the writer that the most annoying word he knew was "firma" (wait), will find several of the generals who served under him in the "hell on wheels" column in Ethiopia.

The commander of one of the Italian divisions, the one that lost so heavily at Guadalajara, is General Bergonzoli, the diminutive commandant with handle bar mustaches. Too, reported in Spain are Generals Agostini and Frusci. Bergonzoli and Agostini commanded divisions in the "hell on wheels" column that captured Neghelli, Ethiopia, while General Frusci commanded an Italian division that fought up from the south on the Ogaden front towards Harar.

So it would be old home week for the Italian officers in Spain if Graziani goes there.

Prestige, Louis Wood, Marie Louise Marino, Christine Galloway, "Sweetheart of the American Legion," Willie "the Whistler," Jerry Hodge, and Dupont brothers, blackface comedians. The program was given under the direction of Miss Winnie McCoy. Mrs. Wayne Huckabay, of the Women's auxiliary, had charge of the party, which was transported to Alexandria by a municipal bus through the courtesy of Superintendent W. G. Mangham.

The arrangements for the event were made by Sam Rubin, J. J. Martin, and F. Thompson, committee of the Barkdull Faulk post.

'DO SOMETHING TO ENCOURAGE BUSINESS MAN'

Among economists who contributed their views were David Friday of Washington, Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, James H. R. Cromwell of New Jersey, Colonel Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland, Dr. Willford I. King of New York university, O. C. Ault of George Peabody college at Nashville, Tenn., B. M. Anderson, economist for the Chase National bank, Dr. Reid L. McClung of the University of Southern California, Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, Abraham Berglund of the University of Virginia, and Morton A. Aldrich of Tulane university.

Not all the economists thought congress would relieve the situation. Some held that the remedy lay in cooperation between labor and business on wages, prices and steady employment. Others said business could pull itself out of the hole by holding prices down and thus increasing consumption. One asserted that a housing drive, properly conducted, would set things going full tilt.

Of the experts who urged action by congress, some were strong for giving more credit control to the federal reserve board. Others contended credit had nothing to do with the problem. Some wanted taxes up. Some wanted taxes down. But all wanted business to get the feeling, as one put it, that the Roosevelt administration was ready to "make friends."

David Friday summed it up emphatically:

"There is need of some definite, dramatic action to show that government promises of helping business is more than just a lot of talk."

Such "dramatic action," he said, would be to "abolish the undistributed profits tax." He added:

"If they take it off * * *, business is going to expand plants immediately, and that will create a good deal of construction work where it is most needed. New taxes to replace the undistributed profits levy would not be necessary because we already have the social security tax to take its place."

One of the proponents of credit control was Professor Fisher of Yale. Said he:

"The main reason for the present recession, as well as for the original depression, was monetary; the main remedy must be monetary.

"Between 1929 and 1933 the nation's check-book money (demand deposits) shrank by eight billion dollars. That great shrinkage could not help but make a great depression. Between 1933 and 1936 that shortage of money was more than made up. Its restoration could not help but make recovery.

"In 1937 this money supply has been shrinking again. So far it has shrunk by one billion dollars. That shrinkage could not but make a recession. Restoring the shortage would largely cure the recession.

"The best method is one which could be applied almost overnight if congress would enact the necessary legislation.

"This method is for federal reserve banks to lend to member banks, without interest, enough new bank credit to bring present 20 per cent reserves behind demand deposits up to 100 per cent so as to get the volume of our money under control, and then to buy bonds with still more credit until enough deposits shall be in circulation to bring back prices, business and employment."

Another advocate of credit control by congress was James H. R. Cromwell, economist husband of Doris Duke, the tobacco heiress.

An entirely different point of view on credit came from Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, of Cleveland, O., who contended the cure for the present slump "cannot be successfully sought in monetary or credit stimulants, but it could be found through removal of business barriers" by congress.

"Restoration of railroad and utility purchasing power," he said, "would do it."

Dr. Calvin Hoover, of Duke university, North Carolina, said a balanced budget would be "desirable" but "realism compels the recognition that it is likely to be impossible if the present business recession continues."

"There is the utmost necessity at a time like the present, when the possibility of a relapse into depression exists, that business should develop a far more conciliatory attitude toward labor, that labor leaders should make the most strenuous efforts to maintain labor discipline and that both should develop an increased sense of national responsibility. Finally, the present mutual hostility between business and the administration must somehow be resolved if recovery is to be resumed."

B. M. Anderson, Jr., economist for the Chase National bank in New York City, advocated balancing of the budget by economies, repealing the undistributed profits tax, reducing the capital gains tax to a low flat rate "which would increase revenue from that source," relaxing restrictions on the security markets, defeating the wage-and-hour bill now before congress, assuring utilities "there will not be government competition," and restoring international trade.

heroin were handled by the syndicate.

In New York, the treasury agents arrested Mary de Bello Pennocchio and Vito Pennochio, wife and brother of Tommy (the Bull) Pennochio, a member of the Luciano gang who now is serving a 25-year sentence in Sing Sing.

Arrested with Mrs. Pennochio in her home on Mulberry street, were her father and brother, Pietro and George de Bello.

In Pittsburgh, agents arrested Yee On Li alias Yee Haim, former president of the Hip Sing tong, which is one of the major Chinese organizations in this country. Chin Joo Hip and his son, Chin Joo Hipp, the younger, were seized at Butte, Mont. The elder Chin, described by Anslinger as the "father of the tong," was said to be the principal advisor and contact man for the narcotic ring.

Anslinger said the investigation "started from scratch" after agents had traced the source of supply of a minor addict arrested in New York.

Anslinger said no further arrests were expected.

"We knew who we wanted and we got them," he said.

hardware company executive and prominent socially, and Louis H. Hardie and James F. Ferry, employes of the firm of Stauffer.

West is in Honduras now. The four other men were arrested here last night and released on bond for their appearance Wednesday.

Today four witnesses were subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury Monday for an investigation of the alleged conspiracy.

They were William M. Rose, master of the Sixaola; E. R. Tilton, radio operator on the vessel, and two negro employes of Slobotzky.

The serving of subpoenas on the captain and the radio operator slightly delayed the sailing of the vessel today for the tropics with a large group of winter vacationists. Substitutes had to be placed on the ship for them.

The captain and the operator were ordered to take before the grand jury the logs, records and other maritime data of the ship.

Government agents said raids were made Friday night on the firms of Stauffer and Slobotzky and papers and records of the firms were seized.

Gly-Cas Was First Medicine That Did Not Disappoint Her

Back Pains, Sleeplessness, Dizzy Spells, Lack Of Energy Made Her Miserable—Gly-Cas Again Unfailing

"I did not realize there was such a remarkable remedy as this new Gly-Cas," said Mrs. C. T. Wax, 234 St. Joseph street, Baton Rouge, La. "I was so badly constipated even the strongest of cathartics failed in my case. My entire system was clogged with poisons. For years my stomach would not digest foods properly. Attacks of indigestion were sure to follow every meal I ate, gas formed in abundance, pressing against my heart and causing palpitation. I had awful dizzy spells, was nervous, kidneys became disordered and seldom got a good night's sleep. My back pained almost constantly it seemed, often crippling me until I could hardly get around. Medicines repeatedly failed in my case but it was not until I was persuaded to try this new Gly-Cas that I got the ONE REAL MEDICINE of them all.

MRS. C. T. WAX

"I now understand why so many people are praising Gly-Cas—it deserves it all and more too," continued Mrs. Wax. "My bowels were regulated almost at once, dreadful poisons removed and before I realized it I was eating and sleeping like anyone else. I get up of a morning full of my former strength and energy and really feel fine. Too much praise cannot be given a medicine like Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

alcoholic beverages will be revoked.

Mr. Smith pointed out that the ordinance was drawn following a conference at the Monroe city hall attended by officials of the parish and cities of Monroe and West Monroe, including the city attorneys of each municipality and by its provisions the law in no way conflicts with municipal ordinances now in effect in these cities.

He further stated that the ordinance is being passed to protect dealers in alcoholic liquors and to prevent scenes and accidents that if allowed to go unchecked are calculated to bring the entire sale of liquor under condemnation of the public.

Sheriff Milton Coverdale, who was in attendance, assured that he would have all proprietors of places where alcoholic liquor is sold in the entire parish informed by 6 p.m. Saturday of the new ordinance and its requirements and that he would see that his office enforced its provisions rigidly.

The text of the ordinance adopted is as follows:

"Section 1. Be It Ordained by the police jury of the parish of Ouachita, Louisiana, in special session convened, that the following words and phrases, when used in this ordinance shall, for the purpose of this ordinance, have the respective meanings ascribed to them in this section:

"a. Alcoholic beverages. Any fluid or solid capable of being converted into fluid, suitable for human consumption, and having an alcoholic content greater than one-half of one per cent by volume, including naturally fermented wine, treated wine, fortified wine, sparkling wine, distilled liquors, blended distilled liquors fit for beverage purposes or any mixture of the same, vinous or malt liquors, beer and fruit juices.

"Section 2. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that all public dance halls, cabarets, night clubs and road houses shall close their respective places of business at two o'clock a.m., and remain closed until six o'clock a.m., of the same day, except they are to stay closed from Sunday morning at two o'clock a.m., until six o'clock a.m., the following Monday morning.

"Section 3. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, whomsoever, to sell, offer for sale, or give away any alcoholic beverage, as defined by the ordinance, between the hours of twelve o'clock, midnight, and six o'clock a.m., of the following day, and between the hours of twelve o'clock, midnight Saturday, and six o'clock a.m., of the following Monday.

"Section 4. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that any person, persons, association of persons, firm or corporation, or, if a corporation, the officers thereof who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment in the parish jail for not more than thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

"Section 5. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that upon a final conviction in the court of competent jurisdiction of a violation of Section 3 of this ordinance, the parish licenses for the sale of alcoholic beverages, as defined herein, shall be revoked.

"Section 6. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that if any clause, sentence, paragraph or part of this ordinance, for any reason, be finally adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this ordinance but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph or any part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment has been rendered.

"Section 7. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that this ordinance shall take effect at once, that same is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety.

"Section 8. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed."

after a long wait after the start of the African war that Graziani was called in as a "pinch hitter" and given permission to start rolling his offensive in southern Ethiopia.

When the insurgents start their major offensive, according to London advices, they are going to push forward with all possible speed in an effort to end the war within two months for the long, drawn-out conflict is placing an inestimable drain on their supplies and soldiers.

Speed and mobility will be the orders for this new advance in Spain, and few military leaders are as able to direct that kind of advance as Graziani.

For three months at the beginning of the Ethiopian war he fretted behind his entrenchments at Dolo on the border of Italian Somaliland. Finally, in January, 1936, when the Italian advance from the north was being slowed down by the Ethiopian armies, Graziani was given permission to start up from the south in the hope that he could harass Haile Selassie's troops enough to make mandatory the immediate shift of Ethiopian troops from the north to the south.

That strategy was more successful than the Italian high command had first believed possible, for Graziani gave one order to his "hell on wheels" column, which the writer accompanied on that offensive, and that was to keep moving.

So fast did Graziani's army move that it cut completely through the heart of the Ethiopian lines until the Italians were fighting almost as many of the enemy on their flanks and rear as they were forward. But, the order came to "keep 'em rolling," and roll they did, leaving the slow moving enemy far behind.

When and if he goes to Spain, Graziani, who once told the writer that the most annoying word he knew was "firma" (wait), will find several of the generals who served under him in the "hell on wheels" column in Ethiopia.

The commander of one of the Italian divisions, the one that lost so heavily at Guadalajara, is General Bergonzoli, the diminutive commandant with handle bar mustaches. Too, reported in Spain are Generals Agostini and Frusci. Bergonzoli and Agostini commanded divisions in the "hell on wheels" column that captured Neghelli, Ethiopia, while General Frusci commanded an Italian division that fought up from the south on the Ogaden front towards Harar.

So it would be old home week for the Italian officers in Spain if Graziani goes there.

to their buddies of Barkdull Faulk post. It is an event they look forward to every year, made possible by the contributions of Monroe citizens on the annual tag day sponsored by the Women's auxiliary of the local post. Following the distribution of candies, cigars, cigarettes and other remembrances, a lively program was presented by Zola Mae Gossett, Dorothy Gossett, C. O. Prestige, Louis Wood, Marie Louise Marino, Christine Galloway, "Sweetheart of the American Legion," Willie "the Whistler," Jerry Hodge, and Dupont brothers, blackface comedians. The program was given under the direction of Miss Winnie McCoy. Mrs. Wayne Huckabay, of the Women's auxiliary, had charge of the party, which was transported to Alexandria by a municipal bus through the courtesy of Superintendent W. G. Mangham.

The arrangements for the event were made by Sam Rubin, J. J. Martin, and F. Thompson, committee of the Barkdull Faulk post.

ATTEND FLORAL SCHOOL

Miss Mary Mills Hunt and her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. D. Hunt, have just returned from Memphis, where they attended a school in floral designing conducted by Charles H. Grakelow of Philadelphia. The two featured events of the school were the plant clinic in charge of Professor H. B. Dorner, University of Illinois, one of the nation's leading authorities, and the school of designing.

'DO SOMETHING TO ENCOURAGE BUSINESS MAN'

Among economists who contributed their views were David Friday of Washington, Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, James H. R. Cromwell of New Jersey, Colonel Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland, Dr. Willford I. King of New York university, O. C. Ault of George Peabody college at Nashville, Tenn., B. M. Anderson, economist for the Chase National bank, Dr. Reid L. McClung of the University of Southern California, Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, Abraham Berglund of the University of Virginia, and Morton A. Aldrich of Tulane university.

Not all the economists thought congress would relieve the situation. Some held that the remedy lay in cooperation between labor and business on wages, prices and steady employment. Others said business could pull itself out of the hole by holding prices down and thus increasing consumption. One asserted that a housing drive, properly conducted, would set things going full tilt.

Of the experts who urged action by congress, some were strong for giving more credit control to the federal reserve board. Others contended credit had nothing to do with the problem. Some wanted taxes up. Some wanted taxes down. But all wanted business to get the feeling, as one put it, that the Roosevelt administration was ready to "make friends."

David Friday summed it up emphatically:

"There is need of some definite, dramatic action to show that government promises of helping business is more than just a lot of talk."

Such "dramatic action," he said, would be to "abolish the undistributed profits tax." He added:

"If they take it off * * *, business is going to expand plants immediately, and that will create a good deal of construction work where it is most needed. New taxes to replace the undistributed profits levy would not be necessary because we already have the social security tax to take its place."

One of the proponents of credit control was Professor Fisher of Yale. Said he:

"The main reason for the present recession, as well as for the original depression, was monetary; the main remedy must be monetary.

"Between 1929 and 1933 the nation's check-book money (demand deposits) shrank by eight billion dollars. That great shrinkage could not help but make a great depression. Between 1933 and 1936 that shortage of money was more than made up. Its restoration could not help but make recovery.

"In 1937 this money supply has been shrinking again. So far it has shrunk by one billion dollars. That shrinkage could not but make a recession. Restoring the shortage would largely cure the recession.

"The best method is one which could be applied almost overnight if congress would enact the necessary legislation.

"This method is for federal reserve banks to lend to member banks, without interest, enough new bank credit to bring present 20 per cent reserves behind demand deposits up to 100 per cent so as to get the volume of our money under control, and then to buy bonds with still more credit until enough deposits shall be in circulation to bring back prices, business and employment."

Another advocate of credit control by congress was James H. R. Cromwell, economist husband of Doris Duke, the tobacco heiress.

An entirely different point of view on credit came from Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, of Cleveland, O., who contended the cure for the present slump "cannot be successfully sought in monetary or credit stimulants, but it could be found through removal of business barriers" by congress.

"Restoration of railroad and utility purchasing power," he said, "would do it."

Dr. Calvin Hoover, of Duke university, North Carolina, said a balanced budget would be "desirable" but "realism compels the recognition that it is likely to be impossible if the present business recession continues."

"There is the utmost necessity at a time like the present, when the possibility of a relapse into depression exists, that business should develop a far more conciliatory attitude toward labor, that labor leaders should make the most strenuous efforts to maintain labor discipline and that both should develop an increased sense of national responsibility. Finally, the present mutual hostility between business and the administration must somehow be resolved if recovery is to be resumed."

B. M. Anderson, Jr., economist for the Chase National bank in New York City, advocated balancing of the budget by economies, repealing the undistributed profits tax, reducing the capital gains tax to a low flat rate "which would increase revenue from that source," relaxing restrictions on the security markets, defeating the wage-and-hour bill now before congress, assuring utilities "there will not be government competition," and restoring international trade.

heroin were handled by the syndicate.

In New York, the treasury agents arrested Mary de Bello Pennochio and Vito Pennochio, wife and brother of Tommy (the Bull) Pennochio, a member of the Luciano gang who now is serving a 25-year sentence in Sing Sing.

Arrested with Mrs. Pennochio in her home on Mulberry street, were her father and brother, Pietro and George de Bello.

In Pittsburgh, agents arrested Yee On Li alias Yee Haim, former president of the Hip Sing tong, which is one of the major Chinese organizations in this country. Chin Joo Hip and his son, Chin Joo Hipp, the younger, were seized at Butte, Mont. The elder Chin, described by Anslinger as the "father of the tong," was said to be the principal advisor and contact man for the narcotic ring.

Anslinger said the investigation "started from scratch" after agents had traced the source of supply of a minor addict arrested in New York.

Anslinger said no further arrests were expected.

"We knew who we wanted and we got them," he said.

hardware company executive and prominent socially, and Louis H. Hardie and James F. Ferry, employes of the firm of Stauffer.

West is in Honduras now. The four other men were arrested here last night and released on bond for their appearance Wednesday.

Today four witnesses were subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury Monday for an investigation of the alleged conspiracy.

They were William M. Rose, master of the Sixaola; E. R. Tilton, radio operator on the vessel, and two negro employes of Slobotzky.

The serving of subpoenas on the captain and the radio operator slightly delayed the sailing of the vessel today for the tropics with a large group of winter vacationists. Substitutes had to be placed on the ship for them.

The captain and the operator were ordered to take before the grand jury the logs, records and other maritime data of the ship.

Government agents said raids were made Friday night on the firms of Stauffer and Slobotzky and papers and records of the firms were seized.

alcoholic beverages will be revoked.

Mr. Smith pointed out that the ordinance was drawn following a conference at the Monroe city hall attended by officials of the parish and cities of Monroe and West Monroe, including the city attorneys of each municipality and by its provisions the law in no way conflicts with municipal ordinances now in effect in these cities.

He further stated that the ordinance is being passed to protect dealers in alcoholic liquors and to prevent scenes and accidents that if allowed to go unchecked are calculated to bring the entire sale of liquor under condemnation of the public.

Sheriff Milton Coverdale, who was in attendance, assured that he would have all proprietors of places where alcoholic liquor is sold in the entire parish informed by 6 p.m. Saturday of the new ordinance and its requirements and that he would see that his office enforced its provisions rigidly.

The text of the ordinance adopted is as follows:

"Section 1. Be It Ordained by the police jury of the parish of Ouachita, Louisiana, in special session convened, that the following words and phrases, when used in this ordinance shall, for the purpose of this ordinance, have the respective meanings ascribed to them in this section:

"a. Alcoholic beverages. Any fluid or solid capable of being converted into fluid, suitable for human consumption, and having an alcoholic content greater than one-half of one per cent by volume, including naturally fermented wine, treated wine, fortified wine, sparkling wine, distilled liquors, blended distilled liquors fit for beverage purposes or any mixture of the same, vinous or malt liquors, beer and fruit juices.

"Section 2. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that all public dance halls, cabarets, night clubs and road houses shall close their respective places of business at two o'clock a.m., and remain closed until six o'clock a.m., of the same day, except they are to stay closed from Sunday morning at two o'clock a.m., until six o'clock a.m., the following Monday morning.

"Section 3. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, whomsoever, to sell, offer for sale, or give away any alcoholic beverage, as defined by the ordinance, between the hours of twelve o'clock, midnight, and six o'clock a.m., of the following day, and between the hours of twelve o'clock, midnight Saturday, and six o'clock a.m., of the following Monday.

"Section 4. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that any person, persons, association of persons, firm or corporation, or, if a corporation, the officers thereof who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction there be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment in the parish jail for not more than thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

"Section 5. Bt It Further Ordained, etc., that upon a final conviction in the court of competent jurisdiction of a violation of Section 3 of this ordinance, the parish licenses for the sale of alcoholic beverages, as defined herein, shall be revoked.

"Section 6. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that if any clause, sentence, paragraph or part of this ordinance, for any reason, be finally adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this ordinance but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph or any part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment has been rendered.

"Section 7. Bt It Further Ordained, etc., that this ordinance shall take effect at once, that same is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety.

"Section 8. Be It Further Ordained, etc., that all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed."

Gly-Cas Was First Medicine That Did Not Disappoint Her

Back Pains, Sleeplessness, Dizzy Spells, Lack Of Energy Made Her Miserable—Gly-Cas Again Unfailing

"I did not realize there was such a remarkable remedy as this new Gly-Cas," said Mrs. C. T. Wax, 234 St. Joseph street, Baton Rouge, La. "I was so badly constipated even the strongest of cathartics failed in my case. My entire system was clogged with poisons. For years my stomach would not digest foods properly. Attacks of indigestion were sure to follow every meal I ate, gas formed in abundance, pressing against my heart and causing palpitation. I had awful dizzy spells, was nervous, kidneys became disordered and seldom got a good night's sleep. My back pained almost constantly it seemed, often crippling me until I could hardly get around. Medicines repeatedly failed in my case but it was not until I was persuaded to try this new Gly-Cas that I got the ONE REAL MEDICINE of them all.

MRS. C. T. WAX

"I now understand why so many people are praising Gly-Cas—it deserves it all and more too," continued Mrs. Wax. "My bowels were regulated almost at once, dreadful poisons removed and before I realized it I was eating and sleeping like anyone else. I get up of a morning full of my former strength and energy and really feel fine. Too much praise cannot be given a medicine like Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

GEORGE V LOFTON, SPORTS EDITOR

MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1937

Louisiana College Shades Tech In Homecoming, 13-12

SPORTS CHATTER

By George V. Lofton

M'LANE'S BATTLE

His hundreds of friends throughout north Louisiana are rejoicing that Eddie McLane's gallant fight for his life in an Alexandria hospital is just about won. They're confident that, given the least break, the popular head coach at Louisiana Tech will pull through in grand style.

The near-tragic accident at Bunkie last Saturday night shocked us all and Eddie's many friends spent some anxious hours Sunday and Monday and Tuesday. Wednesday when it appeared that he'd recover unless complications set in, they began to feel a bit easier but not until he's pronounced definitely out of danger will gloom be dispelled.

Only Mac's "will to win" and his strong physical condition pulled him through. We have the word of a physician for that. We called Bunkie late Saturday night following the accident and they'd just started for Alexandria with him. The doctor who attended him was dubious of his chances to recover.

"Coach McLane is a strong man," he told us. "He has a stout heart and only those two things will pull him through."

Hundreds of persons anxiously sought information concerning his condition during the three days that he was in such critical condition. All day Sunday we answered telephone calls at home and the office was bombarded Monday and Tuesday as further indication of his popularity. Everybody expressed the fervent hope that he would recover. It was a great tribute to a fine personality.

We were glad that Tech authorities decided to play out the football schedule. It makes little difference whether the Bulldogs win or lose. Under their present strain and without their head coach, the players can't be expected to function as smoothly as they would under ordinary circumstances But they ARE playing the game, just as their skipper would have requested if he had been able to make his wishes known.

His winning personality will be missed and it's the sincere hope of thousands of friends and acquaintances that the old "McLane smile" will be in evidence again before many weeks have passed.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

A story in a New Orleans newspaper to the effect that Southeastern had offered to play Northeast Center in Monroe or Hammond for a $500 guarantee had local football fans talking last week. Southeastern, the article stated, was angling for a post-season game and nothing would please the Lions more than to get another crack at the Indians. They were willing to come up here for $500 or pay the Indians $500 at Hammond.

Prospects for a return engagement, we're sorry to state, aren't quite as rosy as that. It seems somebody sent the story to the New Orleans paper without bothering to consult with "Red" Swanson, head man in the Lions' camp. We contacted the genial mentor and here's his statement:

"The article in the paper did not come from Southeastern Louisiana college. However, we are willing to play Northeast Center for a reasonable guarantee, or give the Indians the same guarantee to come here."

Coach Jim Malone told us two weeks ago that he would attempt to book another game with Southeastern. He later advised that he had been unable to complete negotiations for the game and indicated that there was little chance of getting it.

However, Coach Swanson's telegram indicates that he's willing to discuss the matter, at least. The Lions, apparently, want a game and he's open to a proposition. He didn't state what he thought a reasonable guarantee would be but he added that he'd "take or give," and that's fair enough. If Center doesn't feel like paying whatever Swanson asks to come to Monroe, then the Indians can receive the same amount for taking another trip to Hammond. Certainly the treasury of each institution can stand a little nourishment.

Another meeting of the two teams should prove just as thrilling as the first battle. A return engagement undoubtedly would be a huge financial success.

QUARTERBACKING

We received an interesting letter last week from one who signed himself "Center Fan" and he seeks a discussion of "the right thing to do in the right place." It's a subject that coaches and football players have been arguing ever since the game was invented, and nobody to our knowledge has found the correct answer yet.

The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Lofton: Enclosed you will find a clipping which I have extracted from the sports section of the Monroe Morning World of Sunday, November 14.

"As you already know, the Northeast Center Indians and the Southeastern football teams met on the gridiron of Southeastern and the game ended in a scoreless tie, much to the disappointment of Center fans.

"You will recall the few seconds that Center was in possession of the ball on Southeastern's three-yard stripe, fourth down and three to go for a touchdown, which would have meant victory for Center.

"You have, no doubt, heard many comments on the last play on which Center elected to pass and which was broken up over the goal.

"This clipping contains the plays with which Alabama whipped Georgia Tech in the last few minutes of the ball game Saturday. I imagine that the Alabama team has one of the smartest quarterbacks in the

TULANE RALLIES AGAINST SEWANEE TO WIN, 33 TO 7

Tennesseeans Score First But Greenie First Stringers Click Well

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Tulane university by main strength defeated today a hard-fighting Sewanee football team 33 to 7 before 10,000 spectators who braved raw weather.

Sewanee kept Tulane on the short end of the score during the first half but Tulane's offense began to click and the Green Wave rolled up a one-sided score at the finish.

Bill Cochrane, taking advantage of a break in the second period, raced 15 yards around right end behind fine interference to score against Tulane.

Coach Lowell Dawson, of Tulane, experimented with a changed lineup at the start of the game but he had to run in his full first string to offset the fight he found his men up against.

Then Mattis and Andrews began alternating with the ball carrying and Banker, Andrews, Payne and Nyhan piled up the scores.

The starting lineups:

Sewanee	Pos.	Tulane
Keiser	LE	Oelschlager
Frazier	LT	White
Phillips	LG	Dailey
Crozier	C	Gorman
M. Hall	RG	Henley
Lasater	RT	Upton
Whitley	RE	Dirmann
Cochrane	QB	Nyhan
Hagler	LH	Flowers
Laws	RH	Dexheimer
Stanphill	FB	Sauer

Score by periods:

Sewanee	0	7	0	0—7
Tulane	0	0	13	20—33

Sewanee scoring: Touchdown, Cochrane; point after touchdown, Lasater (placement).

Tulane scoring: Touchdown, Banker, Andrews 2, Payne, Nyhan. Points after touchdown, Mattis, Payne 2 (placements).

Officials: Referee, C. J. MacDonald (Minnes..); umpire, J. E. Burchard (Mississippi college); head linesman, H. J. Leonard (Marion institute); field judge, H. G. Mouat (Armour).

NAVY UPSET BY PRINCETON, 26-6

Tigers Finally Start Clicking And Hand Middies Neat Pasting

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 20—(AP)—A Princeton football team, already soundly thrashed by Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard and Yale, turned on another tormenter and gave Navy a 26-6 pasting.

Thus the Tigers salvaged some satisfaction from the worst campaign since Fritz Crisler came to Princeton. They did so smartly and decisively and, from the time they scored their opening touchdown, didn't let Navy's reputed power get up even half a head of steam.

The Princeton line emerged as a well knit, cohesive unit. Behind it the Princeton backs, notably Sophomore Bob Hinchman, Junior Tom Mountain and Senior Jack White, worked smoothly to effect Navy's destruction.

It was Hinchman who set the first scoring drive under way. He started it from the Tiger 34 with a 14-yard end run, finished it with a 13-yard pass to Jack Daniel which the latter toted another 41 yards for the touchdown. Hinchman then added the extra point.

The sophomore halfback's passes also put the Tigers in position for their third score, made by Fulback Ashby Harper on the same fake reverse with which Ken Sandbach beat the Midshipmen a year ago.

White and Mountain combined for the other two.

Wood's 58-yard punt return for a touchdown, first Navy score on Princeton since 1931, was the only time they got by midfield in the second quarter.

The lineups:

Navy	Pos.	Princeton
Fike	LE	Hall
Bergner	LT	Toll
Spector	LG	Rose
Wallace	C	Casey

PEDLEY PLUNKED

Eric Pedley, famous polo player, took this position on the turf for a few minutes after stopping one of Captain Ramos Sesma's hard smashes with his knee in a California-Mexico contest at Midwick Country club, near Los Angeles. Sesma is lending him a helping hand. Pedley got up and led the Californians to a 13-11 victory.

MINNESOTA CLINCHES BIG TEN GRID CROWN

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Minnesota won full possession of the Western conference football crown today by overpowering Wisconsin 13 to 6 in a spectacular windup of the season.

It was the fifth straight Big Ten victory for the Gophers.

The Badgers showed valiant fight against the Minnesota powerhouse and were an unremitting threat from the start of the game.

Minnesota scored first in the second period on a march from its own 16, Bill Matheny counting on a 13-yard dash around left end, aided by beautiful blocking. Bell placekicked the extra point and Minnesota went into a 7 to 0 lead at halftime.

The Badgers retaliated with the opening of the second, and aided by a 24-yard pass ruled complete because of interference, blasted through to the Gopher four, whence Howard Weiss carried it over for the score.

Another irresistible 76-yard drive by Minnesota in the final quarter found Marty Christiansen, reserve fullback, cracking over from the three.

The Gophers used tricky lateral plays to advantage, particularly in their first touchdown drive.

WASHINGTON WINS FROM OREGON ELEVEN, 14 TO 0

SEATTLE, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The University of Washington gained a first division berth in the Pacific Coast conference football standings with a 14 to 0 triumph over the University of Oregon here today.

On the first scrimmage play of the game, Merle Miller, Washington halfback, dashed 67 yards, and crossed the Oregon goal line on the fourth play of the contest. He added the other touchdown with a two-yard plunge in the last period.

BULLDOGS DROP CLOSE GAME TO WILDCAT ELEVEN

Failure To Add Extra Point Costly; Payne's 80-Yard Run Features

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana college's Wildcats celebrated homecoming here today by defeating the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs, 13 to 12.

The Wildcats' little captain, Devone Payne, stood out in leading his team to an upset victory over the Ruston gridsters, scoring one of the touchdowns on an 80-yard gallop in the third quarter.

Vic Barber plunged over the two-yard line with the first score for the Cats and Jake Cameron, senior from Homer, La., kicked the extra point that brought triumph.

Both of Tech's scores came on passes, the first netting a gain of 40 yards and the second a two-yard pass with less than 30 seconds of the game remaining to be played.

Tech's loss came in the absence of their head coach, Eddie McLane, who was in the Baptist hospital here with serious injuries suffered last Saturday night in an automobile accident near Bunkie.

Featuring the program was the crowning of the homecoming queen, Miss Vivian Jones, of Clarks.

The Bulldogs of Ruston were favorites at game time despite the loss of their coach.

The Cats now have won five victories, Tech three and three contests have resulted in ties in the last 11 years. One season no game was played. The Cats held the Bulldogs to a 6-6 deadlock last fall.

Today's engagement marked the final battle for the Cats this season and the farewell to Captain Payne, who has scored seven of his team's touchdowns, Cameron, co-star in the backfield, Murphy Corkern, guard, and Davis LeDoux, end.

HAAS WINNER OF PRESIDENT'S CUP

Young Monroe Golfer Defeats H. A. McDonald In Final At McGuire

Cramer Haas yesterday won the President's Cup tournament, which has been in progress at McGuire Park Golf club for several weeks by defeating H. A. McDonald, 2 and 1, in the final match. The tournament was a handicap affair.

Both finalists played good golf but McDonald, despite an advantage in handicap, wasn't quite able to match the brand displayed by young Haas.

The battle for consolation honors was even closer. M. C. McDonald and John Jordan, the survivors, played their 18 holes and at the end of the match found themselves all square. They will meet again in another 18-hole encounter in an effort to settle the issue.

Jim McKenzie, McGuire pro, reported a large crowd played at the West Monroe course yesterday. He said the attendance has been holding up well despite inclement weather.

Women members of the club have taken advantage of the recently enlarged clubhouse, McKenzie said. Many women are playing the course, he said, and many others are meeting for the weekly bridge games.

The course is in excellent condition, the McGuire pro reported.

MISSISSIPPI STATE FROSH WHIP OLE MISS YEARLINGS

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The State college freshmen, scoring in each period, ran over the Ole Miss yearlings for a 43-0 victory today before 5,000 fans.

Sonny Bruce and Frank Chambers starred for the baby Maroons, Bruce ran 80 yards from scrimmage for the first touchdown, and Chambers took Les Dodson's kick for an 89-yard touchdown jaunt in the fourth period. He also scored two others.

The Rebel frosh made only two first downs to 20 for the State team.

BAYLOR'S AERIAL ATTACK CLICKS TO BEAT LOYOLA

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The revived Baylor Bears smothered Loyola university of Los Angeles, 27-13, today as Bullet Bill Patterson tossed three touchdown passes.

In the first quarter, Bubba Gernand took a short pass from Patterson, ran 43 yards for a touchdown and then kicked goal.

Baylor scored two more in the second period, Huessner and Barnes snaring end zone passes from Patterson. The Texans' fourth score was made in the last period when Brazell raced through the Loyola line for 25 yards and a touchdown.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN HALTS RICE, 7-2

Davie O'Brien Hurls Winning Pass For Froggies In Final Quarter

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Little David O'Brien of Texas Christian hurled one deadly missile from his slingshot today and Rice institute, Goliath of the Southwest conference, fell 7-2.

The 148-pound quarterback, whose hurling attempts were important in the first three periods, picked his spot soon after the fourth period opened and heaved a 41-yard pass. Down on the 12-yard line Elbert (Spud) Taylor, a sophomore, bagged it and headed for the goal line, but was stopped on the one-yard stripe.

On his second thrust at the Rice wall O'Brien burrowed through guard for the score and then stepped back and added the extra point.

Big Ernie Lain re-entered the Owl line-up with only five minutes to play and managed to excite the Owls into gaining the ball on the Christian nine, but ironically, it was his own failure that cost them a scoring chance.

He skipped his usually effective passing for a twirl at the Christian right end but was carried far back to the 23-yard line for a loss the Owls couldn't regain. The Christians finally took over the ball on their own nine.

DARTMOUTH TAKES IVY LEAGUE CROWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Dartmouth's Indians reached the end of their football warpath today with a 27 to 0 massacre of Columbia, an old-fashioned tomahawking that gave them the "ivy league" championship and their first unbeaten season since 1925.

The Big Chiefs from Hanover twisted the Lions' tails like so much papier mache, scoring 21 of their points within a space of 5½ minutes from the close of the second to the start of the third periods.

The victory gave the Indians their second "ivy league" title in a row and dropped Lou Little of Columbia to a new-time low for his coaching career. It was the first time in 17 years that his team had been licked five times in one year.

A wild finish in the second period was all Dartmouth needed to polish out Columbia. It began when the period had 1½ minutes to go. Fred Hollingsworth of St. Louis passed to Bob MacLeod of Glen Ellyn, who caught the 17-yard aerial on the Columbia five and ran without interference for the first touchdown. Bob Gibson of Stamford, Conn., placekicked the extra point.

OHIO STATE ROLLS OVER MICHIGAN TEAM, 21 TO 0

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Ohio State's Scarlet Tide rolled relentlessly over Michigan's hopes of a winning football season today, vanquishing the Wolverines for the fourth successive year, 21 to 0.

Ohio State, paced by Jim Miller, brilliant halfback, scored two touchdowns through the air and reached scoring position for its third touchdown by the aerial route.

Its first two points, however, came from a safety scored when Norm Purucker, Michigan punter, was tackled by Charles Ream, Buckeye end, behind the Michigan goal line, on the first play of the second period.

CALIFORNIA WINS PASADENA BID BY BEATING INDIANS

Bears' 13-0 Victory Over Stanford Clinches Coast Championship

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 20.—(AP)—California's undefeated football juggernaut rolled to a 13 to 0 victory today over Stanford's Indians, climaxing the finest season in nearly a decade by charging to the coast conference championship and the right to represent the west in the Rose Bowl game New Year's day.

In the second period Left Half Vic Bottari and Fullback Dave Anderson of California pounded the line on successive plays to put the oval on the nine-yard stripe. A bit later Bottari broke through from the four-yard marker for the initial touchdown. It capped a 77-yard advance.

The Bears put the ball into play on their own 35-yard line after the kickoff and dipped into Stanford territory on a 39-yard pass, Bottari to Chapman. Line bucks and a five-yard penalty against Stanford put the ball three yards from the scoring turf. Chapman raced around right end to score, and added the extra point.

The victory left California with a seasonal record of six wins, no defeats and one tie.

FORDHAM SHADES ST. MARY'S, 6-0

Rams Look Good In Midfield But Otherwise Disappoint Followers

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Showing a wealth of offensive power in midfield but slight scoring punch when the goal posts neared, the Fordham Rams only partially pleased their Rose Bowl boosters today as they downed the scarlet-pantied St. Mary's, 6 to 0, at the Polo Grounds.

The way they tore up the sodden turf between the 20-yard lines, the Rams might have scored six touchdowns instead of the lone marker that rewarded a 58-yard drive in the third period.

Completely outclassed were the once-Galloping Gaels. They made only one first down—and that on a pass—while Fordham's fleet backs piled up 16 behind their massive line. The Rams gained, in all, 290 yards; St. Mary's only 32. The great kicking of Jerry Dowd for St. Mary's did much to keep the score down.

John Lock, a substitute fullback, was the lad who saved the bacon for the Rams. He went in at the start of the third quarter, after his mates had been blundering around for 30 minutes, threatening and falling back. He began tearing yawning holes through the St. Mary's line, and without letting go of the leather he plunged and fought his way from his own 37-yard line down to the St. Mary's 12. Joe Woitkoski scored from there.

The lineup:

8 MAJOR ELEVENS LOSE IN LATEST WAVE OF UPSETS

California Clinches Pasadena Bid But Fight For Other Berth Scrambled

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

California's Golden Bears have moved in as the far western Rose Bowl representative but the latest wave of football upsets failed to shed much additional light on just what outfit will get the job of opposing Stub Allison's Pacific Coast conference champions at Pasadena New Year's day.

While Yale's favored Bulldogs were suffering their first defeat at the hands of Harvard, and Boston college, Navy, Syracuse, Holy Cross, Indiana, Kansas State and Arkansas were cast in the unwanted roles of victims in a series of form reversals yesterday, California wound up an unbeaten season with a 13-0 conquest of Stanford that carried with it the conference championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl classic.

Keeping step with the Golden Bears were the unbeaten eastern Goliaths, Pittsburgh, Fordham, Villanova and Dartmouth. The south's chief Rose Bowl candidate, Alabama, was idle in preparation for its Thanksgiving day clash with Vanderbilt, itself rated by some experts as a Pasadena eligible if it gets past Alabama.

A crowd of 90,000 saw California, tied by Washington but undefeated, turn back Stanford with a second-half drive that accounted for both touchdowns. Pitt, with its great backfield aces, Goldberg, Cassiano, Stebbins and Patrick, running wild, crushed Penn State by 28-7 and now needs to stop Duke next Saturday to wind up a season marred only by a scoreless tie with Fordham's powerful Rams.

Fordham was less impressive in a 6-0 victory over St. Mary's Gaels from California, although the undefeated Rams dominated play from start to finish. Unbeaten Villanova ran up the biggest score in the history of the series in routing Pop Warner's Temple Owls, 33-0. Dartmouth, which has said officially it will play no post-season games, completed an unbeaten season with an easy 27-0 conquest of Columbia, giving the Indians from Hanover, N. H., clear title to the "ivy league" championship.

Meanwhile Lafayette's Leopards downed their traditional rivals, Lehigh's Engineers, 6-0, to complete a season marked by neither defeat nor tie.

Yale, led as usual by the irrepressible Clint Frank, gave Harvard a stiff fight but in the end the crowd of 58,000 saw the Crimson win out 13-6, on its hard-driving ground attack and effective passes tossed by Frank Foley. Harvard's victory carried with it the "big three" title, first time the Crimson has won it since 1915.

Unbeaten Holy Cross was held to its second scoreless draw, this time by Carnegie Tech, in a major eastern surprise, but the biggest form reversal of the day overtook Navy's Tars, who were thoroughly shellacked by Princeton, 26-6. Boston university beat Boston college for the first time in history, 13-6, while Colgate, trampled by most everybody this season, once more showed itself Syracuse's master, 7-0.

Maryland's clever Southern conference team outpointed Georgetown 12-2; Manhattan tripped Niagara, 13-7 and Army's reserves buried St. John's of Annapolis, 47-6.

Competition in the midwest saw Minnesota's Gophers capture the Bi Ten championship by virtue of a 13- victory over Wisconsin's battlin Badgers. Ohio State's Buckeyes gained second place with an easy 21-0 triumph over Michigan. Purdue surprised the experts by jolting Bo McMillin's Indiana array, 13-7. Illinoi turned back Chicago with a second half drive, 21-0.

Notre Dame took advantage of on break to score the only touchdown of the game in a 7-0 defeat of Northwestern's Wildcats. The remaining Bi Ten member, Iowa, was soundly laced by Nebraska, 28-0.

Iowa State's unpredictable Cyclone upset all calculations in a 13-7 triumph over Kansas State in the onl Big Six game of the day. Missou won over Washington university (S Louis) 3-0, but Kansas was trippe by Arizona, 9-7.

Rice's drive toward the Southwe conference crown met with a ruc set-back as Texas Christian's Horne Frogs, paced by Davey O'Brie pounded out a 7-2 verdict that thre the conference race wide open agai Baylor ran up a 27-13 count on Loyo (California) and Southern Methodi invaded the far west to snare a 26- decision over U. C. L. A. Arkansa Razorbacks, however, were held scoreless for the first time since 1934 in 0-0 deadlock with George Washingto

Despite its defeat by Californi Stanford finished second in the Pacific Coast race as Oregon State bowe to Washington State, 7-0. Washingto bowling over Oregon, 14-0, finishe third. Montana, previously unbeat and untied, fell victim to Idaho, 6-

There was little action in the sou but Georgia engineered another b surprise in the Southeastern conference race by holding Auburn to a 0 score. Georgia Tech walloped Florid 12-0, and Tulane won from Sewane 33-7, in other conference games. Nor Carolina State fell before Duke in th only Southern conference game of th day, 20-7. Centenary's sturdy Gentlemen were upset by Texas Tech, 7-2.

With Colorado and Denver resti before their Thanksgiving day tit battle, the Rocky Mountain conferen offered little of general interest, a though Colorado State sprang one upset in a 6-0 decision over Colora college. Brigham Young took Monta State over the jumps, 19-0, and Greeley State trounced Colorado Min 32-6.

SPORTS CHATTER

M'LANE'S BATTLE

His hundreds of friends throughout north Louisiana are rejoicing that Eddie McLane's gallant fight for his life in an Alexandria hospital is just about won. They're confident that, given the least break, the popular head coach at Louisiana Tech will pull through in grand style.

The near-tragic accident at Bunkie last Saturday night shocked us all and Eddie's many friends spent some anxious hours Sunday and Monday and Tuesday. Wednesday when it appeared that he'd recover unless complications set in, they began to feel a bit easier but not until he's pronounced definitely out of danger will gloom be dispelled.

Only Mac's "will to win" and his strong physical condition pulled him through. We have the word of a physician for that. We called Bunkie late Saturday night following the accident and they'd just started for Alexandria with him. The doctor who attended him was dubious of his chances to recover.

"Coach McLane is a strong man," he told us. "He has a stout heart and only those two things will pull him through."

Hundreds of persons anxiously sought information concerning his condition during the three days that he was in such critical condition. All day Sunday we answered telephone calls at home and the office was bombarded Monday and Tuesday as further indication of his popularity. Everybody expressed the fervent hope that he would recover. It was a great tribute to a fine personality.

We were glad that Tech authorities decided to play out the football schedule. It makes little difference whether the Bulldogs win or lose. Under their present strain and without their head coach, the players can't be expected to function as smoothly as they would under ordinary circumstances. But they ARE playing the game, just as their skipper would have requested if he had been able to make his wishes known.

His winning personality will be missed and it's the sincere hope of thousands of friends and acquaintances that the old "McLane smile" will be in evidence again before many weeks have passed.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

A story in a New Orleans newspaper to the effect that Southeastern had offered to play Northeast Center in Monroe or Hammond for a $500 guarantee had local football fans talking last week. Southeastern, the article stated, was angling for a post-season game and nothing would please the Lions more than to get another crack at the Indians. They were willing to come up here for $500 or pay the Indians $500 at Hammond.

Prospects for a return engagement, we're sorry to state, aren't quite as rosy as that. It seems somebody sent the story to the New Orleans paper without bothering to consult with "Red" Swanson, head man in the Lions' camp. We contacted the genial mentor and here's his statement:

"The article in the paper did not come from Southeastern Louisiana college. However, we are willing to play Northeast Center for a reasonable guarantee, or give the Indians the same guarantee to come here."

Coach Jim Malone told us two weeks ago that he would attempt to book another game with Southeastern. He later advised that he had been unable to complete negotiations for the game and indicated that there was little chance of getting it.

However, Coach Swanson's telegram indicates that he's willing to discuss the matter, at least. The Lions, apparently, want a game and he's open to a proposition. He didn't state what he thought a reasonable guarantee would be but he added that he'd "take or give," and that's fair enough. If Center doesn't feel like paying whatever Swanson asks to come to Monroe, then the Indians can receive the same amount for taking another trip to Hammond. Certainly the treasury of each institution can stand a little nourishment.

Another meeting of the two teams should prove just as thrilling as the first battle. A return engagement undoubtedly would be a huge financial success.

QUARTERBACKING

We received an interesting letter last week from one who signed himself "Center Fan" and he seeks a discussion of "the right thing to do in the right place." It's a subject that coaches and football players have been arguing ever since the game was invented, and nobody to our knowledge has found the correct answer yet.

The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Lofton: Enclosed you will find a clipping which I have extracted from the sports section of the Monroe Morning World of Sunday, November 14.

"As you already know, the Northeast Center Indians and the Southeastern football teams met on the gridiron of Southeastern and the game ended in a scoreless tie, much to the disappointment of Center fans.

"You will recall the few seconds that Center was in possession of the ball on Southeastern's three-yard stripe, fourth down and three to go for a touchdown, which would have meant victory for Center.

"You have, no doubt, heard many comments on the last play on which Center elected to pass and which was broken up over the goal.

"This clipping contains the plays with which Alabama whipped Georgia Tech in the last few minutes of the ball game Saturday. I imagine that the Alabama team has one of the smartest quarterbacks in the

TULANE RALLIES AGAINST SEWANEE TO WIN, 33 TO 7

Tennesseeans Score First But Greenie First Stringers Click Well

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Tulane university by main strength defeated today a hard-fighting Sewanee football team 33 to 7 before 10,000 spectators who braved raw weather.

Sewanee kept Tulane on the short end of the score during the first half but Tulane's offense began to click and the Green Wave rolled up a one-sided score at the finish.

Bill Cochrane, taking advantage of a break in the second period, raced 15 yards around right end behind fine interference to score against Tulane.

Coach Lowell Dawson, of Tulane, experimented with a changed lineup at the start of the game but he had to run in his full first string to offset the fight he found his men up against.

Then Mattis and Andrews began alternating with the ball carrying and Banker, Andrews, Payne and Nyhan piled up the scores.

NAVY UPSET BY PRINCETON, 26-6

Tigers Finally Start Clicking And Hand Middies Neat Pasting

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A Princeton football team, already soundly thrashed by Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard and Yale, turned on another tormenter and gave Navy a 26-6 pasting.

Thus the Tigers salvaged some satisfaction from the worst campaign since Fritz Crisler came to Princeton. They did so smartly and decisively and, from the time they scored their opening touchdown, didn't let Navy's reputed power get up even half a head of steam.

The Princeton line emerged as a well knit, cohesive unit. Behind it the Princeton backs, notably Sophomore Bob Hinchman, Junior Tom Mountain and Senior Jack White, worked smoothly to effect Navy's destruction.

It was Hinchman who set the first scoring drive under way. He started it from the Tiger 34 with a 14-yard end run, finished it with a 13-yard pass to Jack Daniel which the latter toted another 41 yards for the touchdown. Hinchman then added the extra point.

The sophomore halfback's passes also put the Tigers in position for their third score, made by Fulback Ashby Harper on the same fake reverse with which Ken Sandbach beat the Midshipmen a year ago.

White and Mountain combined for the other two.

Wood's 58-yard punt return for a touchdown, first Navy score on Princeton since 1931, was the only time they got by midfield in the second quarter.

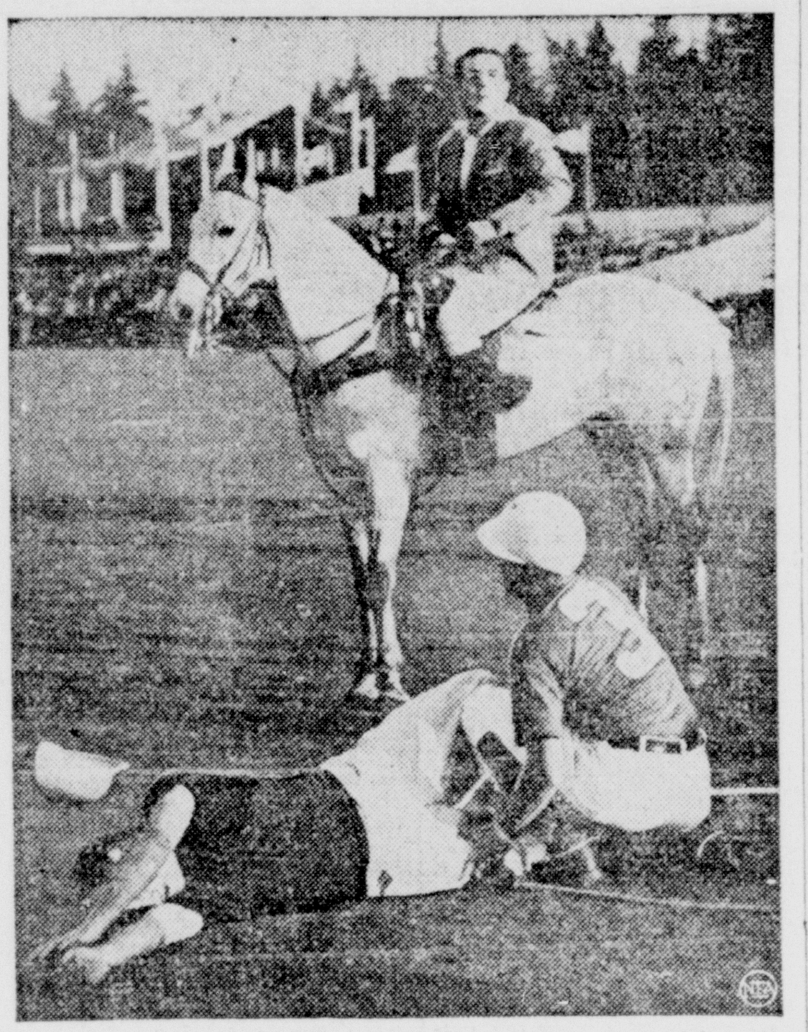
PEDLEY PLUNKED



Eric Pedley, famous polo player, took this position on the turf for a few minutes after stopping one of Captain Ramos Sesma's hard smashes with his knee in a California-Mexico contest at Midwick Country club, near Los Angeles. Sesma is lending him a helping hand. Pedley got up and led the Californians to a 13-11 victory.

MINNESOTA CLINCHES BIG TEN GRID CROWN

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Minnesota won full possession of the Western conference football crown today by overpowering Wisconsin 13 to 6 in a spectacular windup of the season.

It was the fifth straight Big Ten victory for the Gophers.

The Badgers showed valiant fight against the Minnesota powerhouse and were an unremitting threat from the start of the game.

Minnesota scored first in the second period on a march from its own 16, Bill Matheny counting on a 13-yard dash around left end, aided by beautiful blocking. Bell placekicked the extra point and Minnesota went into a 7 to 0 lead at halftime.

The Badgers retaliated with the opening of the second, and aided by a 24-yard pass ruled complete because of interference, blasted through to the Gopher four, whence Howard Weiss carried it over for the score.

Another irresistible 76-yard drive by Minnesota in the final quarter found Marty Christiansen, reserve fullback, cracking over from the three.

The Gophers used tricky lateral plays to advantage, particularly in their first touchdown drive.

WASHINGTON WINS FROM OREGON ELEVEN, 14 TO 0

SEATTLE, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The University of Washington gained a first division berth in the Pacific Coast conference football standings with a 14 to 0 triumph over the University of Oregon here today.

On the first scrimmage play of the game, Merle Miller, Washington halfback, dashed 67 yards, and crossed the Oregon goal line on the fourth play of the contest. He added the other touchdown with a two-yard plunge in the last period.

BULLDOGS DROP CLOSE GAME TO WILDCAT ELEVEN

Failure To Add Extra Point Costly; Payne's 80-Yard Run Features

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana college's Wildcats celebrated homecoming here today by defeating the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs, 13 to 12.

The Wildcats' little captain, Devone Payne, stood out in leading his team to an upset victory over the Ruston gridsters, scoring one of the touchdowns on an 80-yard gallop in the third quarter.

Vic Barber plunged over the two-yard line with the first score for the Cats and Jake Cameron, senior from Homer, La., kicked the extra point that brought triumph.

Both of Tech's scores came on passes, the first netting a gain of 40 yards and the second a two-yard pass with less than 30 seconds of the game remaining to be played.

Tech's loss came in the absence of their head coach, Eddie McLane, who was in the Baptist hospital here with serious injuries suffered last Saturday night in an automobile accident near Bunkie.

Featuring the program was the crowning of the homecoming queen, Miss Vivian Jones, of Clarks.

The Bulldogs of Ruston were favorites at game time despite the loss of their coach.

The Cats now have won five victories, Tech three and three contests have resulted in ties in the last 11 years. One season no game was played. The Cats held the Bulldogs to a 6-6 deadlock last fall.

Today's engagement marked the final battle for the Cats this season and the farewell to Captain Payne, who has scored seven of his team's touchdowns, Cameron, co-star in the backfield, Murphy Corkern, guard, and Davis LeDoux, end.

HAAS WINNER OF PRESIDENT'S CUP

Young Monroe Golfer Defeats H. A. McDonald In Final At McGuire

Cramer Haas yesterday won the President's Cup tournament, which has been in progress at McGuire Park Golf club for several weeks by defeating H. A. McDonald, 2 and 1, in the final match. The tournament was a handicap affair.

Both finalists played good golf but McDonald, despite an advantage in handicap, wasn't quite able to match the brand displayed by young Haas.

The battle for consolation honors was even closer. M. C. McDonald and John Jordan, the survivors, played their 18 holes and at the end of the match found themselves all square. They will meet again in another 18-hole encounter in an effort to settle the issue.

Jim McKenzie, McGuire pro, reported a large crowd played at the West Monroe course yesterday. He said the attendance has been holding up well despite inclement weather.

Women members of the club have taken advantage of the recently enlarged clubhouse, McKenzie said. Many women are playing the course, he said, and many others are meeting for the weekly bridge games.

The course is in excellent condition, the McGuire pro reported.

MISSISSIPPI STATE FROSH WHIP OLE MISS YEARLINGS

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The State college freshmen, scoring in each period, ran over the Ole Miss yearlings for a 43-0 victory today before 5,000 fans.

Sonny Bruce and Frank Chambers starred for the baby Maroons. Bruce ran 80 yards from scrimmage for the first touchdown, and Chambers took Les Dodson's kick for an 89-yard touchdown jaunt in the fourth period. He also scored two others.

The Rebel frosh made only two first downs to 20 for the State team.

BAYLOR'S AERIAL ATTACK CLICKS TO BEAT LOYOLA

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The revived Baylor Bears smothered Loyola university of Los Angeles, 27-13, today as Bullet Bill Patterson tossed three touchdown passes.

In the first quarter, Bubba Gernand took a short pass from Patterson, ran 43 yards for a touchdown and then kicked goal.

Baylor scored two more in the second period, Huessner and Barnes snaring end zone passes from Patterson. The Texans' fourth score was made in the last period when Brazell raced through the Loyola line for 25 yards and a touchdown.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN HALTS RICE, 7-2

Davie O'Brien Hurls Winning Pass For Froggies In Final Quarter

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Little David O'Brien of Texas Christian hurled one deadly missile from his slingshot today and Rice institute, Goliath of the Southwest conference, fell 7-2.

The 148-pound quarterback, whose hurling attempts were important in the first three periods, picked his spot soon after the fourth period opened and heaved a 41-yard pass. Down on the 12-yard line Elbert (Spud) Taylor, a sophomore, bagged it and headed for the goal line, but was stopped on the one-yard stripe.

On his second thrust at the Rice wall O'Brien burrowed through guard for the score and then stepped back and added the extra point.

Big Ernie Lain re-entered the Owl line-up with only five minutes to play and managed to excite the Owls into gaining the ball on the Christian nine, but ironically, it was his own failure that cost them a scoring chance.

He skipped his usually effective passing for a twirl at the Christian right end but was carried far back to the 23-yard line for a loss the Owls couldn't regain. The Christians finally took over the ball on their own nine.

DARTMOUTH TAKES IVY LEAGUE CROWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Dartmouth's Indians reached the end of their football warpath today with a 27 to 0 massacre of Columbia, an old-fashioned tomahawking that gave them the "ivy league" championship and their first unbeaten season since 1925.

The Big Chiefs from Hanover twisted the Lions' tails like so much papier mache, scoring 21 of their points within a space of 5½ minutes from the close of the second to the start of the third periods.

The victory gave the Indians their second "ivy league" title in a row and dropped Lou Little of Columbia to a new-time low for his coaching career. It was the first time in 17 years that his team had been licked five times in one year.

A wild finish in the second period was all Dartmouth needed to polish out Columbia. It began when the period had 1½ minutes to go. Fred Hollingsworth of St. Louis passed to Bob MacLeod of Glen Ellyn, who caught the 17-yard aerial on the Columbia five and ran without interference for the first touchdown. Bob Gibson of Stamford, Conn., placekicked the extra point.

OHIO STATE ROLLS OVER MICHIGAN TEAM, 21 TO 0

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Ohio State's Scarlet Tide rolled relentlessly over Michigan's hopes of a winning football season today, vanquishing the Wolverines for the fourth successive year, 21 to 0.

Ohio State, paced by Jim Miller, brilliant halfback, scored two touchdowns through the air and reached scoring position for its third touchdown by the aerial route.

Its first two points, however, came from a safety scored when Norm Purucker, Michigan punter, was tackled by Charles Ream, Buckeye end, behind the Michigan goal line, on the first play of the second period.

CALIFORNIA WINS PASADENA BID BY BEATING INDIANS

Bears' 13-0 Victory Over Stanford Clinches Coast Championship

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 20.—(AP)—California's undefeated football juggernaut rolled to a 13 to 0 victory today over Stanford's Indians, climaxing the finest season in nearly a decade by charging to the coast conference championship and the right to represent the west in the Rose Bowl game New Year's day.

In the second period Left Half Vic Bottari and Fullback Dave Anderson of California pounded the line on successive plays to put the oval on the nine-yard stripe. A bit later Bottari broke through from the four-yard marker for the initial touchdown. It capped a 77-yard advance.

The Bears put the ball into play on their own 35-yard line after the kick-off and dipped into Stanford territory on a 39-yard pass, Bottari to Chapman. Line bucks and a five-yard penalty against Stanford put the ball three yards from the scoring turf. Chapman raced around right end to score, and added the extra point.

The victory left California with a seasonal record of six wins, no defeats and one tie.

FORDHAM SHADES ST. MARY'S, 6-0

Rams Look Good In Midfield But Otherwise Disappoint Followers

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Showing a wealth of offensive power in midfield but slight scoring punch when the goal posts neared, the Fordham Rams only partially pleased their Rose Bowl boosters today as they downed the scarlet-pantied St. Mary's, 6 to 0, at the Polo Grounds.

The way they tore up the sodden turf between the 20-yard lines, the Rams might have scored six touchdowns instead of the lone marker that rewarded a 58-yard drive in the third period.

Completely outclassed were the once-Galloping Gaels. They made only one first down—and that on a pass—while Fordham's fleet backs piled up 16 behind their massive line. The Rams gained, in all, 290 yards; St. Mary's only 32. The great kicking of Jerry Dowd for St. Mary's did much to keep the score down.

John Lock, a substitute fullback, was the lad who saved the bacon for the Rams. He went in at the start of the third quarter, after his mates had been blundering around for 30 minutes, threatening and falling back. He began tearing yawning holes through the St. Mary's line, and without letting go of the leather he plunged and fought his way from his own 37-yard line down to the St. Mary's 12. Joe Woitkoski scored from there.

The lineup:

8 MAJOR ELEVENS LOSE IN LATEST WAVE OF UPSETS

California Clinches Pasadena Bid But Fight For Other Berth Scrambled

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

California's Golden Bears have moved in as the far western Rose Bowl representative but the latest wave of football upsets failed to shed much additional light on just what outfit will get the job of opposing Stub Allison's Pacific Coast conference champions at Pasadena New Year's day.

While Yale's favored Bulldogs were suffering their first defeat at the hands of Harvard, and Boston college, Navy, Syracuse, Holy Cross, Indiana, Kansas State and Arkansas were cast in the unwanted roles of victims in a series of form reversals yesterday, California wound up an unbeaten season with a 13-0 conquest of Stanford that carried with it the conference championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl classic.

Keeping step with the Golden Bears were the unbeaten eastern Goliaths, Pittsburgh, Fordham, Villanova and Dartmouth. The south's chief Rose Bowl candidate, Alabama, was idle in preparation for its Thanksgiving day clash with Vanderbilt, itself rated by some experts as a Pasadena eligible if it gets past Alabama.

A crowd of 90,000 saw California, tied by Washington but undefeated, turn back Stanford with a second-half drive that accounted for both touchdowns. Pitt, with its great backfield aces, Goldberg, Cassiano, Stebbins and Patrick, running wild, crushed Penn State by 28-7 and now needs to stop Duke next Saturday to wind up a season marred only by a scoreless tie with Fordham's powerful Rams.

Fordham was less impressive in a 6-0 victory over St. Mary's Gaels from California, although the undefeated Rams dominated play from start to finish. Unbeaten Villanova ran up the biggest score in the history of the series in routing Pop Warner's Temple Owls, 33-0. Dartmouth, which has said officially it will play no post-season games, completed an unbeaten season with an easy 27-0 conquest of Columbia, giving the Indians from Hanover, N. H., clear title to the "ivy league" championship.

Meanwhile Lafayette's Leopards downed their traditional rivals, Lehigh's Engineers, 6-0, to complete a season marked by neither defeat nor tie.

Yale, led as usual by the irrepressible Clint Frank, gave Harvard a stiff fight but in the end the crowd of 58,000 saw the Crimson win out, 13-6, on its hard-driving ground attack and effective passes tossed by Frank Foley. Harvard's victory carried with it the "big three" title, first time the Crimson has won it since 1915.

Unbeaten Holy Cross was held to its second scoreless draw, this time by Carnegie Tech, in a major eastern surprise, but the biggest form reversal of the day overtook Navy's Tars, who were thoroughly shellacked by Princeton, 26-6. Boston university beat Boston college for the first time in history, 13-6, while Colgate, trampled by most everybody this season, once more showed itself Syracuse's master, 7-0.

Maryland's clever Southern conference team outpointed Georgetown, 12-2; Manhattan tripped Niagara, 13-7, and Army's reserves buried St. John's of Annapolis, 47-6.

Competition in the midwest saw Minnesota's Gophers capture the Big Ten championship by virtue of a 13-6 victory over Wisconsin's battling Badgers. Ohio State's Buckeyes gained second place with an easy 21-0 triumph over Michigan. Purdue surprised the experts by jolting Bo McMillin's Indiana array, 13-7. Illinois turned back Chicago with a second half drive, 21-0.

Notre Dame took advantage of one break to score the only touchdown of the game in a 7-0 defeat of Northwestern's Wildcats. The remaining Big Ten member, Iowa, was soundly laced by Nebraska, 28-0.

Iowa State's unpredictable Cyclones upset all calculations in a 13-7 triumph over Kansas State in the only Big Six game of the day. Missouri won over Washington university (St. Louis) 3-0, but Kansas was tripped by Arizona, 9-7.

Rice's drive toward the Southwest conference crown met with a rude set-back as Texas Christian's Horned Frogs, paced by Davey O'Brien, pounded out a 7-2 verdict that threw the conference race wide open again. Baylor ran up a 27-13 count on Loyola (California) and Southern Methodist invaded the far west to snare a 26-13 decision over U. C. L. A. Arkansas' Razorbacks, however, were held scoreless for the first time since 1934 in a 0-0 deadlock with George Washington.

Despite its defeat by California, Stanford finished second in the Pacific Coast race as Oregon State bowed to Washington State, 7-0. Washington, bowling over Oregon, 14-0, finished third. Montana, previously unbeaten and untied, fell victim to Idaho, 6-0.

There was little action in the south but Georgia engineered another big surprise in the Southeastern conference race by holding Auburn to a 0-0 score. Georgia Tech walloped Florida, 12-0, and Tulane won from Sewanee, 33-7, in other conference games. North Carolina State fell before Duke in the only Southern conference game of the day, 20-7. Centenary's sturdy Gentlemen were upset by Texas Tech, 7-2.

With Colorado and Denver resting before their Thanksgiving day title battle, the Rocky Mountain conference offered little of general interest, although Colorado State sprang one upset in a 6-0 decision over Colorado college. Brigham Young took Montana State over the jumps, 19-0, and Greeley State trounced Colorado Mines, 32-6.

HARVARD SCORES UPSET VICTORY OVER YALE

CRIMSON SPOILS PERFECT RECORD OF ANCIENT RIVAL

Touchdowns In Second And Fourth Periods Give Harvard 13-6 Triumph

By Alan Gould

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Harvard shook off its inferiority complex on the gridiron today, turned loose a powerhouse attack for the first time in years, and broke the spell of Yale's superiority with a thrilling 13-6 victory on a snow-swept field.

The Crimson's smartly-drilled team countered Yale's tying rally in the third period with a smashing 80-yard drive that clinched the game in the last quarter, then repulsed a last desperate aerial bid as the Elis sought to avert their first defeat of the 1937 season.

Frank Foley, Harvard signal-caller and home-town boy, sprinted 10 yards around Yale's left end for the decisive score, after passing to Ray Daughters on a 19-yard play that produced the Crimson's first score in the second period. Between these Harvard tallies, Yale's great captain, Clint Frank, plunged two yards to climax a 67-yard scoring drive.

The Crimson, in ending Yale's three-year winning streak, captured the classic "Big Three" championship for the first time since 1915. Both walloped Princeton this season and came up to the climax game with a more spirited display of rivalry than this ancient match has known in years.

Yale's defeat at the close of a season marred only by a tie game with Dartmouth cost the Elis their chance to claim a major share of "Ivy League" honors.

AUBURN HELD TO 0-0 DEADLOCK BY GEORGIA ELEVEN

Bulldogs Show Unexpected Defensive Strength By Stopping Plainsmen

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Auburn's favored Tigers and Georgia's Bulldogs, a team given little if any chance, battled to a scoreless tie today in their 42nd skirmish of a feud dating back to the gay nineties.

It was a gallant defensive display of the Bulldogs of Coach Harry Mehre that warded off three Auburn threats, thrusts that failed to produce winning points when field goals missed.

Auburn's Tigers, a team that had previously played tie decisions with Villanova and Tulane, ran against a Georgia eleven that turned back tackle slashes and end sweeps alike. The Bulldogs gave some yards, but their defense at the goal was invincible.

No touchdown threats were made by the Georgia gridders. Their offense made little headway against the fine defensive bulwark of Auburn's line.

Auburn drove four times toward the Georgia goal. Once in the second period, the Tigers marched to the 23, where an alert Georgia pass defense thwarted a fourth-down toss on the goal line.

In the second half, with a scoreless decision impending, the Tigers three times worked the ball deep into Bulldog territory and called on Guard Garth Thorpe for field goal tries. Two missed badly, but one was just a trifle low and inches wide of the mark.

Late in the third period, Fullback Jimmy Fordham, a Georgia sophomore whose tackle slashes were the feature of the Bulldog attack, fumbled on a line buck. Auburn's tackle, Bo Russell, recovered on the 29, as the period ended.

Halfback Jimmie Fenton ran to Georgia's 12, and George Kenmore cut through tackle across the goal, but Auburn's star guard, Ralph (Happy) Sivell apparently a bit over anxious, was penalized for unnecessary roughness. Then from the 15-yard line, Thorpe missed his field goal.

HOMER, HAYNESVILLE IN ANNUAL BATTLE THURSDAY

HOMER, Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Homer Pelicans will stage their annual Thanksgiving tilt with the Haynesville Golden Tornado Thursday at 2 p.m., on the local athletic field. Between 7,000 and 10,000 fans are expected as usual.

This is one of the hardest games of the season. Both teams are about evenly matched and friendly rivals. One team rarely beats the other over one touchdown or one point.

The Pelicans' date was open Friday after having triumphed over their foe from Monroe the previous Friday. Coaches Roberts and Bagwell are putting their squad through the stiffest workouts of the season and the boys are in good condition.

JONESVILLE WINS

JONESVILLE, La., No. 20.—(Special))—In a wild scoring game here this week, the Jonesville Independents walloped the Sandy Lake quintet, 50 to 30, to open the basketball season locally. Teams wishing to schedule games with Jonesville are requested to communicate with Dalton Faircloth or H. G. Taliaferro at Jonesville.

DUKE WINS, 20-7, OVER NORTH CAROLINA STATE

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Duke university defeated a fighting North Carolina State football team 20 to 7 today before 10,000 fans in clear, cold weather.

Fought to a standstill in the first quarter, Duke rallied in the second period when high-stepping Honey Hackney, quarterback, opened the scoring by taking a pass from Eric Tipton and racing for a 53-yard gain and touchdown. Hackney's placement was wide.

The Blue Devils made their only sustained drive of the game in the third period, making four of their six first downs and traveling 66 yards for Tipton to smash the final yard at right tackle to score.

PITT RUNS OVER PENN STATE, 28-7

Goldberg Leads Panthers To Lopsided Triumph Before 23,000 Fans

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The football Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh, rolling along undefeated into the end of their home schedule, pummeled Penn State 28 to 7 today before 23,000 spectators who braved snow and cold to see the old rivals in their 44th annual battle.

Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, the Elkins, W. Va., flash, scored two of the Panthers' four touchdowns and set up another as he uncovered one of his most sparkling exhibitions.

Pitt banged out 21 points in the first half to take a comfortable lead over a gallant but lightweight band of Lions who achieved a lot of satisfaction by scoring against the Panthers on a 30-yard pass in the third period.

The rugged Pitt machine started slowly, but showed all its vaunted power in a 55-yard march midway in the first period with Goldberg bounding 14 yards and 12 yards. Frank Patrick plunged over for the first score.

Another drive went 46 yards to a touchdown late in the same period with Goldberg scoring. Frank Souchak place-kicked both extra points.

The hard-running Goldberg collected the third touchdown early in the fourth period as the climax of a 54-yard drive, this time going seven yards through a gaping hole at right guard.

Dick Cassiano, the versatile understudy to Goldberg, raced 78 yards for a touchdown early in the second period.

The lineup:

Penn State	Pos.	Pittsburgh
Barantovich	LE	Daddio

ALL-STARS BEAT DELTA-COWBOYS

Opening Play Takes Cowboys By Surprise And City Team Wins, 13-0

The City All-Stars defeated the Delta-Cowboys, 13 to 0, at Brown field here Friday night in a benefit football game sponsored by Delta Sigma fraternity and the Collens Pharmacy Cowboys to launch the annual Goodfellows' Christmas Fund drive.

The All-Stars caught the Cowboys flatfooted on the opening play to baffle the Delta aggregation and score on a maneuver that drew a loud howl from the victims, but was ruled okeh by the officials.

The kick-off was taken by L. E. Wells, All-Star back, and as he mingled with his teammates in rushing down the field, every offensive player removed his helmet, tucked it under his arm and, in a bunch, headed down the field.

The Delta-Cowboys claimed they didn't know who to tackle, mistaking helmets for footballs, but tackled everybody but Wells, who got through to score. Ben Downing, Jr., kicked the extra point. Milliken scored again for the All-Stars in the third period when he skirted end for a 20-yard touchdown jaunt. Downing's kick for the point was bad.

Extremely cold weather ruined the chances of a good crowd, but the boys announced gratifying returns as a result of their advance ticket sale.

Members of the two teams were: Delta-Cowboys—Gimler, Spears, Underwood, Woodall, Cann, Hays, Green, Baur, Cohen, Duckworth, J. Garrett, P. Peevy, Terrell, Learned, Faser, B. Bubb, Holmes and A. Young. All-Stars—Vigg, J. Wood, Snyder, Jones, Bittick, Spicer, DeMasterson, Downing, Wells, Milliken, G. Miller, Scott, Pierce, Pappas, Gilliland, Ruple, Rivers, Luffey and McKeithen.

LIONS READY TO MEET OLD FOES IN NINTH BATTLE

Parish Eleven Expected To Be At Top Strength For Tilt With Bears

Ending the football season locally, the Ouachita Parish High school Lions return to Monroe this week for their biggest home game of the season when they tackle their traditionally powerful foes, the Bolton High school Bears of Alexandria, here Thursday afternoon in their ninth annual Thanksgiving day battle.

The Bruins have been rivals of the Monroe teams for many years, but Thursday's game is the ninth scheduled by the Lions and Bears since Ouachita and Monroe High school ceased putting out combined teams in 1929.

The first Ouachita team to be organized apart from the city school in 1929 walloped the Bolton aggregation, 12 to 6. The Lions went on to win four straight games from the Rapides eleven, but the Bruins halted the locals' winning streak, 26 to 6, in 1933 and since that time the Bolton power has held sway.

Results of their annual games since 1929 show the Lions won four games and the Bears took three. Their game of 1934 was cancelled after Ouachita had made the trip to Alexandria for the battle because of an unusually heavy rain.

Ouachita-Bolton games are traditionally close and a strong rivalry has developed between the teams and fans. Results of their meetings in the eight past years have been: 1929—Ouachita 12, Bolton 6; 1930—Ouachita 18, Bolton 7; 1931—Ouachita 12, Bolton 7; 1932—Ouachita 6, Bolton 0; 1933—Ouachita 6, Bolton 26; 1934—cancelled; 1935—Ouachita 4, Bolton 6; and 1936—Ouachita 6, Bolton 14. The game last year, played a few days past Thanksgiving, was the Class A title play-off final for the northeast Louisiana district title.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes returned here yesterday with his triumphant Lions who walloped the Lake Charles Wildcats, south Louisiana Class AA team, 20 to 12, Friday night, to begin planning the procedure of attack or defense for the invading Bears.

The Lions will be going up against a more experienced eleven which boasts the return this year of T. J. Price, 155-pound all-southern high school back of last season. Price has played outstanding ball this season and is in a good position to at least make the all-star team again this year. Price has been four years on the Bear team.

Other veterans of the Bolton aggregation are Blalock, 190-pound tackle, four years; Willis, 170-pound guard, three years; Beaver, 160-pound back, three years; and Vanderford, 150, end, Downs, 165, back, McSwain, 145, back, Penny, 185, tackle, and B'Angelo, 170, center, all two-year men.

Ouachita will be paced by a veteran backfield and a line that includes only one member from last year's lineup. Paul Patterson, fullback, has been a mainstay of the local offensive all season, but Alvin Fleming, a halfback, has developed into the Lions' potential powerhouse in the backfield in the last few games. It was Fleming who scored twice against Lake Charles and made a 52-yard run to put the ball in position for the first score of the game by Patterson.

Cason Mitchell is an able ball carrier, but he has done his best work along with Watson Stron or John Wilhite, which ever one of the latter two happens to be in the quarterback slot at the time, in clearing a path for Fleming or Patterson.

The Lions' passing attack was clicking smoothly against Lake Charles, one pass resulting in a touchdown, another putting the ball in easy scoring range and another bringing an extra point. An aerial game may constitute much of the Lions' offensive against Bolton in view of the fact that the Bears are expected to bring an eleven quite capable of stopping a running attack.

Unless a check-up at practice tomorrow reveals injuries as a result of the Wildcat game, the Lions should be in good shape for the coming fray. The line was strengthened somewhat in the past week but will need all its power Thursday afternoon. The hour of the kickoff has not yet been decided, but Coach Haynes said it would be at 2 or 2:30 p. m.

DELHI COMES FROM BEHIND TO BEAT FERRIDAY, 14 TO 7

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—An intercepted pass and a costly fumble gave the Delhi Bears a well earned 14 to 7 decision over the Ferriday High school Bulldogs at Fisher field Friday night before a large homecoming crowd of fans.

Ferriday, paced by their ace ball carrier, Lamar Price, scored first on spinner and power plays just as the first half ended. Price also made the extra point on a line plunge to give the Bulldogs a lead, but in the third period, Simms, fullback of the Bruins, intercepted one of Price's passes and went for a score. He also made the extra point to tie the score by going through the Ferriday line.

Price fumbled in the third period and Delhi's Bryan, halfback, recovered on the 15-yard stripe. Bryan raced around end for the winning score. He also contributed the extra point on a placement.

In spite of the wide spread of its front legs, the English bulldog passes its hind legs outside of the front legs when running.

CLARKS STAR MAKES OUTSTANDING RECORD

CLARKS, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Football fans in this section are singing the praises of Bobby Corbin, senior fullback on the undefeated Lumberjacks team here.

In nine games this year in which Clarks has scored 340 points, Corgin has piled up 24 touchdowns and through his fine passing has contributed to many other scores. On defense he does an exceptionally fine job of blocking.

Corbin weighs 160 pounds and is five feet, 11 inches tall. He also stars on the track team, running the hundred in 10 seconds.

The triple-threat Corbin has attracted numerous college scouts to Clarks, all of whom have praised his work highly. He seems a certain nominee for all-state honors when the Class B eleven is selected.

ENGINEERS SCORE LATE TO WIN, 12-0

Georgia Tech Packs Power In Second Half To Defeat Florida Eleven

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Florida's defense wilted in the second half today before the onslaught of a powerful Georgia Tech football team and the Engineers rolled to a 12 to 0 victory.

Stopping Fletcher Sims and Dutch Konemann, ace backs, finally proved too much of a job for the Gators, who kept the Yellow Jackets out of pay-off territory during the opening periods but tightened up when the goal line was threatened.

A blocked punt led to the first Georgia Tech touchdown in the third period. The ball was on the Florida 30 when Walter Mayberry dropped back to kick. Wood, a tackle, got through and batted down the ball just as it left Mayberry's foot. Wilcox recovered for Tech on the Florida 20.

Konemann, Sims and Appleby banged away at the line until they had put the ball on the Florida two. From there Sims went over.

In the fourth quarter Mayberry fumbled and Wilcox recovered for Tech. Appleby and Sims drove to the 30, then Sims threw a pass to Konemann, who streaked down the sideline and over the goal.

The lineups:

Georgia Tech	Pos.	Florida

IRISH NOSE OUT WILDCATS, 7 TO 0

Notre Dame Gets Break In Second Quarter And Sweeney Makes Touchdown

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sweeney—Charles Aloysius Sweeney—told it to Northwestern today.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame conquered their Big Ten arch-rival, Northwestern, 7 to 0 today in freezing, wind-swept Dyche stadium and it was Sweeney, of Bloomington, Ill., hero of Notre Dame's triumph over Navy and Minnesota, who scored the single touchdown, result of a second quarter "break." It was Sweeney also who on three other occasions contributed defensive gems which helped keep the desperate Wildcats, playing their final game of the season, from scoring.

The bit of Irish good fortune which led to the only score of a bitterly fought battle came when a Northwestern lineman was guilty of holding as Bernie Jefferson, negro halfback star, attempted to punt from deep in his own territory. Jeff's first kick went out of bounds on his 40-yard line, but the play was called back, and Northwestern penalized 15 yards to its seven.

Again Jefferson attempted to punt. This time Sweeney, 6 feet and 188 pounds of brilliant right end, and his partner, Alec Shellogg, smashed through and blocked the kick. Sweeney, hardly hesitating in stride, snatched the ball before it reached the frozen sod, and stepped over the goal line for the touchdown.

TEXAS TECH WINS FROM CENTENARY IN ROUGH BATTLE

Gents Outplay Red Raiders After Touchdown Is Made But Can't Score

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A sweeping right end run for a gain of 25 yards by Elmer Tarbox in the first half of the opening quarter that netted a touchdown carried the Texas Tech Red Raiders to a 7 to 2 win over the Centenary college Gents here today.

After the touchdown drive from their own 32-yard line the Red Raiders were outplayed and kept in their own territory until late in the fourth period. The two points for the Gents were scored on a safety in the third period when Calhoun missed a low pass from center behind the goal line after his team had been penalized to the one-yard mark for clipping. It was homecoming for Centenary and the game was witnessed by about 7,000 fans.

The first half of the battle was rough and Centenary suffered several casualties. Ed Whitehurst was knocked cold during a mixup and carried from the field with a mashed nose and lip; Langford Huddleston retired with a crushed cheek bone and Dub Partin suffered a slit lip and a puffed nose. In the second period Captain Ramsey of Tech and Curtis Warren of Centenary were banished for fighting. Tech lost 70 yards on penalties and the Gents drew four off-side penalties.

The lineups:

Texas Tech	Pos.	Centenary
Ramsey	LE	Cooney
Davis	LT	Partin

CHOCTAWS WHIP MILLSAPS, 12-0

Mississippi College Scores Twice While Holding Majors In Check

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mississippi college scored in the first and final periods to defeat its neighboring rival, Millsaps, 12 to 0 here today.

A small crowd of 2,000 shivered through the listless game in the coldest afternoon of the season here.

Otho Winstead scored both touchdowns for the Choctaws from the one-foot line after his mates had placed the oval in easy scoring position.

The first touchdown resulted from a sustained drive from midfield, while the second came after Millsaps fumbled on its 15-yard line after taking the ball on downs to check a Choctaw drive. Fortenberry covered the loose ball and Winstead went over the payline three plays later.

Millsaps failed to make a single scoring threat. Major passes in the final period were turned into breaks for the opposition by interceptions.

The two teams played to a scoreless tie here October 16. For the past two seasons they have played each other twice.

The lineups:

Millsaps	Pos.	Miss. College
Carter	LE	Green
Clark	LT	H. Jackson
Walker	LG	McGehee
Blough	C	Walker
McAlilly	RG	Smith
Bledsoe	RT	Nesson

DELHI SEEKING GAME FOR NEXT THURSDAY

The Delhi High school Bears had a game scheduled with Newellton for next Thursday but it has been cancelled, Coach "Skeets" Coates announced last night, and the Bears are anxious to book a game for Thanksgiving.

Newellton has been declared ineligible, Coates said, and that was the reason for cancelling the game.

Coaches which would like to play Delhi Thursday are asked to contact Coach Coates.

CLASS 'B' SERIES STARTS THURSDAY

Clarks Meets Choudrant And On Friday Columbia Plays Lake Providence

The northeast Louisiana Class B football championship playoffs get underway this week, it was announced here yesterday by T. L. Owens, principal of Wisner High school and chairman of the district Class B committee, following a conference held in the office of Jack Hayes, principal of the Ouachita Parish High school, here yesterday morning.

Teams whose claims were recognized by the committee as having unblemished conference records so far this year are Choudrant, Clarks, Columbia and Lake Providence, Chairman Owen announced.

The Newellton Bears undefeated Class B team, made no claim at the meeting, having already been disqualified at a meeting of the State High School Athletic association at Shreveport on grounds that the Bears were using ineligible players, it was reported.

The Choudrant High school Aggies and the Lumberjacks of Clarks High school will open the title battles at Clarks on Thanksgiving day at 2:30 p. m. On the following day, Friday, at 2:30 p. m., the Crimson Tide of Columbia and the Lake Providence Panthers tangle at Lake Providence.

It will be the first time in several years that the district title has gone to a team other than Tallulah or Waterproof, but the successor is yet to be determined. Tallulah relinquished the title when the Trojans joined Class A a few years ago and Waterproof has held the title since that time. Waterproof was eliminated this year by Delhi who in turn lost to Choudrant.

The district finals is expected to be held some time in the week following Thanksgiving. The district champion will then begin making arrangements to meet the winner of the Arcadia-Springhill game next week in the northwest district final for the north Louisiana championship.

L. S. U. ROLLS UP 52-0 SCORE ON NORMAL ELEVEN

Tigers Have Little Trouble Winning 'Warmup' For Tilt With Tulane

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana State university ran up a heavy score in the first half, then went on defensive for the remainder of the game, in trouncing Louisiana Normal 52 to 0 today before some 5,000 shivering fans.

The game served to condition the Bayou Tigers for their game with Tulane, traditional rival, at New Orleans next week-end.

Pinkie Rohm played his last game in Tiger stadium and led the scoring parade with two touchdowns, one a 95-yard punt return.

There were two other sensational scoring plays. Ken Kavanaugh caught a pass from Young Bussey, standing at midfield, to gallop over Normal's goal. In the last period, "Jabbo" Stell intercepted a pass to run 78 yards for the only touchdown of the second half.

Normal tried mightily to score during the entire second half as L. S. U. apparently chose to remain on defensive. Hampden Murrell, passing to Jimmy Hilborn and E. D. Perkins, carried Normal deep into L. S. U. territory on several occasions but the Bengals easily thwarted every threat.

The starting lineups:

Normal	Pos.	L. S. U.
Perkins	LE	Baur
Maxey	LT	Friend
Mathis	LG	Smith
Farr	C	D. Gormley
Ledet	RG	Clark
Flourney	RT	Gatto
S. Jackson	RE	King
Gilson	QB	Booth
Pernici	LH	Rohm
Hilborn	RH	Milner
Harmon	FB	Morton

Louisiana State scoring: Touchdowns—Rohm 2, Morton, Milner, Anderson (sub for Morton) Bussey (sub for Rohm), Kavanaugh (sub for Baur), Stell (sub for Milner). Points after touchdowns—Milner; Cajoleas (sub for Booth) 3.

Officials: Lynch (Holy Cross), referee; Trelline (Tulane), umpire; Hair (Louisiana Tech), head linesman; Luchsinger (Tulane), field judge.

ARMY RESERVES WALLOP ST. JOHN'S TEAM, 47-6

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Without using the varsity, Army's football team ran up a 47-6 count on St. John's of Annapolis today.

St. John's was unable to gain in the first half but Buck-to-MacMillen passes in the second half accounted for two downfield marches by the visitors, the first ending in their touchdown and the second in an unsuccessful try for field goal. MacMillen was outstanding for the Maryland team.

Army used every player on the squad except the varsity men.

HARVARD SCORES UPSET VICTORY OVER YALE

CRIMSON SPOILS PERFECT RECORD OF ANCIENT RIVAL

Touchdowns In Second And Fourth Periods Give Harvard 13-6 Triumph

By Alan Gould

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Harvard shook off its inferiority complex on the gridiron today, turned loose a powerhouse attack for the first time in years, and broke the spell of Yale's superiority with a thrilling 13-6 victory on a snow-swept field.

The Crimson's smartly-drilled team countered Yale's tying rally in the third period with a smashing 80-yard drive that clinched the game in the last quarter, then repulsed a last desperate aerial bid as the Elis sought to avert their first defeat of the 1937 season.

Frank Foley, Harvard signal-caller and home-town boy, sprinted 10 yards around Yale's left end for the decisive score, after passing to Ray Daughters on a 19-yard play that produced the Crimson's first score in the second period. Between these Harvard tallies, Yale's great captain, Clint Frank, plunged two yards to climax a 67-yard scoring drive.

The Crimson, in ending Yale's three-year winning streak, captured the classic "Big Three" championship for the first time since 1915. Both walloped Princeton this season and came up to the climax game with a more spirited display of rivalry than this ancient match has known in years.

Yale's defeat at the close of a season marred only by a tie game with Dartmouth cost the Elis their chance to claim a major share of "Ivy League" honors.

The line-ups:

Harvard	Pos.	Yale
Green	LE	J. Miller
Kevorkian	LT	John
Nee	LG	Castle
Wilson	C	Gallagher
Klein	RG	C. Miller

Ouachita Ends Season Against Bolton Here Thursday

AUBURN HELD TO 0-0 DEADLOCK BY GEORGIA ELEVEN

Bulldogs Show Unexpected Defensive Strength By Stopping Plainsmen

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Auburn's favored Tigers and Georgia's Bulldogs, a team given little if any chance, battled to a scoreless tie today in their 42nd skirmish of a feud dating back to the gay nineties.

It was a gallant defensive display of the Bulldogs of Coach Harry Mehre that warded off three Auburn threats, thrusts that failed to produce winning points when field goals missed.

Auburn's Tigers, a team that had previously played tie decisions with Villanova and Tulane, ran against a Georgia eleven that turned back tackle slashes and end sweeps alike. The Bulldogs gave some yards, but their defense at the goal was invincible.

No touchdown threats were made by the Georgia gridders. Their offense made little headway against the fine defensive bulwark of Auburn's line.

Auburn drove four times toward the Georgia goal. Once in the second period, the Tigers marched to the 23, where an alert Georgia pass defense thwarted a fourth-down toss on the goal line.

In the second half, with a scoreless decision impending, the Tigers three times worked the ball deep into Bulldog territory and called on Guard Garth Thorpe for field goal tries. Two missed badly, but one was just a trifle low and inches wide of the mark.

Late in the third period, Fullback Jimmy Fordham, a Georgia sophomore whose tackle slashes were the feature of the Bulldog attack, fumbled on a line buck. Auburn's tackle, Bo Russell, recovered on the 29, as the period ended.

Halfback Jimmie Fenton ran to Georgia's 12, and George Kenmore cut through tackle across the goal, but Auburn's star guard, Ralph (Happy) Sivell apparently a bit over anxious, was penalized for unnecessary roughness. Then from the 15-yard line, Thorpe missed his field goal.

HOMER, HAYNESVILLE IN ANNUAL BATTLE THURSDAY

HOMER, Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Homer Pelicans will stage their annual Thanksgiving tilt with the Haynesville Golden Tornado Thursday at 2 p.m., on the local athletic field. Between 7,000 and 10,000 fans are expected as usual.

This is one of the hardest games of the season. Both teams are about evenly matched and friendly rivals. One team rarely beats the other over one touchdown or one point.

The Pelicans' date was open Friday after having triumphed over their foe from Monroe the previous Friday. Coaches Roberts and Bagwell are putting their squad through the stiffest workouts of the season and the boys are in good condition.

JONESVILLE WINS

JONESVILLE, La., No. 20.—(Special))—In a wild scoring game here this week, the Jonesville Independents walloped the Sandy Lake quintet, 50 to 30, to open the basketball season locally. Teams wishing to schedule games with Jonesville are requested to communicate with Dalton Faircloth or H. G. Taliaferro at Jonesville.

DUKE WINS, 20-7, OVER NORTH CAROLINA STATE

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Duke university defeated a fighting North Carolina State football team 20 to 7 today before 10,000 fans in clear, cold weather.

Fought to a standstill in the first quarter, Duke rallied in the second period when high-stepping Honey Hackney, quarterback, opened the scoring by taking a pass from Eric Tipton and racing for a 53-yard gain and touchdown. Hackney's placement was wide.

The Blue Devils made their only sustained drive of the game in the third period, making four of their six first downs and traveling 66 yards for Tipton to smash the final yard at right tackle to score.

PITT RUNS OVER PENN STATE, 28-7

Goldberg Leads Panthers To Lopsided Triumph Before 23,000 Fans

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The football Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh, rolling along undefeated into the end of their home schedule, pummeled Penn State 28 to 7 today before 23,000 spectators who braved snow and cold to see the old rivals in their 44th annual battle.

Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, the Elkins, W. Va., flash, scored two of the Panthers' four touchdowns and set up another as he uncovered one of his most sparkling exhibitions.

Pitt banged out 21 points in the first half to take a comfortable lead over a gallant but lightweight band of Lions who achieved a lot of satisfaction by scoring against the Panthers on a 30-yard pass in the third period.

The rugged Pitt machine started slowly, but showed all its vaunted power in a 55-yard march midway in the first period with Goldberg bounding 14 yards and 12 yards. Frank Patrick plunged over for the first score.

Another drive went 46 yards to a touchdown late in the same period with Goldberg scoring. Frank Souchak place-kicked both extra points.

The hard-running Goldberg collected the third touchdown early in the fourth period as the climax of a 54-yard drive, this time going seven yards through a gaping hole at right guard.

Dick Cassiano, the versatile understudy to Goldberg, raced 78 yards for a touchdown early in the second period.

The lineup:

Penn State	Pos.	Pittsburgh
Barantovich	LE	Daddio
Ellwood	LT	Matisi
Economos	LG	Lezouski
Enders	C	Henley
Feel	RG	Petro
Demarino	RT	Schmidt
Alter	RE	Souchak
Rollins	QB	Michelosen
Ickes	LH	Goldberg
Giannantonio	RH	Stebbins

By periods:

Penn State	0	0	7	0— 7
Pittsburgh	14	7	0	7—28

Penn State scoring—Touchdown, Alter; point after touchdown—Pollock (sub for Economos), (placekick). Pittsburgh scoring—Touchdowns—Patrick, Goldberg 2, Cassiano (sub for Goldberg); points after touchdown—Souchak 2, Merkovsky (sub for Matisi), Patrick (placekicks).

ALL-STARS BEAT DELTA-COWBOYS

Opening Play Takes Cowboys By Surprise And City Team Wins, 13-0

The City All-Stars defeated the Delta-Cowboys, 13 to 0, at Brown field here Friday night in a benefit football game sponsored by Delta Sigma fraternity and the Collens Pharmacy Cowboys to launch the annual Goodfellows' Christmas Fund drive.

The All-Stars caught the Cowboys flatfooted on the opening play to baffle the Delta aggregation and score on a maneuver that drew a loud howl from the victims, but was ruled okeh by the officials.

The kick-off was taken by L. E. Wells, All-Star back, and as he mingled with his teammates in rushing down the field, every offensive player removed his helmet, tucked it under his arm and, in a bunch, headed down the field.

The Delta-Cowboys claimed they didn't know who to tackle, mistaking helmets for footballs, but tackled everybody but Wells, who got through to score. Ben Downing, Jr., kicked the extra point. Milliken scored again for the All-Stars in the third period when he skirted end for a 20-yard touchdown jaunt. Downing's kick for the point was bad.

Extremely cold weather ruined the chances of a good crowd, but the boys announced gratifying returns as a result of their advance ticket sale.

Members of the two teams were: Delta-Cowboys—Gimler, Spears, Underwood, Woodall, Cann, Hays, Green, Baur, Cohen, Duckworth, J. Garrett, P. Peevy, Terrell, Learned, Faser, B. Bubb, Holmes and A. Young. All-Stars—Vigg, J. Wood, Snyder, Jones, Bittick, Spicer, DeMasterson, Downing, Wells, Milliken, G. Miller, Scott, Pierce, Pappas, Gilliland, Ruple, Rivers, Luffey and McKeithen.

LIONS READY TO MEET OLD FOES IN NINTH BATTLE

Parish Eleven Expected To Be At Top Strength For Tilt With Bears

Ending the football season locally, the Ouachita Parish High school Lions return to Monroe this week for their biggest home game of the season when they tackle their traditionally powerful foes, the Bolton High school Bears of Alexandria, here Thursday afternoon in their ninth annual Thanksgiving day battle.

The Bruins have been rivals of the Monroe teams for many years, but Thursday's game is the ninth scheduled by the Lions and Bears since Ouachita and Monroe High school ceased putting out combined teams in 1929.

The first Ouachita team to be organized apart from the city school in 1929 walloped the Bolton aggregation, 12 to 6. The Lions went on to win four straight games from the Rapides eleven, but the Bruins halted the locals' winning streak, 26 to 6, in 1933 and since that time the Bolton power has held sway.

Results of their annual games since 1929 show the Lions won four games and the Bears took three. Their game of 1934 was cancelled after Ouachita had made the trip to Alexandria for the battle because of an unusually heavy rain.

Ouachita-Bolton games are traditionally close and a strong rivalry has developed between the teams and fans. Results of their meetings in the eight past years have been: 1929—Ouachita 12, Bolton 6; 1930—Ouachita 18, Bolton 7; 1931—Ouachita 12, Bolton 7; 1932—Ouachita 6, Bolton 0; 1933—Ouachita 6, Bolton 26; 1934—cancelled; 1935—Ouachita 4, Bolton 6; and 1936—Ouachita 6, Bolton 14. The game last year, played a few days past Thanksgiving, was the Class A title play-off final for the northeast Louisiana district title.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes returned here yesterday with his triumphant Lions who walloped the Lake Charles Wildcats, south Louisiana Class AA team, 20 to 12, Friday night, to begin planning the procedure of attack or defense for the invading Bears.

The Lions will be going up against a more experienced eleven which boasts the return this year of T. J. Price, 155-pound all-southern high school back of last season. Price has played outstanding ball this season and is in a good position to at least make the all-star team again this year. Price has been four years on the Bear team.

Other veterans of the Bolton aggregation are Blalock, 190-pound tackle, four years; Willis, 170-pound guard, three years; Beaver, 160-pound back, three years; and Vanderford, 150, end, Downs, 165, back, McSwain, 145, back, Penny, 185, tackle, and B'Angelo, 170, center, all two-year men.

Ouachita will be paced by a veteran backfield and a line that includes only one member from last year's lineup. Paul Patterson, fullback, has been a mainstay of the local offensive all season, but Alvin Fleming, a halfback, has developed into the Lions' potential powerhouse in the backfield in the last few games. It was Fleming who scored twice against Lake Charles and made a 52-yard run to put the ball in position for the first score of the game by Patterson.

Cason Mitchell is an able ball carrier, but he has done his best work along with Watson Stron or John Wilhite, which ever one of the latter two happens to be in the quarterback slot at the time, in clearing a path for Fleming or Patterson.

The Lions' passing attack was clicking smoothly against Lake Charles, one pass resulting in a touchdown, another putting the ball in easy scoring range and another bringing an extra point. An aerial game may constitute much of the Lions' offensive against Bolton in view of the fact that the Bears are expected to bring an eleven quite capable of stopping a running attack.

Unless a check-up at practice tomorrow reveals injuries as a result of the Wildcat game, the Lions should be in good shape for the coming fray. The line was strengthened somewhat in the past week but will need all its power Thursday afternoon. The hour of the kickoff has not yet been decided, but Coach Haynes said it would be at 2 or 2:30 p. m.

DELHI COMES FROM BEHIND TO BEAT FERRIDAY, 14 TO 7

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—An intercepted pass and a costly fumble gave the Delhi Bears a well earned 14 to 7 decision over the Ferriday High school Bulldogs at Fisher field Friday night before a large homecoming crowd of fans.

Ferriday, paced by their ace ball carrier, Lamar Price, scored first on spinner and power plays just as the first half ended. Price also made the extra point on a line plunge to give the Bulldogs a lead, but in the third period, Simms, fullback of the Bruins, intercepted one of Price's passes and went for a score. He also made the extra point to tie the score by going through the Ferriday line.

Price fumbled in the third period and Delhi's Bryan, halfback, recovered on the 15-yard stripe. Bryan raced around end for the winning score. He also contributed the extra point on a placement.

In spite of the wide spread of its front legs, the English bulldog passes its hind legs outside of the front legs when running.

CLARKS STAR MAKES OUTSTANDING RECORD

CLARKS, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Football fans in this section are singing the praises of Bobby Corbin, senior fullback on the undefeated Lumberjacks team here.

In nine games this year in which Clarks has scored 340 points, Corgin has piled up 24 touchdowns and through his fine passing has contributed to many other scores. On defense he does an exceptionally fine job of blocking.

Corbin weighs 160 pounds and is five feet, 11 inches tall. He also stars on the track team, running the hundred in 10 seconds.

The triple-threat Corbin has attracted numerous college scouts to Clarks, all of whom have praised his work highly. He seems a certain nominee for all-state honors when the Class B eleven is selected.

ENGINEERS SCORE LATE TO WIN, 12-0

Georgia Tech Packs Power In Second Half To Defeat Florida Eleven

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Florida's defense wilted in the second half today before the onslaught of a powerful Georgia Tech football team and the Engineers rolled to a 12 to 0 victory.

Stopping Fletcher Sims and Dutch Konemann, ace backs, finally proved too much of a job for the Gators, who kept the Yellow Jackets out of pay-off territory during the opening periods but tightened up when the goal line was threatened.

A blocked punt led to the first Georgia Tech touchdown in the third period. The ball was on the Florida 30 when Walter Mayberry dropped back to kick. Wood, a tackle, got through and batted down the ball just as it left Mayberry's foot. Wilcox recovered for Tech on the Florida 20.

Konemann, Sims and Appleby banged away at the line until they had put the ball on the Florida two. From there Sims went over.

In the fourth quarter Mayberry fumbled and Wilcox recovered for Tech. Appleby and Sims drove to the 30, then Sims threw a pass to Konemann, who streaked down the sideline and over the goal.

The lineups:

Georgia Tech	Pos.	Florida
Morgan	LE	Walker
Rimmer	LT	Goff
Mixon	LG	Lightbown
E. Sims	C	Oxford
J. Anderson	RG	Koscis

IRISH NOSE OUT WILDCATS, 7 TO 0

Notre Dame Gets Break In Second Quarter And Sweeney Makes Touchdown

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sweeney—Charles Aloysius Sweeney—told it to Northwestern today.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame conquered their Big Ten arch-rival, Northwestern, 7 to 0 today in freezing, wind-swept Dyche stadium, and it was Sweeney, of Bloomington, Ill., hero of Notre Dame's triumph over Navy and Minnesota, who scored the single touchdown, result of a second quarter "break." It was Sweeney also, who on three other occasions, contributed defensive gems which helped keep the desperate Wildcats, playing their final game of the season, from scoring.

The bit of Irish good fortune which led to the only score of a bitterly fought battle came when a Northwestern lineman was guilty of holding as Bernie Jefferson, negro halfback star, attempted to punt from deep in his own territory. Jeff's first kick went out of bounds on his 40-yard line, but the play was called back, and Northwestern penalized 15 yards to its seven.

Again Jefferson attempted to punt. This time Sweeney, 6 feet and 188 pounds of brilliant right end, and his partner, Alec Shellogg, smashed through and blocked the kick. Sweeney, hardly hesitating in stride, snatched the ball before it reached the frozen sod, and stepped over the goal line for the touchdown.

TEXAS TECH WINS FROM CENTENARY IN ROUGH BATTLE

Gents Outplay Red Raiders After Touchdown Is Made But Can't Score

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A sweeping right end run for a gain of 25 yards by Elmer Tarbox in the first half of the opening quarter that netted a touchdown carried the Texas Tech Red Raiders to a 7 to 2 win over the Centenary college Gents here today.

After the touchdown drive from their own 32-yard line the Red Raiders were outplayed and kept in their own territory until late in the fourth period. The two points for the Gents were scored on a safety in the third period when Calhoun missed a low pass from center behind the goal line after his team had been penalized to the one-yard mark for clipping. It was homecoming for Centenary and the game was witnessed by about 7,000 fans.

The first half of the battle was rough and Centenary suffered several casualties. Ed Whitehurst was knocked cold during a mixup and carried from the field with a mashed nose and lip; Langford Huddleston retired with a crushed cheek bone and Dub Partin suffered a slit lip and a puffed nose. In the second period Captain Ramsey of Tech and Curtis Warren of Centenary were banished for fighting. Tech lost 70 yards on penalties and the Gents drew four off-side penalties.

The lineups:

Texas Tech	Pos.	Centenary
Davis	LT	Partin
Jones	LG	Bradley
Guizick	C	Rawlingson
White	RG	Zimmerman

CHOCTAWS WHIP MILLSAPS, 12-0

Mississippi College Scores Twice While Holding Majors In Check

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mississippi college scored in the first and final periods to defeat its neighboring rival, Millsaps, 12 to 0 here today.

A small crowd of 2,000 shivered through the listless game in the coldest afternoon of the season here.

Otho Winstead scored both touchdowns for the Choctaws from the one-foot line after his mates had placed the oval in easy scoring position.

The first touchdown resulted from a sustained drive from midfield, while the second came after Millsaps fumbled on its 15-yard line after taking the ball on downs to check a Choctaw drive. Fortenberry covered the loose ball and Winstead went over the payline three plays later.

Millsaps failed to make a single scoring threat. Major passes in the final period were turned into breaks for the opposition by interceptions.

The two teams played to a scoreless tie here October 16. For the past two seasons they have played each other twice.

The lineups:

Millsaps	Pos.	Miss. College
Carter	LE	Green
Clark	LT	H. Jackson
Walker	LG	McGehee
Blough	C	Walker
McAlilly	RG	Smith

DELHI SEEKING GAME FOR NEXT THURSDAY

The Delhi High school Bears had a game scheduled with Newellton for next Thursday but it has been cancelled, Coach "Skeets" Coates announced last night, and the Bears are anxious to book a game for Thanksgiving.

Newellton has been declared ineligible, Coates said, and that was the reason for cancelling the game.

Coaches which would like to play Delhi Thursday are asked to contact Coach Coates.

Clarks Meets Choudrant And On Friday Columbia Plays Lake Providence

The northeast Louisiana Class B football championship playoffs get underway this week, it was announced here yesterday by T. L. Owens, principal of Wisner High school and chairman of the district Class B committee, following a conference held in the office of Jack Hayes, principal of the Ouachita Parish High school, here yesterday morning.

Teams whose claims were recognized by the committee as having unblemished conference records so far this year are Choudrant, Clarks, Columbia and Lake Providence, Chairman Owen announced.

The Newellton Bears undefeated Class B team, made no claim at the meeting, having already been disqualified at a meeting of the State High School Athletic association at Shreveport on grounds that the Bears were using ineligible players, it was reported.

The Choudrant High school Aggies and the Lumberjacks of Clarks High school will open the title battles at Clarks on Thanksgiving day at 2:30 p. m. On the following day, Friday, at 2:30 p. m., the Crimson Tide of Columbia and the Lake Providence Panthers tangle at Lake Providence.

It will be the first time in several years that the district title has gone to a team other than Tallulah or Waterproof, but the successor is yet to be determined. Tallulah relinquished the title when the Trojans joined Class A a few years ago, and Waterproof has held the title since that time. Waterproom was eliminated this year by Delhi who in turn lost to Choudrant.

The district finale is expected to be held some time in the week following Thanksgiving. The district champion will then begin making arrangements to meet the winner of the Arcadia-Springhill game next week in the northwest district final for the north Louisiana championship.

L. S. U. ROLLS UP 52-0 SCORE ON NORMAL ELEVEN

Tigers Have Little Trouble Winning 'Warmup' For Tilt With Tulane

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana State university ran up a heavy score in the first half, then went on defensive for the remainder of the game, in trouncing Louisiana Normal 52 to 0 today before some 5,000 shivering fans.

The game served to condition the Bayou Tigers for their game with Tulane, traditional rival, at New Orleans next week-end.

Pinkie Rohm played his last game in Tiger stadium and led the scoring parade with two touchdowns, one a 95-yard punt return.

There were two other sensational scoring plays. Ken Kavanaugh caught a pass from Young Bussey, standing at midfield, to gallop over Normal's goal. In the last period, "Jabbo" Stell intercepted a pass to run 78 yards for the only touchdown of the second half.

Normal tried mightily to score during the entire second half as L. S. U. apparently chose to remain on defensive. Hampden Murrell, passing to Jimmy Hilborn and E. D. Perkins, carried Normal deep into L. S. U. territory on several occasions but the Bengals easily thwarted every threat.

The starting lineups:

Normal	Pos.	L. S. U.
Perkins	LE	Baur
Maxey	LT	Friend
Mathis	LG	Smith
Farr	C	D. Gormley
Ledet	RG	Clark
Flourney	RT	Gatto
S. Jackson	RE	King
Gilson	QB	Booth
Pernici	LH	Rohm
Hilborn	RH	Milner
Harmon	FB	Morton

Louisiana State scoring: Touchdowns—Rohm 2, Morton, Milner, Anderson (sub for Morton) Bussey (sub for Rohm); Kavanaugh (sub for Baur); Stell (sub for Milner). Points after touchdowns—Milner; Cajoleas (sub for Booth) 3.

Officials: Lynch (Holy Cross), referee; Trellue (Tulane), umpire; Hair (Louisiana Tech), head linesman; Luchsinger (Tulane), field judge.

ARMY RESERVES WALLOP ST. JOHN'S TEAM, 47-6

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Without using the varsity, Army's football team ran up a 47-6 count on St. John's of Annapolis today.

St. John's was unable to gain in the first half but Buck-to-MacMillen passes in the second half accounted for two downfield marches by the visitors, the first ending in their touchdown and the second in an unsuccessful try for field goal. MacMillen was outstanding for the Maryland team.

Army used every player on the squad except the varsity men.

MANGHAM UPSETS TALLULAH, 7 TO 0

Dragons Continue Undefeated By Blasting Trojans From Title Race

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Mangham High school Dragons put their foot right into the middle of the Class A conference race in north Louisiana here yesterday afternoon when they blasted the more favored Tallulah High school Trojans out of the picture, 7 to 0.

The Dragons scored in the second quarter on a 10-yard pass into the end zone, Winfred Jones to George Lynn. Moon, fullback, went off tackle for the extra point. It was Mangham's passing attack that kept the locals in trouble, the Dragons completing 10 out of 13 tosses.

Mangham got to Tallulah's 20-yard stripe in every period while the Trojans never got closer to a score than the invaders' 30-yard line. Alexander, tackle; Jones, guard and fullback, and Griffing, quarterback, were outstanding for the visitors.

Mangham, undefeated in Class A, will meet the Bastrop High school Rams in Mangham on Thanksgiving day. Despite the fact that the Dragons were tied by both Rayville and Winnsboro, the Mangham team made more first downs in these games and will base their claim to a play-off chance on that record.

T. A. Judd, principal of Mangham high school, is prepared to put forth the claims of his school next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the district Class A committee meets in its annual conference at Ruston.

COLUMBIA POINTING FOR TITLE PLAYOFF

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Believing they have the best qualified team to take the Class B title of the northeast Louisiana district, the supporters of the Columbia Crimson Tide are already making plans to see the Tide through the district play-offs and on the road to its most successful season.

In nine games this year, Columbia has lost only one battle, and that to the class A Jonesboro Tigers, 12 to 0. They have beaten two other class A teams, including a 19 to 0 victory over Mangham, claimant to a place in the higher conference title games.

Class B victories on Columbia's record are as follows: Ferriday, 13 to 7; Louisiana Training institute, 43 to 0; Olla, 26 to 0; Wisner, 32 to 0; and Grayson, 38 to 7. They got a 2 to 0 forfeit from Newellton when they won a protest over the Bears.

The Columbia team this year is headed by Joe May, stellar fullback, with ability to pass, punt, carry the ball and direct the play of his team. Aiding him in the backfield are Joe Hague, a halfback of almost equal ability; J. M. Jones, a good offensive man; and Don Haney, powerful fullback and excellent blocker.

ARCADIA ADVANCES TO DISTRICT FINAL

ARCADIA, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Arcadia Hornets looking their best in years, spiked Plain Dealing High school's claims to any further Class B advancement this year, when they walloped the Lions decisively, 26 to 0, on the Byrd High school field in Shreveport last night in the semi-finals of the northwest Louisiana district Class B playoffs.

The Hornets must make only one more step toward the district title, and hope to be in the running for the north Louisiana crown in another week. Next week-end, the locals will meet Spinghill High school for the district title.

Gerald Hightower, the Hornets' best back in years, paced the local offensive against Plain Dealing. The stellar halfback hurled two touchdown passes and scored twice himself. Again he raced 59-yards to cross the Lions' goal, but was called back and his team given an offsides penalty.

A pass, Hightower to Edwards, brought the first score in the opening period. In the second period another Hightower-to-Edwards pass netted a touchdown. Hightower scored through the line from the one-yard line late in the third quarter, and scored again in the fourth period when he intercepted a pass by Nugent of Plain Dealing and raced 35 yards to score

FERRIDAY, WATERPROOF TO MEET THANKSGIVING

FERRIDAY, Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Waterproof Tigers will be the next and final opponents of the Ferriday High school Bulldogs here Thanksgiving day at 2:30 o'clock. In view of the fact that the elevens are old rivals, the game should attract a capacity crowd to the only afternoon home game on the schedule of the Bulldogs.

FREE FOOTBALL AT ARKANSAS SCHOOLS

JONESBORO, Ark., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Arkansas State, Monticello A. and M., and Magnolia A. and M. colleges today formed a "Big Three" athletic conference with league football games to be played without an admission charge.

Herbert Schwartz, athletics director at Arkansas State, said the objective was "to take some of the emphasis out of football."

The three colleges will play home and home schedules with each other annually. For example, Arkansas State next year will meet Magnolia at Jonesboro in October, then the same teams will clash again at Magnolia the following month.

Schwartz announced State would drop its membership in the Arkansas intercollegiate athletic association, in which it has been competing for several years, but would continue to schedule athletic contests with A. I. A. A. teams.

"The no admission charge plan applies only to games between State, Magnolia and Monticello," he explained. "If we played Arkansas Tech or some other A. I. A. A. team here, tickets would be sold as in the past.

"When the 'Big Three' members are playing each other, each student will be issued two complimentary tickets. He can give these to whomever he pleases. But no one will be admitted to the field unless he has one of these tickets. None will be placed on sale."

LITTLE ROCK PRO WINS PLAYOFF AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., scored a birdie three on the home hole today to edge out Henry Clay Poe, Durham, N. C., youngster, in a play-off for first place in the Mid-South golf tournament.

They ended the 3-hole tournament yesterday with scores of 142.

After a ding-dong battle most of the way, Poe, 22-year-old former Duke university star, looked like a winner at the 17th when Harrison, trailing by a stroke, sent his tee shot into a bunker.

He made a great recovery, however, to within inches of the cup and got a halve in three.

Poe hooked his drive into the rough on the 18th and failed to reach the green in two. Harrison was straight down the fairway and played a long iron to within 15 feet of the cup.

For the first time in the match, Poe approached poorly, leaving himself a 20-foot putt, which he missed. Harrison's roller was perfect, picking up the stroke he was in arrears and another one to win $250 top money. Poe got $200 in his first tournament test as a pro.

PRIMO TURNS ATTENTION TO COURTING FRENCH GIRL

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, whose fighting comeback effort proved disastrous, has decided to turn his attention to courting.

The "Ambling Alp," resting from a beating he absorbed in his bout with Tony DiMeglio last night, said today he was going to amble to Nice soon to visit a pretty French friend, Mlle. Lea Lizier.

Mlle. Lizier said they were "more or less engaged" and that "very likely" they would be married early next year.

Mlle. Lizier, about five feet tall and the daughter of a well-to-do French contractor, met Carnera ten years ago in the mountains of Italy where Primo's family lives and her family has property.

GEORGE WASHINGTON AND ARKANSAS PLAY 0-0 TIE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 20.—(AP)—George Washington university did today what no Southwest conference eleven had done in three years—stopped the University of Arkansas' scoring attack—and held the passing Porkers to a 0-0 tie before 8,000 shivering fans.

Both teams tried and missed field goals after running and passing attacks fizzled in the shadow of the goal posts.

A soft and, in spots, muddy field handicapped both elevens but proved particularly disastrous to the Arkansas team. Time and again passes were completed for long gains only to have the receiver stumble and fall headlong before a tackler reached him.

GOLF DATES SET

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—City officials today overrode golfers' protests against fixing the Miami Open for December 23-25 and announced those dates would stand for the $2,500 event. The Hollywood Open was scheduled last summer for December 26-28 and sanctioned by the Professional Golfers association.

South Dakota Plays At Tech Field Thanksgiving

Ruston College Paying Coyotes Big Guarantee For Thursday's Game

RUSTON, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's football team will meet the University of South Dakota Coyotes at Ruston on Thanksgiving afternoon, marking the first time in 32 years that a state university eleven has appeared on the local college campus.

In 1905, the Louisiana State university gridders came to Ruston and were defeated 6-0 by "Louisiana Industrial Institute," now known as Louisiana Tech. The touchdown was made by the late Glen Walker of Shreveport, who died suddenly on a golf course at Shreveport a few years ago.

Incidentally, Tech's financial guarantee to the University of South Dakota is the highest ever contracted by the college here, according to A. W. Ford, chairman of the faculty athletics committee.

"We have taken rain insurance on the game for next Thursday, which will be the first game so protected here this season," Mr. Ford said, "but we are hoping for favorable weather so that a large crowd will turn out for what should be an interesting match."

Plans are under way to have the Tech-South Dakota engagement heralded throughout north Louisiana by circulars to be dropped from an airplane, supplementing the newspapers' co-operation in publicizing the event, Mr. Ford reported.

The South Dakotans are scheduled to leave their home base at Vermillion Sunday night, it was announced. They will travel by special Pullman car, coming by way of Shreveport, and are expected to arrive in Ruston at 6:50 p. m. Wednesday. The Coyotes plan to stage a workout at the Tech stadium Wednesday night, after which they will sleep in the special coach sidetracked at the Ruston depot.

The record of the South Dakota Redshirts this season includes six victories and three defeats. They have defeated South Dakota State college, 12-2; Morningside college, 16-0; the Iowa State Teachers, 13-0; Omaha university, 26-0, and Buena Vista college and Wayne Normal, the latter two opening their schedule. The Coyotes dropped a close 7-6 decision to Marquette, were overpowered by St Louis university, 9-0, and lost to the University of North Dakota, 13-7.

LOTS OF PAULS

RUSTON, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—When football coaches at Louisiana Tech call "Paul" in the freshman squad, there are at least three fellows who answer to that name.

Paul Williston Ayres, Paul John Bonin, and Paul Philip Jardell come from Vinton, in Calcasieu parish, and they are all three graduates of the Vinton High school. They finished in 1937.

Ayres is enrolled in the engineering department and Bonin and Jardell are both taking agriculture at Tech.

ALABAMA GIVEN DUMMY SCRIMMAGE FOR VANDY

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide got dummy scrimmage and chalk drill in the gym today when the mercury went down to 40, with the weather raw.

Bradford and Cochrane were "bunged" up in scrimmage yesterday, Coach Frank Thomas said, reporting neither was seriously hurt. Bostick is back in shape but Captain Monsky is not progressing so well, he said.

Thomas may forego a scrimmage set for Saturday to prevent possible further injury before the Southeastern conference championship game with Vanderbilt Thanksgiving.

Thomas said he was looking for a varied Commodore offense and realized he was up against a "tricky team that takes advantage of every opportunity."

S. M. U. PASSES WAY TO VICTORY OVER U. C. L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university pitched its aerial circus in the coliseum today and played a brilliant 26 to 13 performance for the benefit of the Bruins of University of California at Los Angeles.

Outplayed and completely overshadowed at the outset by the Bruins' negro combination of Kenny Washington and Woodrow Wilson Strode, the Mustangs cut loose with a tally in the second and rang up three more in the third.

Starting from their own 23, the Mustangs advanced on four passes, scoring their first on a short aerial from Jack Morrison to Pete Acker.

OLE MISS TO HAVE FULL STRENGTH FOR MAROONS

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Ole Miss will tackle Mississippi State at full strength on Thanksgiving day, Coach Ed Walker said today after watching Billy Mann and Guard Bully White cavort through a scrimmage drill.

The two joined Johnny Lehnhardt, Ray Haped and Bill Schneller, backs, and Talbot Crowder, tackle, on the regular playing list after injuries had kept them out of service for much of the season.

A Frenchman Looks At Football

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—"On Ohio Football Field—A Whole Series Of Boxing Matches Where The Knockout Is King."

That headline astounded American residents of Paris when they read Paris Soir, France's largest afternoon newspaper.

Gaston Benac, special correspondent in New York City, wrote two articles on American football through a Frenchman's eyes.

The first concerned a visit to the Columbia university training field, where Mr. Benac found the tackling dummies and other practice equipment reminded him of nothing so much as the instruments of torture of the middle ages.

There he talked to the coach, one "Little Lou," who told him all about American football. The Columbia coach, said Mr. Benac, was so much of a celebrity in America that "when he traveled from New York to Kansas City it made as much excitement as a French ministerial crisis."

On the field, he said, he heard "Little Lou" telling one of his players how to take care of an opponent with the words: "If he bothers you knock him out."

In the second Paris Soir article was an eye-witness account of what must have been a thrilling game between "the Violets of the University of New York against Pennsylvania Military college."

ANOZZER KNOCKOUT, I WAS HOPING HE'D WEEN ZEE DECEESION

The Frenchman spent the whole first part of the game, played in "Ohio Fields" in uptown New York, watching the antics of "a whole line of men dressed in white who took part of orchestra leaders for the wild cries of young students of the University of New York."

Before telling about the action, Mr. Benac explained the rules of the game.

"One camp attacks with its forwards gathered together in line with the spot from which the ball is played, while two halves, a three-quarters and the rear guard are spread out 10 meters (about 10 yards) further back.

"The forward center passes the ball between his legs to the three-quarters or the rear guard, who rushes away or makes a long pass forward or gives the ball a kick. There are a thousand possible combinations."

The game the Frenchman saw, he said, had only one star—"the giant three-quarters, Edward Williams."

"One impressive thing," wrote Mr. Benac, "is that very few of the players reach the end of the violent play, which last only a few seconds after the ball is passed.

"As for the stars, they are protected by their comrades, who fall upon them to prevent an opponent from twisting their arms or their ankles while they lie on the ground.

"'It's so quickly done,' somebody beside me said.

"What was almost as quickly done was the epilogue of a battle which took place near me in the grandstands. A supporter of Pennsylvania was knocked out in less than 10 seconds and put on a stretcher in less than a minute. That was a record."

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. H. LOFTON

country and the team is also well coached by the veteran Frank Thomas. You will also note that only a week ago, Alabama nosed out Tulane with a field goal in the last few minutes from around the 26-yard line. Yet in the Georgia Tech game, the quarterback elected to pass on fourth down after gaining only one yard in three tries.

"Now, to get to the point. Would you call this smart football or not? And do you think that if the pass had not worked for the touchdown, the quarterback would have been the goat? Considering, of course, the good place-kicker who won the Tulane game and possibly a Rose Bowl bid for Alabama.

"You will recall that moment when Northeast Center was in the same position against Southeastern and, after three thrusts at the line, had only gained two yards, a pass was decided upon which failed to be completed. Was that smart football? Considering, of course, the drop-kicker of Northeast Center, who has missed only one extra point through the entire season.

"I would appreciate very much knowing your opinion on these two problems."

To begin with, Center Fan, "smart quarterbacking" is that brand which scores points. Many times smart quarterbacking doesn't produce a score, for various reasons, but when it does, the field general is a genius. When it fails, he's the goat.

We have always made it a practice to give the quarterback, or whoever's calling the plays, credit for knowing conditions on the field. If he doesn't, the coach should have someone in there who's capable of keeping up with things.

In the two Alabama instances, you cite similar situations in which different methods were used to produce results. Maybe in both instances the quarterback merely guessed right or maybe he had figured the thing correctly and used the method he thought best after careful consideration. The Tulane line had held repeatedly and their pass defense was pretty good. Three points seemed fairly sure of winning the game, so the quarterback elected to try a field goal. In the Georgia Tech game, maybe the Tech line was rushing fast enough to make a field goal dangerous. (That, we were told, is the reason Center didn't try one.) Therefore, the 'Bama signal caller decided to pass, and it clicked. A line thrust was out of the question.

Your statistics in the Center-Southeastern game are not quite correct. Center had advanced from the eight to the three—a distance of five yards—in three attempts. Frankly, we would have tried another line plunge, but don't you think the quarterback down there on the field knew more about conditions than we up in the press box? He knew—or should have known—what his line was doing and how the other forwards were performing. Southeastern also had an excellent opportunity to try a field goal late in the game but didn't attempt it. You may remember that the Lions sent in their kicker but he didn't kick. As stated above, we were told that both lines were charging unusually fast, and for that reason, neither team tried a field goal.

Quarterbacking is no cinch. Often a team is carefully rehearsed on a pet play to use in circumstances that you cite, and when it works, everything's lovely. But when it doesn't, the quarterback catches the devil.

A team plays smart football when it wins, and the quarterback's dumb when he loses a close one. That's the way the fans look at it. But how often have you seen a quarterback pick the right play, only to have it messed up by one of his own mates or an unexpected maneuver by the opposition?

After all, they're down there to win and usually the boys are doing what they've been taught.

NEBRASKA SCORES 28-0 TRIUMPH OVER HAWKEYES

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Biff Jones' Nebraska football team demonstrated today it did have an offensive.

An outclassed band of Iowa Hawkeyes were convinced of that by the scoreboard, which read Nebraska 28, Iowa 0.

CARNEGIE TECH BATTLES HOLY CROSS TO 0-0 TIE

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Undefeated Holy Cross was held to a scoreless tie by Carnegie Tech today in a dogged football battle fought through a snowstorm before 15,000 half-frozen spectators.

The visiting Skibos rose up with three great goal line stands to turn back the Crusaders in the first half after Bill Osmanski's running and Ronny Cahill's passing set up scoring chances.

Holy Cross was halted on the four-yard line early in the first quarter after Bill Histen had intercepted a Carnegie lateral.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Fair buying support entered the cotton market here today after an early decline and final prices were steady at net advances of 2 to 7 points.

Foreign markets were lower than expected at the start and longs liquidated for over the week-end. Before the offerings were absorbed active positions showed net losses of 4 to 5 points.

In the second hour shorts covered and there was some buying attributed to Washington reports quoting a congressional leader as predicting a change in the surplus profits and capital gains taxes.

As a result prices recovered and the close was at the highs.

December finished at 7.95, January at 7.93, March at 7.97, May at 7.99, July at 8.01 bid, October at 8.07 and December (new) at 8.09 bid.

Exports today were 37,118 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 2 to 7 points.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Shaky stocks of yesterday displayed more backbone in today's market and many leaders recovered fractions to three or more points.

Prominent on the come-back were rails, steels, motors, coppers and specialties. While the return journey was only moderately fast, transfers for the two hours approximated 1,232,100 shares.

Brokers attributed improvement largely to the belief of some the Friday slump called for at least part of the lost ground being retraced even if the basic trend is still downward.

Efforts of union officials to break the unauthorized "sit-down" strike at General Motors helped to bolster automotive issues. Announcement of Goodyear that it would open its plants Monday for "those who wished to work" was coincident with preparations for mobilization of Ohio national guard units and indicated this labor problem was still unsettled.

Steels edged forward despite estimates next week's mill operations would register another substantial recession.

Wall Street opinions regarding the president's call for an inquiry into higher living costs were mixed. In some quarters this was interpreted as another attack on corporation profits.

Bonds and commodities did better.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firm today. Two sales were concluded late yesterday, 14,000 bags of Puerto Ricos from store at 3.45, an advance of 5 points, and 25,000 bags of Cubas for January shipment at 3.30.

MANGHAM UPSETS TALLULAH, 7 TO 0

Dragons Continue Undefeated By Blasting Trojans From Title Race

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Mangham High school Dragons put their foot right into the middle of the Class A conference race in north Louisiana here yesterday afternoon when they blasted the more favored Tallulah High school Trojans out of the picture, 7 to 0.

The Dragons scored in the second quarter on a 10-yard pass into the end zone, Winfred Jones to George Lynn Moon, fullback, went off tackle for the extra point. It was Mangham's passing attack that kept the locals in trouble, the Dragons completing 10 out of 13 tosses.

Mangham got to Tallulah's 20-yard stripe in every period while the Trojans never got closer to a score than the invaders' 30-yard line. Alexander, tackle; Jones, guard and fullback, and Griffing, quarterback, were outstanding for the visitors.

Mangham, undefeated in Class A, will meet the Bastrop High school Rams in Mangham on Thanksgiving day. Despite the fact that the Dragons were tied by both Rayville and Winnsboro, the Mangham team made more first downs in these games and will base their claim to a play-off chance on that record.

T. A. Judd, principal of Mangham high school, is prepared to put forth the claims of his school next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the district Class A committee meets in its annual conference at Ruston.

COLUMBIA POINTING FOR TITLE PLAYOFF

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Believing they have the best qualified team to take the Class B title of the northeast Louisiana district, the supporters of the Columbia Crimson Tide are already making plans to see the Tide through the district play-offs and on the road to its most successful season.

In nine games this year, Columbia has lost only one battle, and that to the class A Jonesboro Tigers, 12 to 0. They have beaten two other class A teams, including a 19 to 0 victory over Mangham, claimant to a place in the higher conference title games.

Class B victories on Columbia's record are as follows: Ferriday, 13 to 7; Louisiana Training institute, 43 to 0; Olla, 26 to 0; Wisner, 32 to 0; and Grayson, 38 to 7. They got a 2 to 0 forfeit from Newellton when they won a protest over the Bears.

The Columbia team this year is headed by Joe May, stellar fullback, with ability to pass, punt, carry the ball and direct the play of his team. Aiding him in the backfield are Joe Hague, a halfback of almost equal ability; J. M. Jones, a good offensive man; and Don Haney, powerful fullback and excellent blocker.

ARCADIA ADVANCES TO DISTRICT FINAL

ARCADIA, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Arcadia Hornets looking their best in years, spiked Plain Dealing High school's claims to any further Class B advancement this year, when they walloped the Lions decisively, 26 to 0, on the Byrd High school field in Shreveport last night in the semi-finals of the northwest Louisiana district Class B playoffs.

The Hornets must make only one more step toward the district title, and hope to be in the running for the north Louisiana crown in another week. Next week-end, the locals will meet Spinghill High school for the district title.

Gerald Hightower, the Hornets' best back in years, paced the local offensive against Plain Dealing. The stellar halfback hurled two touchdown passes and scored twice himself. Again he raced 59-yards to cross the Lions' goal, but was called back and his team given an offsides penalty.

A pass, Hightower to Edwards, brought the first score in the opening period. In the second period another Hightower-to-Edwards pass netted a touchdown. Hightower scored through the line from the one-yard line late in the third quarter, and scored again in the fourth period when he intercepted a pass by Nugent of Plain Dealing and raced 35 yards to score.

FERRIDAY, WATERPROOF TO MEET THANKSGIVING

FERRIDAY, Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Waterproof Tigers will be the next and final opponents of the Ferriday High school Bulldogs here Thanksgiving day at 2:30 o'clock. In view of the fact that the elevens are old rivals, the game should attract a capacity crowd to the only afternoon home game on the schedule of the Bulldogs.

FREE FOOTBALL AT ARKANSAS SCHOOLS

JONESBORO, Ark., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Arkansas State, Monticello A. and M., and Magnolia A. and M. colleges today formed a "Big Three" athletic conference with league football games to be played without an admission charge.

Herbert Schwartz, athletics director at Arkansas State, said the objective was "to take some of the emphasis out of football."

The three colleges will play home and home schedules with each other annually. For example, Arkansas State next year will meet Magnolia at Jonesboro in October, then the same teams will clash again at Magnolia the following month.

Schwartz announced State would drop its membership in the Arkansas intercollegiate athletic association, in which it has been competing for several years, but would continue to schedule athletic contests with A. I. A. A. teams.

"The no admission charge plan applies only to games between State, Magnolia and Monticello," he explained. "If we played Arkansas Tech or some other A. I. A. A. team here, tickets would be sold as in the past.

"When the 'Big Three' members are playing each other, each student will be issued two complimentary tickets. He can give these to whomever he pleases. But no one will be admitted to the field unless he has one of these tickets. None will be placed on sale."

LITTLE ROCK PRO WINS PLAYOFF AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., scored a birdie three on the home hole today to edge out Henry Clay Poe, Durham, N. C., youngster, in a play-off for first place in the Mid-South golf tournament.

They ended the 3-hole tournament yesterday with scores of 142.

After a ding-dong battle most of the way, Poe, 22-year-old former Duke university star, looked like a winner at the 17th when Harrison, trailing by a stroke, sent his tee shot into a bunker.

He made a great recovery, however, to within inches of the cup and got a halve in three.

Poe hooked his drive into the rough on the 18th and failed to reach the green in two. Harrison was straight down the fairway and played a long iron to within 15 feet of the cup.

For the first time in the match, Poe approached poorly, leaving himself a 20-foot putt, which he missed. Harrison's roller was perfect, picking up the stroke he was in arrears and another one to win $250 top money. Poe got $200 in his first tournament test as a pro.

PRIMO TURNS ATTENTION TO COURTING FRENCH GIRL

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, whose fighting comeback effort proved disastrous, has decided to turn his attention to courting.

The "Ambling Alp," resting from a beating he absorbed in his bout with Tony DiMeglio last night, said today he was going to amble to Nice soon to visit a pretty French friend, Mlle. Lea Lizier.

Mlle. Lizier said they were "more or less engaged" and that "very likely" they would be married early next year.

Mlle. Lizier, about five feet tall and the daughter of a well-to-do French contractor, met Carnera ten years ago in the mountains of Italy where Primo's family lives and her family has property.

GEORGE WASHINGTON AND ARKANSAS PLAY 0-0 TIE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 20.—(AP)—George Washington university did today what no Southwest conference eleven had done in three years—stopped the University of Arkansas' scoring attack—and held the passing Porkers to a 0-0 tie before 8,000 shivering fans.

Both teams tried and missed field goals after running and passing attacks fizzled in the shadow of the goal posts.

A soft and, in spots, muddy field handicapped both elevens but proved particularly disastrous to the Arkansas team. Time and again passes were completed for long gains only to have the receiver stumble and fall headlong before a tackler reached him.

GOLF DATES SET

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—City officials today overrode golfers' protests against fixing the Miami Open for December 23-25 and announced those dates would stand for the $2,500 event. The Hollywood Open was scheduled last summer for December 26-28 and sanctioned by the Professional Golfers association.

South Dakota Plays At Tech Field Thanksgiving

Ruston College Paying Coyotes Big Guarantee For Thursday's Game

RUSTON, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's football team will meet the University of South Dakota Coyotes at Ruston on Thanksgiving afternoon, marking the first time in 32 years that a state university eleven has appeared on the local college campus.

In 1905, the Louisiana State university gridders came to Ruston and were defeated 6-0 by "Louisiana Industrial Institute," now known as Louisiana Tech. The touchdown was made by the late Glen Walker of Shreveport, who died suddenly on a golf course at Shreveport a few years ago.

Incidentally, Tech's financial guarantee to the University of South Dakota is the highest ever contracted by the college here, according to A. W. Ford, chairman of the faculty athletics committee.

"We have taken rain insurance on the game for next Thursday, which will be the first game so protected here this season," Mr. Ford said, "but we are hoping for favorable weather so that a large crowd will turn out for what should be an interesting match."

Plans are under way to have the Tech-South Dakota engagement heralded throughout north Louisiana by circulars to be dropped from an airplane, supplementing the newspapers' co-operation in publicizing the event, Mr. Ford reported.

The South Dakotans are scheduled to leave their home base at Vermillion Sunday night, it was announced. They will travel by special Pullman car, coming by way of Shreveport, and are expected to arrive in Ruston at 6:50 p. m. Wednesday. The Coyotes plan to stage a workout at the Tech stadium Wednesday night, after which they will sleep in the special coach sidetracked at the Ruston depot.

The record of the South Dakota Redshirts this season includes six victories and three defeats. They have defeated South Dakota State college, 12-2; Morningside college, 16-0; the Iowa State Teachers, 13-0; Omaha university, 26-0, and Buena Vista college and Wayne Normal, the latter two opening their schedule. The Coyotes dropped a close 7-6 decision to Marquette, were overpowered by St. Louis university, 9-0, and lost to the University of North Dakota, 13-7.

LOTS OF PAULS

RUSTON, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—When football coaches at Louisiana Tech call "Paul" in the freshman squad, there are at least three fellows who answer to that name.

Paul Williston Ayres, Paul John Bonin, and Paul Philip Jardell come from Vinton, in Calcasieu parish, and they are all three graduates of the Vinton High school. They finished in 1937.

Ayres is enrolled in the engineering department and Bonin and Jardell are both taking agriculture at Tech.

ALABAMA GIVEN DUMMY SCRIMMAGE FOR VANDY

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide got dummy scrimmage and chalk drill in the gym today when the mercury went down to 40, with the weather raw.

Bradford and Cochrane were "bunged" up in scrimmage yesterday, Coach Frank Thomas said, reporting neither was seriously hurt. Bostick is back in shape but Captain Monsky is not progressing so well, he said.

Thomas may forego a scrimmage set for Saturday to prevent possible further injury before the Southeastern conference championship game with Vanderbilt Thanksgiving.

Thomas said he was looking for a varied Commodore offense and realized he was up against a "tricky team that takes advantage of every opportunity."

S. M. U. PASSES WAY TO VICTORY OVER U. C. L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university pitched its aerial circus in the coliseum today and played a brilliant 26 to 13 performance for the benefit of the Bruins of University of California at Los Angeles.

Outplayed and completely overshadowed at the outset by the Bruins' negro combination of Kenny Washington and Woodrow Wilson Strode, the Mustangs cut loose with a tally in the second and rang up three more in the third.

Starting from their own 23, the Mustangs advanced on four passes, scoring their first on a short aerial from Jack Morrison to Pete Acker.

OLE MISS TO HAVE FULL STRENGTH FOR MAROONS

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Ole Miss will tackle Mississippi State at full strength on Thanksgiving day, Coach Ed Walker said today after watching Billy Mann and Guard Bully White cavort through a scrimmage drill.

The two joined Johnny Lehnhardt, Ray Haped and Bill Schneller, backs, and Talbot Crowder, tackle, on the regular playing list after injuries had kept them out of service for much of the season.

A Frenchman Looks At Football

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—"On Ohio Football Field—A Whole Series Of Boxing Matches Where The Knockout Is King."

That headline astounded American residents of Paris when they read Paris Soir, France's largest afternoon newspaper.

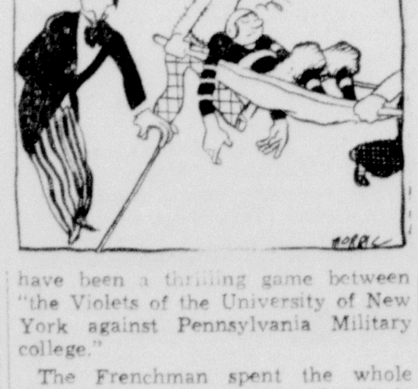
Gaston Benac, special correspondent in New York City, wrote two articles on American football through a Frenchman's eyes.

The first concerned a visit to the Columbia university training field, where Mr. Benac found the tackling dummies and other practice equipment reminded him of nothing so much as the instruments of torture of the middle ages.

There he talked to the coach, one "Little Lou," who told him all about American football. The Columbia coach, said Mr. Benac, was so much of a celebrity in America that "when he traveled from New York to Kansas City it made as much excitement as a French ministerial crisis."

On the field, he said, he heard "Little Lou" telling one of his players how to take care of an opponent with the words: "If he bothers you knock him out."

In the second Paris Soir article was an eye-witness account of what must have been a thrilling game between "the Violets of the University of New York against Pennsylvania Military college."



ANOZZER KNOCKOUT, I WAS HOPING HE'D WEEN ZEE DECEESION

The Frenchman spent the whole first part of the game, played in "Ohio Fields" in uptown New York, watching the antics of "a whole line of men dressed in white who took part of orchestra leaders for the wild cries of young students of the University of New York."

Before telling about the action, Mr. Benac explained the rules of the game.

"One camp attacks with its forwards gathered together in line with the spot from which the ball is played, while two halves, a three-quarters and the rear guard are spread out 10 meters (about 10 yards) further back.

"The forward center passes the ball between his legs to the three-quarters or the rear guard, who rushes away or makes a long pass forward or gives the ball a kick. There are a thousand possible combinations."

The game the Frenchman saw, he said, had only one star—"the giant three-quarters, Edward Williams."

"One impressive thing," wrote Mr. Benac, "is that very few of the players reach the end of the violent play, which last only a few seconds after the ball is passed.

"As for the stars, they are protected by their comrades, who fall upon them to prevent an opponent from twisting their arms or their ankles while they lie on the ground.

"'It's so quickly done,' somebody beside me said.

"What was almost as quickly done was the epilogue of a battle which took place near me in the grandstands. A supporter of Pennsylvania was knocked out in less than 10 seconds and put on a stretcher in less than a minute. That was a record."

Sports Chatter

By Geo. K. Lofton

country and the team is also well coached by the veteran Frank Thomas. You will also note that only a week ago, Alabama nosed out Tulane with a field goal in the last few minutes from around the 26-yard line. Yet in the Georgia Tech game, the quarterback elected to pass on fourth down after gaining only one yard in three tries.

"Now, to get to the point. Would you call this smart football or not? And do you think that if the pass had not worked for the touchdown, the quarterback would have been the goat? Considering, of course, the good place-kicker who won the Tulane game and possibly a Rose Bowl bid for Alabama.

"You will recall that moment when Northeast Center was in the same position against Southeastern and, after three thrusts at the line, had only gained two yards, a pass was decided upon which failed to be completed. Was that smart football? Considering, of course, the drop-kicker of Northeast Center, who has missed only one extra point through the entire season.

"I would appreciate very much knowing your opinion on these two problems."

To begin with, Center Fan, "smart quarterbacking" is that brand which scores points. Many times smart quarterbacking doesn't produce a score, for various reasons, but when it does, the field general is a genius. When it fails, he's the goat.

We have always made it a practice to give the quarterback, or whoever's calling the plays, credit for knowing conditions on the field. If he doesn't, the coach should have someone in there who's capable of keeping up with things.

In the two Alabama instances, you cite similar situations in which different methods were used to produce results. Maybe in both instances the quarterback merely guessed right or maybe he had figured the thing correctly and used the method he thought best after careful consideration. The Tulane line had held repeatedly and their pass defense was pretty good. Three points seemed fairly sure of winning the game, so the quarterback elected to try a field goal. In the Georgia Tech game, maybe the Tech line was rushing fast enough to make a field goal dangerous. (That, we were told, is the reason Center didn't try one.) Therefore, the 'Bama signal caller decided to pass, and it clicked. A line thrust was out of the question.

Your statistics in the Center-Southeastern game are not quite correct. Center had advanced from the eight to the three—a distance of five yards—in three attempts. Frankly, we would have tried another line plunge, but don't you think the quarterback down there on the field knew more about conditions than we up in the press box? He knew—or should have known—what his line was doing and how the other forwards were performing. Southeastern also had an excellent opportunity to try a field goal late in the game but didn't attempt it. You may remember that the Lions sent in their kicker but he didn't kick. As stated above, we were told that both lines were charging unusually fast, and for that reason, neither team tried a field goal.

Quarterbacking is no cinch. Often a team is carefully rehearsed on a pet play to use in circumstances that you cite, and when it works, everything's lovely. But when it doesn't, the quarterback catches the devil.

A team plays smart football when it wins, and the quarterback's dumb when he loses a close one. That's the way the fans look at it. But how often have you seen a quarterback pick the right play, only to have it messed up by one of his own mates or an unexpected maneuver by the opposition?

After all, they're down there to win and usually the boys are doing what they've been taught.

NEBRASKA SCORES 28-0 TRIUMPH OVER HAWKEYES

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Biff Jones' Nebraska football team demonstrated today it did have an offensive.

An outclassed band of Iowa Hawkeyes were convinced of that by the scoreboard, which read Nebraska 28, Iowa 0.

CARNEGIE TECH BATTLES HOLY CROSS TO 0-0 TIE

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Undefeated Holy Cross was held to a scoreless tie by Carnegie Tech today in a dogged football battle fought through a snowstorm before 15,000 half-frozen spectators.

The visiting Skibos rose up with three great goal line stands to turn back the Crusaders in the first half after Bill Osmanski's running and Ronny Cahill's passing set up scoring chances.

Holy Cross was halted on the four-yard line early in the first quarter after Bill Histen had intercepted a Carnegie lateral.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Fair buying support entered the cotton market here today after an early decline and final prices were steady at net advances of 2 to 7 points.

Foreign markets were lower than expected at the start and longs liquidated for over the week-end. Before the offerings were absorbed active positions showed net losses of 4 to 5 points.

In the second hour shorts covered and there was some buying attributed to Washington reports quoting a congressional leader as predicting a change in the surplus profits and capital gains taxes.

As a result prices recovered and the close was at the highs.

December finished at 7.95, January at 7.93, March at 7.97, May at 7.99, July at 8.01 bid, October at 8.07 and December (new) at 8.09 bid.

Exports today were 37,118 bales.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Stocks firm; recently weak leaders rally. Bonds narrow; rails under pressure at times. Curb steady; early losses erased. Foreign exchange steady; sterling and franc higher. Cotton quiet; trade and spot house buying. Sugar lower; hedge selling. Coffee improved; steadier Brazilian markets.

CHICAGO—Wheat strong; Argentine crop news. Corn higher; export sales. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs 10-15 lower.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Shaky stocks of yesterday displayed more backbone in today's market and many leaders recovered fractions to three or more points.

Prominent on the come-back were rails, steels, motors, coppers and specialties. While the return journey was only moderately fast, transfers for the two hours approximated 1,232,100 shares.

Brokers attributed improvement largely to the belief of some the Friday slump called for at least part of the lost ground being retraced even if the basic trend is still downward.

Efforts of union officials to break the unauthorized "sit-down" strike at General Motors helped to bolster automotive issues. Announcement of Goodyear that it would open its plants Monday for "those who wished to work" was coincident with preparations for mobilization of Ohio national guard units and indicated this labor problem was still unsettled.

Steels edged forward despite estimates next week's mill operations would register another substantial recession.

Wall Street opinions regarding the president's call for an inquiry into higher living costs were mixed. In some quarters this was interpreted as another attack on corporation profits.

Bonds and commodities did better.

SEVERAL ENLIST FOR ARMY SERVICE

Sergeant A. Goldfine, recruiter for the United States army, with headquarters at room 217, federal building, Monroe, announced the following men have been accepted for army service and will be stationed in the Hawaiian islands:

Albert G. Cranford, Epps, engineers' corps; Lennard E. Gewin, 112 Malvern street, engineers' corps; John D. Auger, Holly Ridge, field artillery; Quentin Pardue, Dean, La., engineers' corps; Billie H. Hendricks, Choudrant, air corps; William C. Lennard, Monroe, chemical warfare service; Colman Bagwell, Monroe, quartermaster corps; Clarence H. Lavalle, Sterlington, air corps.

The United States army has vacancies for various branches of the service in the Hawaiian islands and for posts in the states of Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana, Sergeant Goldfine announced.

J. B. NICHOLS RECOVERS AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

The condition of J. B. Nichols, 58, of 4200 South Grand street, yesterday was reported at Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic as satisfactory. Mr. Nichols suffered a broken left leg and contusions to the left shoulder as the result of being hit by an automobile reputedly driven by Clyde Culver, Jr., 211 South Fourth street, in the 4000 block of South Grand street.

According to a report of the accident submitted to the Monroe police department by Mr. Culver, the latter declared he was traveling north on South Grand street and as he approached the 4000 block he was blinded by the lights of an automobile which was proceeding towards him and which was reputedly driven by Luther Gates. He said he failed to see Nichols who was walking in the street near the curb.

After his car struck Mr. Nichols, Mr. Culver picked up the injured man and carried him to the local hospital and reported the accident to the police. No charges had been filed against Mr. Culver yesterday, it was reported.

MONROE FURNITURE COMPANY TO HANDLE WASHING MACHINES

Announcement was made yesterday by Joe Isaacman, vice-president and manager of the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., that his firm has been appointed distributors in this territory for the new One-Minute washing machine.

The new One-Minute washing machine department will function locally under the direction of F. M. Cole, present Stewart-Warner refrigeration sales supervisor, who will continue also in his refrigeration work.

"The One-Minute line," Mr. Isaacman stated, "was selected after careful consideration of several other leading makes, since in our opinion it offers more value per dollar to the user; and because One-Minute enjoys a national reputation as one of the most dependable and reliable machines on the market today."

The new department will be located in the Downstairs Store, Monroe Furniture company's recently opened popular-priced display floor. The One-Minute line includes models in practically all price ranges and several colors. Two of the models shown include electric pumps and many other de luxe features. The One-Minute line will be sold on convenient terms, it was stated.

In the larval stage, a spiny lobster is totally unlike its adult form. Scientists did not recognize the transparent, leaf-like creature until recent times.

Real Estate for Sale 43a

FOR SALE—CHEAP

For small farm home, or investment in tracts of 10 acres or more. Cash or terms. $40.00 per acre.

Enough timber on some tracts for any building requirements.

Located on new gravel highway 5 miles east of Monroe city limits and one mile north of highway 80 at Gunn's filling station and tourist camp.

Natural gas for lighting, heating and cooking for one house on each tract furnished free for five years.

Good pure wholesome artesian water available at low cost.

Why rent or build a home on a small lot in the city when good highways, radios, telephones and automobiles have practically eliminated distance.

And too where you can have city conveniences and have a cow, chickens, orchard and garden.

And have fresh fruit, vegetables, eggs, milk, etc., at practically no cost to you.

VEGETABLES?
EGGS?
MILK?
LIGHT BILL?
GAS BILL?
WATER BILL?
CITY TAXES?

AND—add to that what you would pay for lumber for building a home, garage, etc. Remember some of these tracts have enough standing timber for building purposes.

SEVERAL ENLIST FOR ARMY SERVICE

Sergeant A. Goldfine, recruiter for the United States army, with headquarters at room 217, federal building, Monroe, announced the following men have been accepted for army service and will be stationed in the Hawaiian islands:

Albert G. Cranford, Epps, engineers' corps; Lennard E. Gewin, 112 Malvern street, engineers' corps; John D. Auger, Holly Ridge, field artillery; Quentin Pardue, Dean, La., engineers' corps; Billie H. Hendricks, Choudrant, air corps; William C. Lennard, Monroe, chemical warfare service; Colman Bagwell, Monroe, quartermaster corps; Clarence H. Lavalle, Sterlington, air corps.

The United States army has vacancies for various branches of the service in the Hawaiian islands and for posts in the states of Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana, Sergeant Goldfine announced.

J. B. NICHOLS RECOVERS AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

The condition of J. B. Nichols, 58, of 4200 South Grand street, yesterday was reported at Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic as satisfactory. Mr. Nichols suffered a broken left leg and contusions to the left shoulder as the result of being hit by an automobile reputedly driven by Clyde Culver, Jr., 211 South Fourth street, in the 4000 block of South Grand street.

According to a report of the accident submitted to the Monroe police department by Mr. Culver, the latter declared he was traveling north on South Grand street and as he approached the 4000 block he was blinded by the lights of an automobile which was proceeding towards him and which was reputedly driven by Luther Gates. He said he failed to see Nichols who was walking in the street near the curb.

After his car struck Mr. Nichols, Mr. Culver picked up the injured man and carried him to the local hospital and reported the accident to the police. No charges had been filed against Mr. Culver yesterday, it was reported.

MONROE FURNITURE COMPANY TO HANDLE WASHING MACHINES

Announcement was made yesterday by Joe Isaacman, vice-president and manager of the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., that his firm has been appointed distributors in this territory for the new One-Minute washing machine.

The new One-Minute washing machine department will function locally under the direction of F. M. Cole, present Stewart-Warner refrigeration sales supervisor, who will continue also in his refrigeration work.

"The One-Minute line," Mr. Isaacman stated, "was selected after careful consideration of several other leading makes, since in our opinion it offers more value per dollar to the user; and because One-Minute enjoys a national reputation as one of the most dependable and reliable machines on the market today."

The new department will be located in the Downstairs Store, Monroe Furniture company's recently opened popular-priced display floor. The One-Minute line includes models in practically all price ranges and several colors. Two of the models shown include electric pumps and many other de luxe features. The One-Minute line will be sold on convenient terms, it was stated.

Real Estate for Sale 43a

FOR SALE—CHEAP

For small farm home, or investment in tracts of 10 acres or more. Cash or terms. $40.00 per acre.

Enough timber on acme tracts for any building requirements.

Located on new gravel highway 5 miles east of Monroe city limits and one mile north of highway 80 at Gunn's filling station and tourist camp.

Natural gas for lighting, heating and cooking for one house on each tract furnished free for five years.

Good pure wholesome artesian water available at low cost.

Why rent or build a home on a small lot in the city when good highways, radios, telephones and automobiles have practically eliminated distance.

And too where you can have city conveniences and have a cow, chickens, orchard and garden.

And have fresh fruit, vegetables, eggs, milk, etc., at practically no cost to you.

VEGETABLES?
EGGS?
MILK?
LIGHT BILL?
GAS BILL?
WATER BILL?
CITY TAXES?

AND—add to that what you would pay for lumber for building a home, garage, etc. Remember some of these tracts have enough standing timber for building purposes.

Richard R. Brown Pleased With Progress Made In Ouachita Parish

Richard R. Brown, deputy executive director of the National Youth administration, Washington, D. C., spent several hours in Monroe Saturday morning making official investigation of the work of the group here. At the close of his investigation he stated that he was well pleased with progress in Ouachita parish.

He left shortly before noon for Jonesboro where he inspected the community center which is similar to the one he visited in West Monroe.

Mr. Brown spoke at the Louisiana teachers' convention in Shreveport Friday and came to Monroe directly from there, stopping on the way over to inspect projects of NYA in Grambling and the farm construction project in Ruston.

He is to make inspections in Natchitoches, where there is a resident project in operation, and in Pineville, where a community center is operated. From Pineville he will proceed to New Orleans, his last stop in the state.

Mr. Brown was accompanied by A. J. Sarre, state NYA director, New Orleans, and when in Monroe he was shown workings of the project by Mrs. Elenora Chandler, district supervisor.

"I am specially well pleased with the workings of the NYA and the opportunity for training that it affords in Louisiana as well as elsewhere," Mr. Brown said. "I believe the NYA is a real functioning agency for vocational youth training.

"The average run of teachers should work closer with youth in shaping real vocations. The field for white collar jobs is limited; it behooves many who are not so well prepared for these jobs by both training and by natural talents, to devote themselves instead to trades and making themselves useful in manual arts as their best calling in life."

FIRE EXTINGUISHED

A short in the wiring system yesterday caused a fire at a house located at 413 Congo street. The property was owned by L. D. Hinton and occupied by Susie Williams, negro woman. Two companies from central fire station made the run and extinguished the blaze with little damage reported.

MUSICAL NAME

OCTAVE REGISTER

NAME APPROPRIATE FOR MUSIC COURSE

RUSTON, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—With the name of Octave Register, a West Monroe girl is considered appropriately designated for the course in music she is studying at Louisiana Tech.

In musical terms, an octave is described as "the eighth full tone above or below any given note," while register means "the compass or range of a voice or a series of tones similarly produced and of the same quality."

A newspaper feature cartoonist, Robert L. Ripley, interested in Miss Register's name, wrote to her a few months ago and asked for her picture. The request was declined, however.

Miss Register began to take piano lessons at the age of five years and has continued since that time. After graduating from Ouachita Parish High school, she majored in music at the Northeast Center of L. S. U. in Monroe. She entered the Tech music department this fall.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Register, who reside at 1519 Trenton street, West Monroe.

BAR ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual election of the Fourth Judicial Bar association was held in the courthouse Friday at 8 p. m. when Ronald Lee Davis was named president to succeed H. F. Madison, Jr., for the ensuing year.

Other officers elected were: E. F. Madison, Bastrop, vice-president; James H. Dormon, vice-president; D. Ross Banister, secretary-treasurer.

The executive committee named comprised Brunswig Sholars, Thomas W. Davenport, H. F. Madison, Jr., James H. Trousdale, Jr., Allen B. Guthrie, Howell H. Heard and James T. Shell, Jr., Bastrop.

MANY CENTER PUPILS TREATED FOR RABIES

Dr. T. A. Mitchell, local veterinarian, yesterday reported a dog which was said to have bitten or scratched about 35 Northeast Center of L. S. U. students was infected with rabies. The diagnosis was made by the Louisiana board of health office at New Orleans to where the dog's head was sent after the animal died here, Dr. Mitchell reported.

The students, only a few of whom were actually bitten by the rabid animal, are taking anti-rabies shots at Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic.

UNION OFFICIALS DEPLORE STRIKE

Say No Small Group Can Do As It Pleases And Keep Its Standing

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 20.—(AP)—High officials of the United Automobile Workers of America, confronted with a major test of their ability to control their members, prepared for a show-down today on an unauthorized sit-down strike here in General Motor's Fisher Body plant.

Indicating the concern felt by the union's high command, a call went out today for a special meeting of the 24-member international executive board at Detroit tomorrow. Telegrams instructed the members to travel by airplane, if necessary, to attend the meeting.

Homer Martin, international president, told a closed membership meeting at Flint, Mich., this afternoon that "no small group of workers who think they can do as they please can close a General Motors plant and stay within the pale of the union."

Before he left Flint for Pontiac, however, he said there were no plans for expelling from the union, the several hundred men whose defiant strike in the Fisher plant Wednesday night closed that plant and the Pontiac Motor company factory, throwing 14,700 men into idleness.

He planned to confer here with Pontiac U. A. W. A. officials and, perhaps, appeal directly to the strikers. He declined to discuss his plans except to say that unauthorized strikes "will not be tolerated." He added that "there are always reasons for such outbreaks and the Pontiac case is not all one-sided."

In Lansing, members of the U. A. W. A. Fisher local voted against a strike and to follow the policies of Martin and the international board. Lester Washburn, regional director of the union for western Michigan, said the vote was unanimous. He said the men were eager to "prove to General Motors and to the public that we have a well-disciplined union."

William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation, said last night "irresponsibility on the part of locals and unauthorized strikes" jeopardized collective bargaining.

Martin said today the international executive board was called into session to discuss "the entire General Motors situation" as well as the Pontiac strike.

General Motors had demanded renewed assurance against outlaw strikes before resuming negotiations on a new agreement. A clause in the existing agreement, inserted September 16, conceded the management the right to discipline instigators of outlaw strikes. The union claimed this was nullified by the U. A. W. A. rejection last Sunday of a new agreement.

"We are going to give General Motors assurance against outlaw strikes," Martin said today, "but the September 16 clause is foolish. No union would be able to operate under that kind of a system. We propose now a joint responsibility for living up to contracts. We will take care of our own membership, but not stool pigeons who may cause strikes.

"We want to go through the grievance procedure and, if we cannot settle an issue there, have an impartial umpire."

The sit-down strikers, numbering approximately 450, dug in for an indefinite siege. Refused strike benefit funds by the international union, the strikers were supplied with blankets and food by sympathizers. The Pontiac U. A. W. A. local also placed funds at their disposal.

WEST MONROE LEGION TO DISCUSS NEW HOME

Plans for building a new home for the Burnett-Downs American Legion post No. 201, of West Monroe, will be discussed at an important meeting that will be held in the West Monroe city hall, Monday at 7:30 p.m., stated Post Commander Alton T. Harper.

New members will be initiated and a full report will be rendered of the recent membership campaign. It is stated that the present membership of 48 will be increased greatly as plans contemplate continuing the campaign until January 1, 1938, at which time the goal is to have 100 members.

Besides the discussing of plans for the new home and formulating of plans for securing new members, other important business matters will be considered at Monday night's meeting, Commander Harper said.

NYA EXECUTIVE VISITS MONROE

Richard R. Brown Pleased With Progress Made In Ouachita Parish

Thanksgiving And Christmas Seasons Becoming More Glamorous Each Year

Many Will Gather At Festive Boards

Numerous Fans Plan To Attend Football Game Saturday; Big Apple Proves Popular

By Eve Bradford

PETTY gossip, small sins and vices remain the same year in and year out, but every holiday season differs. The glamor of it all thrills anew every year and makes each year more wonderful than the one before. Life for some may begin at forty but for the vast majority, life really begins when one is old enough to grasp the full meaning of Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Wintry winds are blowing! Just the fitting weather for Thanksgiving and the gathering of the clans around the festive board, giving thanks. Not just the turkey-stuffing, holiday-making kind of thanks that we offer publicly every year, but out of the heart—and on our knees—for a goodly year free from strife and warfare. Nothing to mar the serenity of our days this year with barns overflowing, an abundance of all the good things of life, and most of the people prosperous and happy. The only strife known to us today is the natural one for place and power.

The snappy weather makes the blood race. It finds the football fans ready to hop into their cars for their annual pilgrimage to New Orleans next Saturday for the big game. Those fur coats bought last August, during the sale, when the thought of wearing them sickened one, will certainly serve well their purpose if the lace-edged snowflakes come swirling down as predicted. One wonders where all the fur-bearing animals come from, so great is the vogue for fur coats this year. One of the smartest winter ensembles we have seen this year is being worn by Hortense Touchstone—a Persian lamb coat with jaunty cap of lamb.

Fern Terzia is a picture of sartorial splendor when she wears her black velvet evening coat with immense collar of ermine.

Anna Speed is wearing a smart ensemble this winter—a grey wool tailleur with shoulder length cape of grey squirrel.

You will travel far before you will see more beautiful silver fox furs than those worn this winter by Mrs. Sigmund Masur.

Bessie Biedenharn's mink coat is superb and vastly becoming. Beautiful also is the new mink coat Cynthia (W. C.) Feazel is wearing. Elizabeth (Howard) Greene is the essence of chic in a new stone marten coat. Rook Harrison wears to perfection a handsome Hudson seal coat. Florence Powers is another who prefers Hudson seal and wears it with considerable grace. Francesca Biedenharn possesses a Kolinsky fur coat that always brings forth peons of praise whenever she wears it.

Fads in dieting have been many but none as strange as Blanche Oliver's diet of carrot juice. We have heard many intellectuals in the past who went in for strange diets and peculiar tastes in food. Aristotle is said to have had a ravenous appetite for turnips and when Handel dined at an inn he ordered dinner for three and ate all three. Dryden ate raw meat and Keats once covered his tongue and throat with cayenne pepper in order to enjoy the claret more. Benjamin Franklin kept a plate of bread and cheese at his side "to repair mental waste."

Stella and Arthur Dryburg will have a second Annie Oakley in the family if their daughter Patsy continues her study of riflery at the University of Alabama where she is winning honors on the rifle range.

The Big Apple was served up with verve at the annual dancing party at the Lotus club Friday night. Out on the floor bounced young and old, enjoying the newest dance that seems to have taken the social world by storm. It would be difficult to tell who "peeled and cored," the biggest apple as everyone seems to be familiar with the various steps.

Lily Harrington's kinfolks, thirty-five strong, regaled themselves on old memories and choice viands in her home last Sunday. She conceived the idea of bringing them all together and the idea proved more successful than her fondest expectations. They came from Shreveport, Alexandria, Vicksburg, Nacogdoches and nearby plantations and ended in one of the most enjoyable family gatherings ever planned. Carrie Cade gave the keynoting speech and after that all were on their feet at once, eager to talk and to offer toasts.

When Lillie and James Sparks turn the key in the apartment waiting for them upon their arrival home from their honeymoon, they will find the pantry shelves stocked with all kinds of edibles and a toothsome array of viands. The family planned a shower and the night before they arrive and each one will contribute articles necessary for immediate housekeeping. It looks as though it will not be necessary for Lillie to join the thrifty band of housewives with swinging baskets from their arms for many weeks to come.

Stout Women Long For Individual Styles

Women of today with a more-than-38 chassis should band together like the stalwart Valkyrie maidens of mythology and swoop down on style creators with pleadings and demands for clothes to suit one's type. The style creators of today, because the larger woman can't make the front row of the chorus, all but pass them by. Only a limited number of garments are carried by the average costumer.

There is nothing that so makes a woman long for a coat of armor, like those worn by the Valkyrie maidens, as the patient air the average salesgirl takes on when asked if a certain model comes in a larger size. Her very patience is a rebuke to one's size.

"Sorry, that is not in your size, madam. That model only runs to 18. Here is another model, however, a 38, that could be made to fit. With gussets you could bend your arms! Yes, the material will give; you could reinforce the seams." And there are a million more tantalizing words like "insets," "reinforcements," "let down," "alterations" and "let out."

When a solid dark color is preferred, the more-than-38 market is flooded with print, in flowered patterns, and the larger the model the bigger the flowers—flowers that will nod and beckon on one's ample proportions.

The real treasure hunt is to find something conservative and yet enables one to come forth in a creation that does not make the more-than-38 size look and feel as if one should file application soon in an old lady's home.

Perhaps a new foundation will do the necessary pruning. A hope is born. Truly fitting rooms for the trying on of a new foundation should be termed "padded cells." The average woman, who trys on one of these reducing garments, climbs, struggles, crawls, tugs and wrestles into at least five, before she finds one that she can sit as well as stand in, one that doesn't saw or cut here and there.

At last with hair disheveled, make-up vanished and feeling about as relaxed as an ironing board, the frankly fat emerge from one of these feminine sanctum sanctoriums, well trimmed.

Now with swathed hips, formal attire is considered, for the social season is at hand. How fascinating are those nocturnal creations in their decollete cut, how scintillating with sequin trim! But they are not intended for those who can't depend on two tiny straps to hold one in tow for an evening. A smooth back is beautiful, but who cares for such an expanse? What designer has given that a thought? They think only of youth.

Meekly comes the suggestion that the clerk "show something please, ah, not quite so, you know, so expose." Then from out of a stock room she floats with never ending wisps of billowy chiffon. True, here is a model that drapes well, a model in whose voluminous folds, the more-than-38 figure would vibrate like an angry ocean wave. Rather than this shroud of sartorial hopes, one decides to place one's trust in a two-strap model. Then after a night of needed rest, one can spend another whole day looking for a cocktail jacket that will cover up all those ugly proportions. One then walks forth in a dress with a little jacket and thank the gods for it.

Seers Peer Into Future

Unveiled at the most notable American fashion show, "Fashion Futures—American Edition," these creations afford an advance glimpse of the modes in forthcoming seasons as conceived by the American designers of women's clothes. The beach costumes above originated in Hollywood. The sunbather wears an outfit that includes shorts of dotted pique with elastic woven into the waistband. Dots are green, red, blue and chartreuse. The girl who kneels beside her wears knee-length slacks in white flannel with embroidered suspenders. Her blouse is pale blue linen.

Welcome Branch Book Club Meet Conducted

Miss Smith And Mrs. Herron Review Interesting Works At The Garnett Home

Mrs. V. S. Garnett's home radiated hospitality last week when she entertained members of the Welcome Branch Book club and extended many gracious courtesies.

A distinctive courtesy was the presentation of exquisite corsages from a basket carried on the arm of Mrs. W. F. Hornberger, co-hostess.

After a brief business session, reports on the state convention were given by Mrs. J. W. White, Mrs. Frank Black and Mrs. Dudley Stone.

Mrs. Zell Smith's paper, "Women in Art," was charmingly presented in her absence by her daughter, Miss Marion Smith.

"Who are the outstanding women painters?" was the question asked and answered by the following facts:

"From the seventeenth century to our own day there have been many of them; some forgotten now, some remembered because their work is still appreciated, or because of the fame that was theirs while they lived. Women of all nations have contributed to art.

"Europe has given us many noted artists, among them Rosa Bonheur, Judith Leyster and Vigi LeBrun.

"America has come to the front in the world of art with her own famous women. One of the most prominent contemporary painters of today is Georgia O'Keefe. Her bewitchingly colored flowers are symbolic of nature's eternal mystery, and her landscapes have a fine dignity.

"In the south there are several widely known women artists, Louisiana contributing as many as 23 of them. In the latest edition of 'Who's Who in American Art,' a number of southern women are noted. Among them Mrs. Marie A. Hull of Jackson, Miss., Mrs. Cole of Shreveport, and Mrs. H. M. James of Monroe, La."

Lovely paintings from the brush of each of the last three artists mentioned were exhibited by Miss Smith, and enjoyed by club members.

The book, "Heads and Tales," and the life of its author, Malvina Hoffman, was reviewed in an interesting manner by Mrs. Paul Herron. She said in part:

"Malvina Hoffman is the daughter of Richard Hoffman, the distinguished pianist, who came to America from England in 1847, as a boy virtuoso, and toured the country in 1850 with Jenny Lind, under the management of P. T. Barnum. It was a marble bust of the father in the year of his death at 78, which determined her to turn her energies to the field of sculpture. She was then 22. She became the pupil of the great Rodin, absorbing the master's methods and ideas without imitation. By 1915, she had achieved national recognition. The war, during which she served abroad as one of the moving forces in relief administration, interrupted her unfolding career in sculpture, though only for a few years.

"In the decade of the 1920's, many honors and awards came to her. She showed herself ready to assume any commission, no matter how gigantic the undertaking. Her most courageous project, however, and one which would constitute a life work in itself, was that begun in 1930 for the Hall of Man of the Field museum of Chicago, with which her book is so largely concerned. It meant a world tour to put into bronze statues of every living race of man, that pose which was characteristic of his race, and of no other. In these one hundred bronzes, art and science have penetrated the racial spirit of types drawn from all over the world, and have perpetuated it for all time in an imperishable medium. Races may die, but they live forever in these bronzes."

Members present were Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. George Barton Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Harold Deloney, Mrs. J. T. Eubank, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. Warren Gregory, Mrs. M. R. Bono Nostrorum Club Of Mangham Meets

The Bono Nostrorum club of Mangham held its November meeting in the home of Mrs. W. E. Hixon, with Mrs. E. E. Randall co-hostess.

John Atwell Baskin gave a brilliant piano interpretation of "Hungarian Dance," by Brahms.

Present-day southern poets were the subject of study. Mrs. E. T. Lee gave some entertaining bits of information on the life of Grace Noll Crowell—information furnished by the husband of the poet herself. Mrs. Lee displayed an autographed picture of Mrs. Crowell and an autographed volume called "Poems for Courage." From the volume were read several poems that revealed the poet's aim to depict the quiet, serious beauty of commonplace things.

Mrs. B. N. Hixon gave a vivid account of the life of Du Bose Heywood, who in collaboration with Hervey Allen, published a volume of poems called "Carolina Chansors." Mr. Heywood was instrumental in the organization of the poetry society of South Carolina.

During the social period, the following guests and members were served: Miss Janet Hixon, John Atwell Baskin, Mrs. E. D. Baker, Mrs. W. C. Baker, Mrs. Kathleen Baskin, Mrs. S. B. Carraway, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr., Miss Virgie Evans, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. S. M. Hixon, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Mrs. F. C. Sheppard, Miss Kate Talbert, Mrs. C. N. Underwood and Miss Cecile Smith.

Books Provide Self Education

"Reading, the Magic Highway to Adventure," is this year's theme for children's book week.

Interest, the key to good habits, is, according to Olive Roberts Barton, the natural basis for book love. Through it the child may be led to self education or knowledge of every kind and variety. How different from the ancient way of presenting too-old or too-profound books to the boy or girl, thereby fixing dislike for all reading.

Miss Barton says: "What a way we have traveled from the 'Elsie Books' and the 'Rover Boys.' Not that they were poor, but that they were about all there were once. But even the past three or four years have revolutionized the child's library. The value of exquisite art is recognized at last. And the field has broadened until the romance of juvenile literature is a distinct education in almost every line of informative subject. It is all adventure, for experts of the pen, writing for today's children, know the fact is often stranger than fiction.

"'Reading, the Magic Highway to Adventure,' therefore, may be broadly interpreted. Any and every book published today for children from 2 to 20 comes quite nicely under the heading.

"Here are some suggestions that should be made before the inexperienced purchaser, if you happen to have a book or two in mind, decides on a volume for Mary or Ted.

"Don't select one they will have to grow into. Today is today. I prefer a book a trifle too young than a trifle too old. Not only will the child not enjoy it particularly, but it may give him a feeling of hesitation about other books. Of course, there is no edge to age line.

"I read hundreds of children's books and am as interested as though I were six, or ten or sixteen. Lists are only general guides at best, as the book for an adolescent is often thoroughly enjoyed by the younger child, provided it is simply written and the subject appealing. But one should select books, generally speaking, from recommended age suggestions. There are enough for every age.

"If you know a child to be particularly interested in one subject, there is always a book for it. There is your first guide. If he is factual and greedy for knowledge there are the so-called 'informative' books, each one an Aladdin's Cave of treasure. If he has a hobby, how easy. But don't get him too many books on one subject. All children love pure fiction. Well, there are enough splendid ones for you to select from blindfold almost.

"But whatever you do, get acquainted with the 'feel' of the wonderful children's library today. Go and browse. Feast on such illustrations as you have never dreamed existed. You will wish yourself back in childhood, on your own magic way to adventure."

Thanksgiving And Christmas Seasons Becoming More Glamorous Each Year

Many Will Gather At Festive Boards

Numerous Fans Plan To Attend Football Game Saturday; Big Apple Proves Popular

By Eve Bradford

PETTY gossip, small sins and vices remain the same year in and year out, but every holiday season differs. The glamor of it all thrills anew every year and makes each year more wonderful than the one before. Life for some may begin at forty but for the vast majority, life really begins when one is old enough to grasp the full meaning of Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Wintry winds are blowing! Just the fitting weather for Thanksgiving and the gathering of the clans around the festive board, giving thanks. Not just the turkey-stuffing, holiday-making kind of thanks that we offer publicly every year, but out of the heart—and on our knees—for a goodly year free from strife and warfare. Nothing to mar the serenity of our days this year with barns overflowing, an abundance of all the good things of life, and most of the people prosperous and happy. The only strife known to us today is the natural one for place and power.

The snappy weather makes the blood race. It finds the football fans ready to hop into their cars for their annual pilgrimage to New Orleans next Saturday for the big game. Those fur coats bought last August, during the sale, when the thought of wearing them sickened one, will certainly serve well their purpose if the lace-edged snowflakes come swirling down as predicted. One wonders where all the fur-bearing animals come from, so great is the vogue for fur coats this year. One of the smartest winter ensembles we have seen this year is being worn by Hortense Touchstone—a Persian lamb coat with jaunty cap of lamb.

Fern Terzia is a picture of sartorial splendor when she wears her black velvet evening coat with immense collar of ermine.

Anna Speed is wearing a smart ensemble this winter—a grey wool tailleur with shoulder length cape of grey squirrel.

You will travel far before you will see more beautiful silver fox furs than those worn this winter by Mrs. Sigmund Masur.

Bessie Biedenharn's mink coat is superb and vastly becoming. Beautiful also is the new mink coat Cynthia (W. C.) Feazel is wearing. Elizabeth (Howard) Greene is the essence of chic in a new stone marten coat. Rook Harrison wears to perfection a handsome Hudson seal coat. Florence Powers is another who prefers Hudson seal and wears it with considerable grace. Francesca Biedenharn possesses a Kolinsky fur coat that always brings forth peons of praise whenever she wears it.

Fads in dieting have been many but none as strange as Blanche Oliver's diet of carrot juice. We have heard many intellectuals in the past who went in for strange diets and peculiar tastes in food. Aristotle is said to have had a ravenous appetite for turnips and when Handel dined at an inn he ordered dinner for three and ate all three. Dryden ate raw meat and Keats once covered his tongue and throat with cayenne pepper in order to enjoy the claret more. Benjamin Franklin kept a plate of bread and cheese at his side "to repair mental waste."

Stella and Arthur Dryburg will have a second Annie Oakley in the family if their daughter Patsy continues her study of riflery at the University of Alabama where she is winning honors on the rifle range.

The Big Apple was served up with verve at the annual dancing party at the Lotus club Friday night. Out on the floor bounced young and old, enjoying the newest dance that seems to have taken the social world by storm. It would be difficult to tell who "peeled and cored," the biggest apple as everyone seems to be familiar with the various steps.

Lily Harrington's kinfolks, thirty-five strong, regaled themselves on old memories and choice viands in her home last Sunday. She conceived the idea of bringing them all together and the idea proved more successful than her fondest expectations. They came from Shreveport, Alexandria, Vicksburg, Nacogdoches and nearby plantations and ended in one of the most enjoyable family gatherings ever planned. Carrie Cade gave the keynoting speech and after that all were on their feet at once, eager to talk and to offer toasts.

When Lillie and James Sparks turn the key in the apartment waiting for them upon their arrival home from their honeymoon, they will find the pantry shelves stocked with all kinds of edibles and a toothsome array of viands. The family planned a shower and the night before they arrive and each one will contribute articles necessary for immediate housekeeping. It looks as though it will not be necessary for Lillie to join the thrifty band of housewives with swinging baskets from their arms for many weeks to come.

Stout Women Long For Individual Styles

Women of today with a more-than-38 chassis should band together like the stalwart Valkyrie maidens of mythology and swoop down on style creators with pleadings and demands for clothes to suit one's type. The style creators of today, because the larger woman can't make the front row of the chorus, all but pass them by. Only a limited number of garments are carried by the average costumer.

There is nothing that so makes a woman long for a coat of armor, like those worn by the Valkyrie maidens, as the patient air the average salesgirl takes on when asked if a certain model comes in a larger size. Her very patience is a rebuke to one's size. "Sorry, that is not in your size, madam. That model only runs to 18. Here is another model, however, a 38, that could be made to fit. With gussets you could bend your arms! Yes, the material will give; you could reinforce the seams." And there are a million more tantalizing words like "insets," "reinforcements," "let down," "alterations" and "let out."

When a solid dark color is preferred, the more-than-38 market is flooded with print, in flowered patterns, and the larger the model the bigger the flowers—flowers that will nod and beckon on one's ample proportions.

The real treasure hunt is to find something conservative and yet enables one to come forth in a creation that does not make the more-than-38 size look and feel as if one should file application soon in an old lady's home.

Perhaps a new foundation will do the necessary pruning. A hope is born. Truly fitting rooms for the trying on of a new foundation should be termed "padded cells." The average woman, who trys on one of these reducing garments, climbs, struggles, crawls, tugs and wrestles into at least five, before she finds one that she can sit as well as stand in, one that doesn't saw or cut here and there.

At last with hair disheveled, makeup vanished and feeling about as relaxed as an ironing board, the frankly fat emerge from one of these feminine sanctum sanctoriums, well trimmed.

Now with swathed hips, formal attire is considered, for the social season is at hand. How fascinating are those nocturnal creations in their decollete cut, how scintillating with sequin trim! But they are not intended for those who can't depend on two tiny straps to hold one in tow for an evening. A smooth back is beautiful, but who cares for such an expanse? What designer has given that a thought? They think only of youth.

Meekly comes the suggestion that the clerk "show something please, ah, not quite so, you know, so expose." Then from out of a stock room she floats with never ending wisps of billowy chiffon. True, here is a model that drapes well, a model in whose voluminous folds, the more-than-38 figure would vibrate like an angry ocean wave. Rather than this shroud of sartorial hopes, one decides to place one's trust in a two-strap model. Then after a night of needed rest, one can spend another whole day looking for a cocktail jacket that will cover up all those ugly proportions. One then walks forth in a dress with a little jacket and thank the gods for it.

Seers Peer Into Future

Unveiled at the most notable American fashion show, "Fashion Futures—American Edition," these creations afford an advance glimpse of the modes in forthcoming seasons as conceived by the American designers of women's clothes. The beach costumes above originated in Hollywood. The sunbather wears an outfit that includes shorts of dotted pique with elastic woven into the waistband. Dots are green, red, blue and chartreuse. The girl who kneels beside her wears knee-length slacks in white flannel with embroidered suspenders. Her blouse is pale blue linen.

Welcome Branch Book Club Meet Conducted

Miss Smith And Mrs. Herron Review Interesting Works At The Garnett Home

Mrs. V. S. Garnett's home radiated hospitality last week when she entertained members of the Welcome Branch Book club and extended many gracious courtesies.

A distinctive courtesy was the presentation of exquisite corsages from a basket carried on the arm of Mrs. W. F. Hornberger, co-hostess.

After a brief business session, reports on the state convention were given by Mrs. J. W. White, Mrs. Frank Black and Mrs. Dudley Stone.

Mrs. Zell Smith's paper, "Women in Art," was charmingly presented in her absence by her daughter, Miss Marion Smith.

"Who are the outstanding women painters?" was the question asked and answered by the following facts:

"From the seventeenth century to our own day there have been many of them; some forgotten now, some remembered because their work is still appreciated, or because of the fame that was theirs while they lived. Women of all nations have contributed to art.

"Europe has given us many noted artists, among them Rosa Bonheur, Judith Leyster and Vigi LeBrun.

"America has come to the front in the world of art with her own famous women. One of the most prominent contemporary painters of today is Georgia O'Keefe. Her bewitchingly colored flowers are symbolic of nature's eternal mystery, and her landscapes have a fine dignity.

"In the south there are several widely known women artists. Louisiana contributing as many as 23 of them. In the latest edition of 'Who's Who in American Art,' a number of southern women are noted. Among them Mrs. Marie A. Hull of Jackson, Miss., Mrs. Cole of Shreveport, and Mrs. H. M. James of Monroe, La."

Lovely paintings from the brush of each of the last three artists mentioned were exhibited by Miss Smith, and enjoyed by club members.

The book, "Heads and Tales," and the life of its author, Malvina Hoffman, was reviewed in an interesting manner by Mrs. Paul Herron. She said in part:

Social Spotlight Will Center On Adelia Sandel's Wedding Friday Evening

Episcopal Church To Be Scene Of Nuptials

Bride-Elect Center Of Many Charming Events Given During The Past Week

The social chef-d'oeuvre of the week will be the marriage on Friday of Miss Adelia Sandel, member of one of Monroe's pioneer families, and Mr. Francis Wilford Fitzpatrick of Indianapolis, at Grace Episcopal church, at 7:30 in the evening.

The past few weeks found Miss Sandel the central figure at numerous pre-nuptial affairs with Mrs. H. R. Speed's luncheon yesterday climaxing the gracious courtesies.

Mrs. Travis Oliver, Jr., and Mrs. Amos Smelser entertained during the week with a smartly appointed bridge affair at Mrs. Smesler's home on Island drive.

Hearth fires burned brightly in the spacious living room and library with a profusion of beautiful flowers everywhere in evidence.

The hostesses' gift to Miss Sandel was a handsome silver cream and sugar set. The gifts for high score, chiffon hosiery and Tweed perfume, were claimed by Mrs. Theodore Allen and Miss Ruth Atkins.

Luscious refreshments followed by demitasse, were served at silver appointed linen covered tables, to the 16 guests present.

A double wedding ring, expertly fashioned of yellow chrysanthemums, formed the central floral note of Mrs. R. W. O'Donnell's coffee table in her home Friday morning when she entertained for Miss Sandel.

The wedding ring motif was cleverly portrayed in the gateaux and the mints placed along the table on silver platters. Luscious viands were passed among the guests by Miss Ruth Atkins and Miss Ellen Kent Millsaps, both of whom wore the exquisite corsages presented to them by the hostess.

Miss Sandel was wearing a Wallis blue tailleur with all accessories of the same color. A shoulder knot of Talisman roses, a gift from her hostess, was worn.

Mrs. Percy Sandel and Mrs. Frederick Millsaps presided over the silver urns gracing either end of the coffee table.

Officers Installed By V. F. W. Auxiliary

The installation of officers of the auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held jointly with the post Thursday night at the club rooms on DeSiard street with approximately 75 in attendance.

The installation was conducted by Mrs. Helen Himel, department council member, of Rayville. Officers installed were: President, DeVeria Blackwell; senior vice-president, Sleety B. Leonard; junior vice-president, Gladys K. Miller; treasurer, Christine G. Brown; secretary, Aline B Hunt; chaplain, Goldia B. Logan; conductress, Lillian Kenny; guard, Clara Farrington; 18-month trustee, Sallie B. Elliott; patriotic instructor, Georgie Kelly; color bearers, No. 1, Virgie Cummings; No. 2, Muretta Rainer; No. 3, Fannie Sanders; No. 4, Grace Johnston. Flag bearer, Martha Newman; banner bearer, Ethel Wetzel; historian, Emma Greenwood; assistant conductress, Chelie Wilson.

Gifts from the auxiliary were presented to the retiring president, Lena M. Morrow, President Blackwell and the installing officer, Mrs. Himel. Members from the auxiliary to Christian-Phillips post of Rayville who accompanied Mrs. Himel were President Mannie Burke, Secretary Lelia Boles, Chaplain Blanche Fife and Mrs. McIntyre.

Auxiliary colors were retired and President Blackwell turned the gavel back to Commander Miller, who closed the meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served.

President Blackwell urges all members to be present at the next regular meeting Thursday night, November 25, as important business will be brought before the auxiliary and the four standing committees will be appinted.

Miss Burk Much Feted Bride-Elect

The Monroe friends of Miss Cornelia Burk of Columbia are motoring back and forth to attend the pre-nuptial events now taking place daily complimentary to Miss Burk, whose approaching marriage is engaging the interest of society.

Among the events of last week was the bridge affair with Mrs. C. R. Godfrey the hostess. Following the games of bridge, beautiful towels were presented to Miss Burk.

Mrs. Leonard Rowland and Mrs. W. P. Stotts assisted the hostess during the tea hour when additional guests arrived for refreshments.

The luncheon-bridge, arranged by Mrs. H. C. Bridger, was one of the loveliest compliments arranged for Miss Burk.

The bridal theme was portrayed in the unique table decor. A miniature bride and bridegroom in full wedding regalia stood at one end of the table, and at the other end two bridesmaids. The central note was a plaque of pink Columbia roses. Wedding ring place cards marked each cover.

Following the serving of luncheon, bridge was enjoyed in the flower-banked reception suite. Gifts for high scores were presented to Mrs. Lucian Landry and Miss Loriane Blanks. Miss Burk received a handsome piece of Spode china in the pattern selected for her wedding china.

Mrs. J. E. Kersh Guest Of Honor

Mrs. J. E. Kersh, worthy matron of the Louise McGuire chapter, O. E. S., was the guest of honor at a beautifully appointed dinner party given Wednesday evening in the Crystal ballroom of the Virginia hotel.

Centering the table was an artistic star, fashioned of chrysanthemums in the Eastern Star colors. Surrounding the centerpiece were glowing white tapers in silver holders. Place cards, artistically designed with silver stars, marked the places of the guests.

During the dinner hour, Mrs. Kersh was presented with a set of silver coffee spoons as a token of the members' appreciation for her loyalty and devotion to the order.

An address of welcome was given by Mrs. Jessie Thompson, in which she paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Kersh. The response was given by Mrs. Lavera Swanson. A most enjoyable vocal selection was rendered by Mrs. Thompson, who sang Carrie Jacobs Bond's "The Perfect Day."

Dinner guests on this occasion were Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. Blanche Colvin, Mrs. Annie May Gattis, Mrs. Minnie Fisher, Mrs. Mary Perhamus, Mrs. Minnie Gill, Mrs. Hermia Bell, Mrs. B. Mulhern, Mrs. Margie Hartman, Mrs. Calva Goins, Mrs. Willie Possman, Mrs. Lovie Gregory, Mrs. Lovera Swanson, Dr. A. E. Fisher and Dr. D. A. Strickland.

Celebrates Fifth Wedding Anniversary

Mrs. Thomas Leos gathered a few intimate friends together during the coffee hour at her home on Gordon avenue in celebration of her fifth wedding anniversary.

The table in the dining room was florally adorned with pink chrysanthemums encircled with pine cones. The central decor was a handsome wedding cake embossed in the colors of late autumn. Green tapers burned in crystal candlesticks grouped at the four corners.

Mrs. Chris Terzolas poured coffee and Miss Olive Brazzeal, Miss Lula Slavant, Koula Pappas, and Mrs. J. Lekeiko assisted in serving the delicious refreshments.

Paying their respects to the hostess were Mrs. T. Jonson, Mrs. E. Arnold, Mrs. G. Athas, Mrs. T. Miller, Mrs. A. Poulos, Mrs. Harry Stein, Mrs. A. Kanelos, Mrs. Little John, Mrs. N. Booras, Mrs. L. May, Mrs. C. Terzolas, Mrs. J. Legieko, Mrs. J. Gatzoulas, Mrs. C. Slavant, Mrs. J. Kocotos, Misses Hazel and Myrtle Cox, Evelyn Booras, Hellen H. Stein and Mary Poulos.

"Paradise," the historical novel of the year by Esther Forbes, was reviewed in interesting manner by Mrs. David Garrett at the regular November meeting of the Study club in the home of Mrs. Carl McHenry.

During the social hour Mrs. McHenry served delicious refreshments to: Mmes. James Drew, D. X. Ellett, E. K. Flournoy, Neil McHenry, Alymer Montgomery, Henry Montgomery, Alfred Reid, David Garrett, H. H. Land, Miss Carrie Dee Drew.

For Your Holiday Table

You'll find in our gift department complete stocks of fine sterling silver for the holidays. You could select no gift that would be more appreciated than STERLING, the gift everlasting.

A Welcome Gift! Sterling Styled by Gorham

The first price on a product is not of first importance. The quality of the product and the quality of the service given with it are what really matter.

Beside authenticity of design, perfect finish and balance, famous Gorham patterns can be added to even 25 or 50 years from now. Yet Gorham costs no more than ordinary sterling.

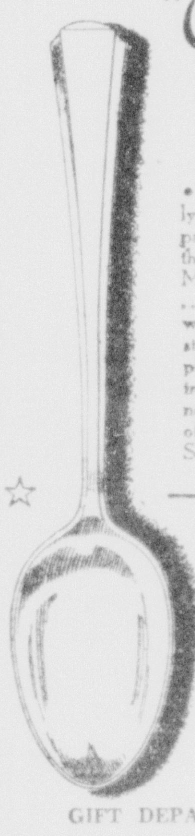
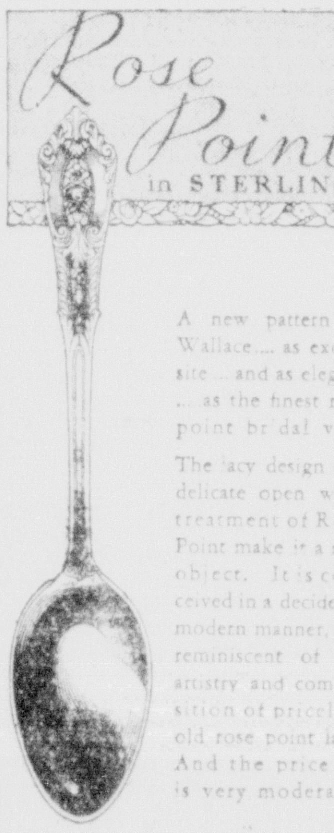
"Governor's Lady"

This breath-takingly beautiful new silver pattern by Gorham is the choice of charming Mrs. Martin L. Davey . . . and the Governors' wives of four other states! Excitingly simple, proportioned with inspired craft, "Governor's Lady" is the talk of the silver world! See this sterling today!

AS SHOWN IN OUR GIFT DEPARTMENT STREET FLOOR





Rose Point in STERLING..

A new pattern by Wallace.... as exquisite ... and as elegant .... as the finest rose point bridal veil.

The lacy design and delicate open work treatment of Rose Point make it a rich object. It is conceived in a decidedly modern manner, but reminiscent of the artistry and composition of priceless old rose point lace. And the price .... is very moderate.

Sir Christopher

The genius of the High Renaissance in England found its foremost medium of expression in the work of Sir Christopher Wren and Grinling Gibbons. The majesty of the creations of these two masters serves as the inspiration for this magnificent new sterling silver pattern now presented by . . . WALLACE SILVERSMITHS. Sir Christopher possesses outstanding style distinction . . . massive but graceful proportions; rich, handsome carving. It is well named, both in tradition and inspiration . . . a design of the ages and of the age.

MODERN CLASSIC

Modern . . . yes, completely so . . . yet classic in the simplicity and perfect proportion that assure survival through generations of changing taste. Created by Robert E. Locher, master of contemporary design. May we show you how truly exquisite it is?

Weddings Continue To Claim Interest Of Society In This Section Of State

Mauriece Hart And Earl Duncan Marry

Miss Vivian Shipp Becomes Bride Of Neal Long; Miss Johnson Weds Mr. Edwards

Weddings and pre-nuptial affairs continue to intrigue society. Of prominence this month was the wedding of Miss Mauriece Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hart of West Monroe, and Mr. Earl Duncan, son of Mrs. Olive Duncan of Pineville, at the West Monroe Methodist church, Sunday, November 14, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The ceremony, characterized by simplicity, was performed by Rev. Martin Hebert in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

Cathedral tapers gleamed on the altar and in the flower-banked background of the church. Baskets, overflowing with white chrysanthemums, formed an aisle down which the bride and bridegroom walked to the altar.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Miss Maida McClendon while the guests were being seated. Mrs. F. C. McConnell sang in lovely voice "I Love You Truly."

The bride, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a distinctive gown of king's blue velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses and valley lilies. For something old she wore a handsome gold antique locket.

The bride's sister, Miss Colene Hart, served as maid. She wore a beautiful brown velvet model and carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. C. J. Baragona served as best man and Messrs. R. G. Hart, Jr., and Walter B. Mann served as ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the handsome wedding gifts were on display.

The cutting of the wedding cake centering the beautifully appointed coffee table was a charming ceremony performed by the bride. Later she changed her wedding gown for a smart aquamarine wool tailleur with black accessories and left with Mr. Duncan on a honeymoon.

Claiming the interest of friends was the marriage of Miss Vivian Shipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Shipp, of Bosco, and Mr. Neal Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Long, at the church of Bosco, with the pastor, Rev. Paul Omen, officiating.

Yellow chrysanthemums banked the altar and the chancel rail entwined with English ivy. Marie Antoinette baskets, overflowing with yellow chrysanthemums, formed an aisle, down which the bride and her maids walked to the altar.

Miss Alice Elise McQuisten and Miss Margaret Calloway, friends of the bride since childhood, served as maids. They wore black velvet tailleurs with velvet turbans and flaring veils. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a distinctive model of navy blue with all accessories of blue. She carried a bridal bouquet of superb white chrysanthemums tied with lengths of ivory satin ribbon.

Messrs. Garland and Warren Shipp were groomsmen.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Long left for the southern part of the state for a honeymoon.

Upon their return they will be at home at the plantation home of Mr. Long's parents until the completion of their own home nearby.

The marriage of Miss Jane Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Johnson, and Mr. Ward Edwards, of Vicksburg, was solemnized Monday, November 15, at 5:15 in the afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at Tendal. Rev. C. K. Smith of the Methodist church of Tallulah, officiated. Immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony, which took place in the spacious living room before an improvised altar. The mantel above the fireplace was banked with glowing yellow chrysanthemums imbedded in English ivy and flanked by tall candelabra supporting white cathedral candles. After the ceremony the happy couple left for a two weeks' visit to North Carolina. On their return they will make their home in Vicksburg, where Mr. Edwards is engaged as a golf instructor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards have a wide circle of friends in this city.

Miss Cooksey Will Wed Clinton Miller

Of interest to friends in this section of the south is the following announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Cooksey of Clarks announce the engagement of their daughter
Virginia
to
Mr. Clinton Miller of Olla
the son of Mr. and Mrs R. D. Miller
of Moss Point, Miss.

The wedding will be celebrated on December 23 at the Baptist church in Clarks.

Miss Cooksey was graduated from the music school of Dodd college, Shreveport. Later she graduated from the music school of Louisiana State university. In each school she was given leading vocal parts in the school operas and in several other productions. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority. For the past year Miss Cooksey has been a member of the Clarks High school faculty. Her father, H. O. Cooksey, is general superintendent of the Louisiana Central Lumber company.

Mr. Miller attended Alabama Polytechnic institute, Auburn, Ala., where he was an outstanding football player, and became a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He was later graduated from Louisiana college, Pineville. For the past two years Mr. Miller has been football coach for the Olla High school.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home in Clarks.

Review Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Walter Rhodes brought a message from the Louisiana Federated Women's convention, which met in Alexandria, to members of the Review club at their regular meeting last week. The club was happy to know that the fifth district, of which Mrs. A. D. Tisdale is president, won second place among the eight districts in Louisiana for work done by the clubs during the past club year.

Mrs. Reese Major, Sr., ably reviewed "The Thinking Reed," by Rebecca West. The novel is called "Thinking Reed" because man is a reed but yet he thinks. This novel deals with the sleek Europeans who appear at Le Touquet or St. Moritz for the correct season. The setting is post-war instead of pre-war.

"The Thinking Reed," instead of attempting a panorama, centers in the character of Isabel; all the events and other people of the novel are seen through her eyes. This gives it not only unity, but an especial interest, since Miss West penetrates very subtly into this sensitive and complex personality, and has some wise and witty things to say about her relations to her world. Especially delicate in understanding is her portrayal of Isabel's developing love for Marc.

Miss Beryl Banks Weds Lloyd Moake

Miss Beryl Banks and Mr. Lloyd Moake were married Tuesday evening, November 16, at the Methodist church in Grayson, in the presence of intimate friends. Rev. F. L. Hearne, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Moake is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Banks of Clarks. She was graduated from the Clarks High school in 1936.

Mr. Moake is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Moake of DeBerry, Tex. He is associated with the Louisiana Central Lumber company in Clarks, where he and Mrs. Moake will make their home.

Chocolate turkeys chased each other up and down the tea table in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Guerriero, where their beautiful little daughter, Marion Louise, entertained her young friends with a Thanksgiving party in commemoration of her fourth birthday anniversary.

The cake, a luscious confection, was in the form of a huge turkey gobbler, dripping with chocolate icing. The little cakes passed among the guests were also symbolic of Thanksgiving.

Games were played throughout the afternoon and were enjoyed by the celebrant and Joan Snelling, Kate DeLarot, Dickie Hodges, Stanley Hodges, Ann Shafto, Ann Allen, Charlene Kaplan, Mary Katherine Guerriero, Mary Guerriero, Denny Hemphill, John Bivens, Sam Brothers, Pepper Shlenker, Betty Jo Shlenker, Betsy Braswell, Patricia Guerriero, Carol Clark and Daniel Bivens.

Miss Joyce Feinstein, student at L. S. U., will arrive home on Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with her mother, Mrs. H. J. Feinstein.

Mrs. W. F. Cummings and her guest, Mrs. Minnie Turrish, of Duluth, Minn., and Mrs. Charles McCord will return today from a visit of several days in New Orleans.

Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Stringer of Detroit, Mich., former residents of this city, announce the arrival of a son November 19. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stringer, 309 Pershing avenue, are the paternal grandparents.

Irene — goes a-Shopping

Being a chronicle of the things she saw and the things she bought on a shopping tour with the merchants of the Twin Cities yesterday.

AT MRS. TEW'S KITCHEN

I have such good news for you today from MRS. TEW'S KITCHEN . . . located 705 Louisville avenue. Phone 105. Now I especially want you to remember the name, address and phone number . . . because it will come in so handy for you . . . when you know what Mrs. Tew can do for you. . . . Mrs. Tew is a first class caterer . . . being gifted with the art of cooking . . . not only well seaseasoned, well cooked dishes but beautifully arranged. Why, she is really making a name for herself in this line especially among those who are particular about foods . . . Mrs. Tew's home cooked products go to someone's party every day and night. Some of the good things she cooks are: Crystallized fruit cakes . . . in all sizes, wrapped in attractive packages; all sorts of meats . . . famous French recipes from the old south are used exclusively. . . . Unusual sandwiches in various shapes and colors . . . hors d'oeuvres, canapes, aperitifs, gateaux (small cakes), plain cakes, birthday cakes, meats, fowl and fish. Mrs. Tew only operates on "special orders" . . . so before you make your plans . . . call Mrs. Tew first . . . she can help you plan your menu for any kind of luncheon. Here is a tip . . . give Mrs. Tew's specialties for Christmas gifts . . . it's the smart thing to do.

Remember when you were a little girl, how your mother used to remind you there was "a place for everything and everything in its place"? Well, I'm sure the one who created the small Dorothy Gray cosmetic kit I found yesterday at Walgreen's was inspired by that old adage and her early training. I say "her" advisedly because I know no man could devise so complete a gadget for women. Kit has many separate compartments and will hold all necessities such as compact, lipstick, comb, mirror, mascara, tissues, keys, pencil, cards and hanky. It's really a grand kit and as attractive as it is utilitarian, being completely equipped with full line of her cosmetics. If you want to eliminate the "hunt and find" system and simplify the shift from one purse to another here's the way to do it. Gee! What a dandy Christmas gift!

AT GRIFFIN'S

Monroe merchants are making great plans now for thrifty shoppers for the month of December . . . but GRIFFIN'S STUDIO has a most important plan . . . and this to have those Christmas photographs made before the usual Christmas rush. In order to encourage and urge you to accept this "tip" they have a most attractive reduction on gift photographs until November 25th . . . Only 3 days to take advantage of it and I miss my guess if you don't do just this thing. I saw the new arrivals of picture frames there this week. It would be impossible to explain to you their beauty and practicability. One was almost like a rare old jewel . . . another a double "twin outfit" of solid gold and in a fine leather case enterlined with rich velvet. A small package . . . but oh! . . . how precious! Phone 6 the first thing Monday . . . While your permanent wave is new and your outfit is at its best . . . is the time to have your photographs made.

AT MONROE STEAM LAUNDRY

YOUR SUEDE JACKET has a definite place in your wardrobe days like we have had this past week . . . Which is a reminder that more cold days are ahead and those of you who have not remembered to have your suede garments cleaned, I must remind you of the Monroe Steam Laundry . . . I saw several this week that looked like brand new jackets . . . but were at least three seasons old. The Monroe Steam Laundry has a special cleaning method for such materials and knows the secret of caring for fine fabrics. Gather up your gloves, jackets and other garments for both you and hubby and phone 103 . . . the Monroe Steam Laundry representative will be on his way to your home in just no time at all.

AT SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

Is your house in order for the holidays? . . . It's a smart housewife who will see to it that the walls are attractive and clean as well as the floors. Sherwin-Williams is the place to take your troubles, sister . . . and before you know what it is all about . . . you will be living in a brand spanking new interior . . . at a cost much lower than you ever dreamed of. Sherwin-Williams is showing an attractive kitchen decoration this week in their window which I am sure you will be delighted with. Drop by and see it . . . Why don't you? . . . Anyway . . . Monday is a good day to make this visit to Sherwin-Williams and secure booklets giving you ideas in decorating . . . See the new wallpaper by Imperial.

AT CITY BAKERY

About the most popular name in town now is MEL-O-TOAST, and no wonder . . . It's the "Toast of America." Just bite into its tender goodness . . . its nut-like rich flavor will make an instant hit with the whole family. Mel-O-Toast is for sale at all good grocery stores and is fresh even to the last slice . . . Kids really will go for it after school . . . spread it with jam and butter and send them on their way to play . . . Try a leaf . . . Taste the difference.

GIRLS . . . your Christmas gift candies have already been reserved for you FREE . . . at DURRETT'S . . . Now isn't that nice? . . . A full 5-pound box . . . worth $5.00, and made by that famous candy manufacturer "Huyler's." Here is the deal . . . With every Lane Cedar Chest sold a box of this fine candy will be given absolutely FREE and the nice part of this whole deal is that you can't give a girl anything she will like as well as a LANE cedar chest. AT PARAMOUNT

Thursday is THANKSGIVING and boy, O Boy! what a bunch of fun some of us have planned . . . Especially for the dances around town . . . but at midnight . . . here is the place to go . . . The Paramount theater is presenting a midnight show, "The Awful Truth" . . . starring Irene Dunne and Cary Grant . . . It's the funniest . . . sunniest . . . honeyest comedy of 1937. I have read that it is rated as "the best picture of the year." . . . Another attraction I almost forgot to tell you about and one in which you will be most interested . . . is the Paramount is giving away FREE . . . real live turkeys and baskets of good Thanksgiving food. Thanksgiving day, the program is "Second Honeymoon," featuring Tyrone Power and Loretta Young . . . We have lots to be thankful for when it comes to good entertainment . . . The Paramount can be depended on for the best always.

AT JITNEY JUNGLE

Here is a treat, folks . . . one you have never tasted in Monroe before . . . Almond Cream Pie . . . and wait until I tell you how it's made . . . Chopped almonds mixed with French cream and filled into a shell which is made from angel food cake. The inside of a fresh angel food cake is shelled out to the depth of a pie and this rich delicious almond mixture is filled in. They are always fresh at Jitney Jungle No. 10, corner North Fourth and Stubbs and they sell for only 23c . . . The family will love this for a dessert. Another feature at Jitney Jungle's this week is Home Made Pumpkin and Mince Meat Pies at 23c . . . You can't possibly make them yourself for this price . . . and they are so good you will wonder why you ever worried yourself making them in the first place. Your fruit cake problem is in the kitchen of Jitney Jungle being worked out to perfection . . . SEEING is BELIEVING . . . and I mean by this that slices of this cake are displayed over electric light so that it reveals every ingredient. . . . Give them your Christmas order.

Weddings Continue To Claim Interest Of Society In This Section Of State

Miss Vivian Shipp Becomes Bride Of Neal Long; Miss Johnson Weds Mr. Edwards

Weddings and pre-nuptial affairs continue to intrigue society. Of prominence this month was the wedding of Miss Mauriece Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hart of West Monroe, and Mr. Earl Duncan, son of Mrs. Olive Duncan of Pineville, at the West Monroe Methodist church, Sunday, November 14, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The ceremony, characterized by simplicity, was performed by Rev. Martin Hebert in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

Cathedral tapers gleamed on the altar and in the flower-banked background of the church. Baskets, overflowing with white chrysanthemums, formed an aisle down which the bride and bridegroom walked to the altar.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Miss Maida McClendon while the guests were being seated. Mrs. F. C. McConnell sang in lovely voice "I Love You Truly."

The bride, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a distinctive gown of king's blue velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses and valley lilies. For something old she wore a handsome gold antique locket.

The bride's sister, Miss Colene Hart, served as maid. She wore a beautiful brown velvet model and carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. C. J. Baragona served as best man and Messrs. R. G. Hart, Jr., and Walter B. Mann served as ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the handsome wedding gifts were on display.

The cutting of the wedding cake centering the beautifully appointed coffee table was a charming ceremony performed by the bride. Later she changed her wedding gown for a smart aquamarine wool tailleur with black accessories and left with Mr. Duncan on a honeymoon.

Claiming the interest of friends was the marriage of Miss Vivian Shipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Shipp, of Bosco, and Mr. Neal Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Long, at the church of Bosco, with the pastor, Rev. Paul Omen, officiating.

Yellow chrysanthemums banked the altar and the chancel rail entwined with English ivy. Marie Antoinette baskets, overflowing with yellow chrysanthemums, formed an aisle, down which the bride and her maids walked to the altar.

Miss Alice Elise McQuisten and Miss Margaret Calloway, friends of the bride since childhood, served as maids. They wore black velvet tailleurs with velvet turbans and flaring veils. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a distinctive model of navy blue with all accessories of blue. She carried a bridal bouquet of superb white chrysanthemums tied with lengths of ivory satin ribbon.

Messrs. Garland and Warren Shipp were groomsmen.

Upon their return they will be at home at the plantation home of Mr. Long's parents until the completion of their own home nearby.

The marriage of Miss Jane Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Johnson, and Mr. Ward Edwards, of Vicksburg, was solemnized Monday, November 15, at 5:15 in the afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at Tendal. Rev. C. K. Smith of the Methodist church of Tallulah, officiated. Immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony, which took place in the spacious living room before an improvised altar. The mantel above the fireplace was banked with glowing yellow chrysanthemums imbedded in English ivy and flanked by tall candelabra supporting white cathedral candles. After the ceremony the happy couple left for a two weeks' visit to North Carolina. On their return they will make their home in Vicksburg, where Mr. Edwards is engaged as a golf instructor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards have a wide circle of friends in this city.

Miss Cooksey Will Wed Clinton Miller

Of interest to friends in this section of the south is the following announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Cooksey of Clarks announce the engagement of their daughter
Virginia
to
Mr. Clinton Miller of Olla
the son of Mr. and Mrs R. D. Miller
of Moss Point, Miss.

The wedding will be celebrated on December 23 at the Baptist church in Clarks.

Miss Cooksey was graduated from the music school of Dodd college, Shreveport. Later she graduated from the music school of Louisiana State university. In each school she was given leading vocal parts in the school operas and in several other productions. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority. For the past year Miss Cooksey has been a member of the Clarks High school faculty. Her father, H. O. Cooksey, is general superintendent of the Louisiana Central Lumber company.

Mr. Miller attended Alabama Polytechnic institute, Auburn, Ala., where he was an outstanding football player, and became a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He was later graduated from Louisiana college, Pineville. For the past two years Mr. Miller has been football coach for the Olla High school.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home in Clarks.

Review Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Walter Rhodes brought a message from the Louisiana Federated Women's convention, which met in Alexandria, to members of the Review club at their regular meeting last week. The club was happy to know that the fifth district, of which Mrs. A. D. Tisdale is president, won second place among the eight districts in Louisiana for work done by the clubs during the past club year.

Mrs. Reese Major, Sr., ably reviewed "The Thinking Reed," by Rebecca West. The novel is called "Thinking Reed" because man is a reed but yet he thinks. This novel deals with the sleek Europeans who appear at Le Touquet or St. Moritz for the correct season. The setting is post-war instead of pre-war.

"The Thinking Reed," instead of attempting a panorama, centers in the character of Isabel; all the events and other people of the novel are seen through her eyes. This gives it not only unity, but an especial interest, since Miss West penetrates very subtly into this sensitive and complex personality, and has some wise and witty things to say about her relations to her world. Especially delicate in understanding is her portrayal of Isabel's developing love for Marc.

Miss Beryl Banks Weds Lloyd Moake

Miss Beryl Banks and Mr. Lloyd Moake were married Tuesday evening, November 16, at the Methodist church in Grayson, in the presence of intimate friends. Rev. F. L. Hearne, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Moake is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Banks of Clarks. She was graduated from the Clarks High school in 1936.

Mr. Moake is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Moake of DeBerry, Tex. He is associated with the Louisiana Central Lumber company in Clarks, where he and Mrs. Moake will make their home.

Chocolate turkeys chased each other up and down the tea table in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Guerriero, where their beautiful little daughter, Marion Louise, entertained her young friends with a Thanksgiving party in commemoration of her fourth birthday anniversary.

The cake, a luscious confection, was in the form of a huge turkey gobbler, dripping with chocolate icing. The little cakes passed among the guests were also symbolic of Thanksgiving.

Games were played throughout the afternoon and were enjoyed by the celebrant and Joan Snelling, Kate DeLarot, Dickie Hodges, Stanley Hodges, Ann Shafto, Ann Allen, Charlene Kaplan, Mary Katherine Guerriero, Mary Guerriero, Denny Hemphill, John Bivens, Sam Brothers, Pepper Shlenker, Betty Jo Shlenker, Betsy Braswell, Patricia Guerriero, Carol Clark and Daniel Bivens.

Miss Joyce Feinstein, student at L. S. U., will arrive home on Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with her mother, Mrs. H. J. Feinstein.

Mrs. W. F. Cummings and her guest, Mrs. Minnie Turrish, of Duluth, Minn., and Mrs. Charles McCord will return today from a visit of several days in New Orleans.

Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Stringer of Detroit, Mich., former residents of this city, announce the arrival of a son November 19. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stringer, 309 Pershing avenue, are the paternal grandparents.

Irene — goes a-Shopping

Being a chronicle of the things she saw and the things she bought on a shopping tour with the merchants of the Twin Cities yesterday.

AT MRS. TEW'S KITCHEN

I have such good news for you today from MRS. TEW'S KITCHEN . . . located 705 Louisville avenue, Phone 105. Now I especially want you to remember the name, address and phone number . . . because it will come in so handy for you . . . when you know what Mrs. Tew can do for you. . . . Mrs. Tew is a first class caterer . . . being gifted with the art of cooking . . . not only well seaseasoned, well cooked dishes but beautifully arranged. Why, she is really making a name for herself in this line especially among those who are particular about foods . . . Mrs. Tew's home cooked products go to someone's party every day and night. Some of the good things she cooks are: Crystallized fruit cakes . . . in all sizes, wrapped in attractive packages; all sorts of meats . . . famous French recipes from the old south are used exclusively. . . . Unusual sandwiches in various shapes and colors . . . hors d'oeuvres, canapes, aperitifs, gateaux (small cakes), plain cakes, birthday cakes, meats, fowl and fish. Mrs. Tew only operates on "special orders" . . . so before you make your plans . . . call Mrs. Tew first . . . she can help you plan your menu for any kind of luncheon. Here is a tip . . . give Mrs. Tew's specialties for Christmas gifts . . . it's the smart thing to do.

AT WALGREEN'S

Remember when you were a little girl, how your mother used to remind you there was "a place for everything and everything in its place"? Well, I'm sure the one who created the small Dorothy Gray cosmetic kit I found yesterday at Walgreen's was inspired by that old adage and her early training. I say "her" advisedly because I know no man could devise so complete a gadget for women. Kit has many separate compartments and will hold all necessities such as compact, lipstick, comb, mirror, mascara, tissues, keys, pencil, cards and hanky. It's really a grand kit and as attractive as it is utilitarian, being completely equipped with full line of her cosmetics. If you want to eliminate the "hunt and find" system and simplify the shift from one purse to another here's the way to do it. Gee! What a dandy Christmas gift!

AT GRIFFIN'S

Monroe merchants are making great plans now for thrifty shoppers for the month of December . . . but GRIFFIN'S STUDIO has a most important plan . . . and this to have those Christmas photographs made before the usual Christmas rush. In order to encourage and urge you to accept this "tip" they have a most attractive reduction on gift photographs until November 25th . . . Only 3 days to take advantage of it and I miss my guess if you don't do just this thing. I saw the new arrivals of picture frames there this week. It would be impossible to explain to you their beauty and practicability. One was almost like a rare old jewel . . . another a double "twin outfit" of solid gold and in a fine leather case enterlined with rich velvet. A small package . . . but oh! . . . how precious! Phone 6 the first thing Monday . . . While your permanent wave is new and your outfit is at its best . . . is the time to have your photographs made.

AT MONROE STEAM LAUNDRY

YOUR SUEDE JACKET has a definite place in your wardrobe days like we have had this past week . . . Which is a reminder that more cold days are ahead and those of you who have not remembered to have your suede garments cleaned, I must remind you of the Monroe Steam Laundry . . . I saw several this week that looked like brand new jackets . . . but were at least three seasons old. The Monroe Steam Laundry has a special cleaning method for such materials and knows the secret of caring for fine fabrics. Gather up your gloves, jackets and other garments for both you and hubby and phone 103 . . . the Monroe Steam Laundry representative will be on his way to your home in just no time at all.

AT SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

Is your house in order for the holidays? . . . It's a smart housewife who will see to it that the walls are attractive and clean as well as the floors. Sherwin-Williams is the place to take your troubles, sister . . . and before you know what it is all about . . . you will be living in a brand spanking new interior . . . at a cost much lower than you ever dreamed of. Sherwin-Williams is showing an attractive kitchen decoration this week in their window which I am sure you will be delighted with. Drop by and see it . . . Why don't you? . . . Anyway . . . Monday is a good day to make this visit to Sherwin-Williams and secure booklets giving you ideas in decorating . . . See the new wallpaper by Imperial.

AT CITY BAKERY

About the most popular name in town now is MEL-O-TOAST, and no wonder . . . It's the "Toast of America." Just bite into its tender goodness . . . its nut-like rich flavor will make an instant hit with the whole family. Mel-O-Toast is for sale at all good grocery stores and is fresh even to the last slice . . . Kids really will go for it after school . . . spread it with jam and butter and send them on their way to play . . . Try a loaf . . . Taste the difference.

AT DURRETT'S

GIRLS . . . your Christmas gift candies have already been reserved for you FREE . . . at DURRETT'S . . . Now isn't that nice? . . . A full 5-pound box . . . worth $5.00, and made by that famous candy manufacturer "Huyler's." Here is the deal . . . With every Lane Cedar Chest sold a box of this fine candy will be given absolutely FREE and the nice part of this whole deal is that you can't give a girl anything she will like as well as a LANE cedar chest. So many exclusive features . . . Priced $19.95 up . . . Pay a small payment down . . . Take the chest and 5-pound box of Huyler's candy and be on your way . . . Or, they will hold both until you are ready for them to be delivered . . . Really, two gifts for the price of one, isn't it? . . . Buy now and pay next year . . . It's a marvelous gift offer! See the window!

AT PARAMOUNT

Thursday is THANKSGIVING and boy, O Boy! what a bunch of fun some of us have planned . . . Especially for the dances around town . . . but at midnight . . . here is the place to go . . . The Paramount theater is presenting a midnight show, "The Awful Truth" . . . starring Irene Dunne and Cary Grant . . . It's the funniest . . . sunniest . . . honeyest comedy of 1937. I have read that it is rated as "the best picture of the year." . . . Another attraction I almost forgot to tell you about and one in which you will be most interested . . . is the Paramount is giving away FREE . . . real live turkeys and baskets of good Thanksgiving food. Thanksgiving day, the program is "Second Honeymoon," featuring Tyrone Power and Loretta Young . . . We have lots to be thankful for when it comes to good entertainment . . . The Paramount can be depended on for the best always.

AT JITNEY JUNGLE

Here is a treat, folks . . . one you have never tasted in Monroe before . . . Almond Cream Pie . . . and wait until I tell you how it's made . . . Chopped almonds mixed with French cream and filled into a shell which is made from angel food cake. The inside of a fresh angel food cake is shelled out to the depth of a pie and this rich delicious almond mixture is filled in. They are always fresh at Jitney Jungle No. 10, corner North Fourth and Stubbs and they sell for only 23c . . . The family will love this for a dessert. Another feature at Jitney Jungle's this week is Home-Made Pumpkin and Mince Meat Pies at 23c . . . You can't possibly make them yourself for this price . . . and they are so good you will wonder why you ever worried yourself making them in the first place. Your fruit cake problem is in the kitchen of Jitney Jungle being worked out to perfection . . . SEEING is BELIEVING . . . and I mean by this that slices of this cake are displayed over electric light so that it reveals every ingredient. . . . Give them your Christmas order.

Coming Week To Include Many Charming Entertainments For Brides-To-Be

Miss Paine, Fiance To Be Feted Tonight

Many Other Pre-Nuptial Events Planned; Calendar Full For Miss Feazel

November is moving forward on a wave of great activity with brides-to-be claiming the spotlight of social attention.

Miss Polly Paine and her fiance, Mr. James Ryder, will be feted during the coming week with a dinner party, tonight in the private Blue room of the Frances hotel with Mr. D. M. Sutherland as host, paving the way for other pre-nuptial events.

Mrs. M. C. McDonald's luncheon at the Frances hotel will be an artistic event of Tuesday. Wednesday's courtesy will be a dinner party in the private dining room of the Frances hotel with Miss Blanche Walters, Mrs. E. Shaver and Miss Juanita Hogge the hostesses.

Miss Paine, wearing a smart Hunter's green wool tailleur with mole furs, was an attractive figure in Mrs. T. R. Moore's home last week when she entertained at luncheon.

The luncheon table had for central decor a plaque of yellow rose Talisman roses and maiden hair fern fronds.

A three-course luncheon was served. The wedding of Miss Paine and Mr. Ryder will take place in New Orleans on December 3.

Coming Week To Include Many Charming Entertainments For Brides-To-Be

Miss Paine, Fiance To Be Feted Tonight

Many Other Pre-Nuptial Events Planned; Calendar Full For Miss Feazel

November is moving forward on a wave of great activity with brides-to-be claiming the spotlight of social attention.

Miss Polly Paine and her fiance, Mr. James Ryder, will be feted during the coming week with a dinner party, tonight in the private Blue room of the Frances hotel with Mr. D. M. Sutherland as host, paving the way for other pre-nuptial events.

Mrs. M. C. McDonald's luncheon at the Frances hotel will be an artistic event of Tuesday. Wednesday's courtesy will be a dinner party in the private dining room of the Frances hotel with Miss Blanche Walters, Mrs. E. Shaver and Miss Juanita Hogge the hostesses.

Miss Paine, wearing a smart Hunter's green wool tailleur with mole furs, was an attractive figure in Mrs. T. R. Moore's home last week when she entertained at luncheon.

The luncheon table had for central decor a plaque of yellow rose Talisman roses and maiden hair fern fronds.

A three-course luncheon was served.

The wedding of Miss Paine and Mr. Ryder will take place in New Orleans on December 3.

State P.-T. A. Legislative Chairman Urges Twelve-Year Plan For Schools

Proposed Legislative Enactments Discussed

Mrs. C. C. Hathaway Issues Statement Which Also Recommends Standard Drivers Law

Mrs. C. C. Hathaway of Shreveport, state chairman of legislation of the Louisiana P.-T. A. calls the attention of all Fifth District Parent-Teacher association members to important items of legislation which have to do with child welfare.

Mrs. Hathaway says: "Consider our state legislative program for a few minutes.

"First, the child labor amendment demands our attention. Twenty-seven states have endorsed it. Your chairman suggests that the various units pass resolutions expressing their approval of the endorsement. Legislators from each district must be contacted.

"Second, Louisiana needs a standard drivers' license law. Only 10 states lack this safety provision. Again, all P.-T. A. units must express their approval and encourage the passage of such a law. Remember that legislators control the making of our laws.

"Third, the 12-year school plan must be established. After the addition of the eighth grade, the 8-4, 6-3-3, 6-6, or whatever plan is suitable will naturally follow. The 8-4 plan is suitable for small schools and the 6-3-3, 6-6, etc., are suitable for larger schools. Only seven states, Virginia, Maryland, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana and Texas, are using the 11-year plan at the present time.

"The advantages of a 12-year school plan are very evident. For instance, more time will be available for the study of the elementary subjects and the cultural subjects, music, art, etc. Children upon entering high school will be more mature by one year, and children upon leaving high school will be more mature by one year.

"Probably the most prominent objection to the 11-year school plan is that high school graduates are shifted on society at too early an age, being too young for employment and too young to enter college.

"How are we going to bring about the establishment of this 12-year plan? First, the people of Louisiana must be educated to a knowledge of the meaning and necessity of the 12-year plan. Every member in our Parent-Teacher association must consider himself or herself as a member of the legislative committee for that purpose. We must be 17,000 strong. Statistics and information must be distributed through you as an agency."

Dr. Fadra Holmes Wilson To Address P.-T. A.

Dr. Fadra Holmes Wilson, associate professor of education at Louisiana State university, will be the speaker before the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher association Monday afternoon, November 29. Dr. Wilson will discuss the new curriculum which is being introduced into the schools of Louisiana. The address is expected to be one of the most important that has been given this year in acquainting teachers and parents with the principles of the new program.

Dr. Wilson is well known to the Monroe public. She has appeared before many audiences in the city in the past and has been a conspicuous figure on the program of important educational gatherings. She is a brilliant speaker and has a wide knowledge on the subject of the new curriculum.

She is possessed of a charming personality and her home in Baton Rouge is a center for the gathering of cultural celebrities. At the annual convention of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, held in Monroe more than two years ago, Dr. Wilson was given a tremendous ovation following an eloquent address on the subject, "The Way Home." She also appeared on the program of the Louisiana teachers convention here last year and spoke before the recent general session of the state P.-T. A. convention in Shreveport.

Dr. Wilson is a graduate of Louisiana schools of learning and received her doctor's degree from Columbia university, New York.

Welfare Chairman Reports Activities

Mrs. Jack Castle, chairman of the welfare committee of the Twin Cities P.-T. A. council, has submitted a report concerning aid given underprivileged children from October 22 to November 18.

Clothing has been furnished, the report stated, to eight children in grammar school, the garments having an estimated value of $23.50; 11 pupils in high schools have received clothing valued at an estimated $25.53. There remains on hand clothing with an estimated value of $21, and $3 worth of clothing has been provided for a rummage sale.

The welfare group has effected arrangements with the Lions club to have a second grade child's eyes examined and provided with glasses.

Three children were given lunches by the association during the month of October, at a total outlay of $6.14. Nine children are now on the list to obtain lunches in the cafeteria without cost to their parents. Three of these are in the high school and six are in the grammar school.

Mrs. Castle stated that the clothing distributed was given to the welfare committee by her friends and not by any charity organization.

Tallulah P.-T. A. Ends Member Drive

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The November meeting of the Tallulah Parent-Teacher association was held in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Fred A. Yarbrough presiding. The membership drive under the leadership of Miss Frances Alexander, chairman, was concluded at the meeting with a 25 per cent increase over any previous membership drive. The senior class, sponsored by Miss Rosalyn Kemp, received a prize offered by the P.-T. A. in the campaign.

In response to a request of the summer round-up committee, the P.-T. A. unit voted to recommend to the school board that no child be admitted to school without diphtheria inoculation, typhoid immunization and smallpox vaccination.

Father John C. Vandegaer, pastor of St. Agnes Catholic church, was the guest speaker and delivered an address on "Character Building," in which he stressed that the responsibility of the physical and spiritual development of the child is the responsibility of the parents. Mrs. R. E. Gilbert read a statement of Mrs. C. C. Hathaway, state legislative chairman of the P.-T. A., regarding the legislative program of the state organization.

Mrs. Tom Bomer's room of the elementary grades and the eleventh grade, sponsored by Miss Rosalyn Kemp, won the monthly awards for the highest percentage of parents present.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
North Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for Sunday, next before Advent, are as follows: Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 o'clock, followed by regular session of the church school at 9:30 a. m. The church school will be opened by the office of morning prayer followed by the regular church school curriculum. A choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist and sermon by the rector at 10:45 o'clock completes the services for the day at Grace church. Evensong and sermon by the rector will be the order for service at St. David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p. m. A memorial altar cross in memory of Miss Polly Balfour will be blessed and placed on the altar at this service. The entire membership of St. David's is asked and expected to be present. Thursday, November 25 is Thanksgiving day. Grace church will keep the day with a choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 9 a. m. The rector will preach an appropriate sermon. The offering on Thanksgiving day is for the children's home in New Orleans. This Sunday in the Christian year is known as "stir up" Sunday, taken from the 1st words of the Collect for the Sunday next before Advent. The Collect is one of animation and wakening. One year is gone through; we are the more ready for another, and we pray for a stirring-up to new efforts for fresh blessings. The Gospel gives us an account of our Blessed Lord's miraculous power to feed the souls and bodies of those who hunger and thirst after righteousness. Appropriately enough for the last Sunday, is the precept which it contains, to gather up the fragments and to let nothing be lost. May we make the most of this admonition! The church is open daily from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks and meditate.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

State P.-T. A. Legislative Chairman Urges Twelve-Year Plan For Schools

Proposed Legislative Enactments Discussed

Mrs. C. C. Hathaway Issues Statement Which Also Recommends Standard Drivers Law

Mrs. C. C. Hathaway of Shreveport, state chairman of legislation of the Louisiana P.-T. A. calls the attention of all Fifth District Parent-Teacher association members to important items of legislation which have to do with child welfare.

Mrs. Hathaway says: "Consider our state legislative program for a few minutes.

"First, the child labor amendment demands our attention. Twenty-seven states have endorsed it. Your chairman suggests that the various units pass resolutions expressing their approval of the endorsement. Legislators from each district must be contacted.

"Second, Louisiana needs a standard drivers' license law. Only 10 states lack this safety provision. Again, all P.-T. A. units must express their approval and encourage the passage of such a law. Remember that legislators control the making of our laws.

"Third, the 12-year school plan must be established. After the addition of the eighth grade, the 8-4, 6-3-3, 6-6, or whatever plan is suitable will naturally follow. The 8-4 plan is suitable for small schools and the 6-3-3, 6-6, etc., are suitable for larger schools. Only seven states, Virginia, Maryland, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana and Texas, are using the 11-year plan at the present time.

"The advantages of a 12-year school plan are very evident. For instance, more time will be available for the study of the elementary subjects and the cultural subjects, music, art, etc. Children upon entering high school will be more mature by one year, and children upon leaving high school will be more mature by one year.

"Probably the most prominent objection to the 11-year school plan is that high school graduates are shifted on society at too early an age, being too young for employment and too young to enter college.

"How are we going to bring about the establishment of this 12-year plan? First, the people of Louisiana must be educated to a knowledge of the meaning and necessity of the 12-year plan. Every member in our Parent-Teacher association must consider himself or herself as a member of the legislative committee for that purpose. We must be 17,000 strong. Statistics and information must be distributed through you as an agency."

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
North Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for Sunday, next before Advent, are as follows: Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 o'clock, followed by regular session of the church school at 9:30 a. m. The church school will be opened by the office of morning prayer followed by the regular church school curriculum. A choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist and sermon by the rector at 10:45 o'clock completes the services for the day at Grace church. Evensong and sermon by the rector will be the order for service at St. David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p. m. A memorial altar cross in memory of Miss Polly Balfour will be blessed and placed on the altar at this service. The entire membership of St. David's is asked and expected to be present. Thursday, November 25 is Thanksgiving day. Grace church will keep the day with a choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 9 a. m. The rector will preach an appropriate sermon. The offering on Thanksgiving day is for the children's home in New Orleans. This Sunday in the Christian year is known as "stir up" Sunday, taken from the 1st words of the Collect for the Sunday next before Advent. The Collect is one of animation and wakening. One year is gone through; we are the more ready for another, and we pray for a stirring-up to new efforts for fresh blessings. The Gospel gives us an account of our Blessed Lord's miraculous power to feed the souls and bodies of those who hunger and thirst after righteousness. Appropriately enough for the last Sunday, is the precept which it contains, to gather up the fragments and to let nothing be lost. May we make the most of this admonition! The church is open daily from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks and meditate.

Romantic Farce Showing Today At Paramount Theater

She's just crazy about him, he's just crazy about her, and her family. . . . "They're Just Crazy!" Ann Sothern and Jack Haley are co-starred in the attraction playing today only at the Paramount theater.

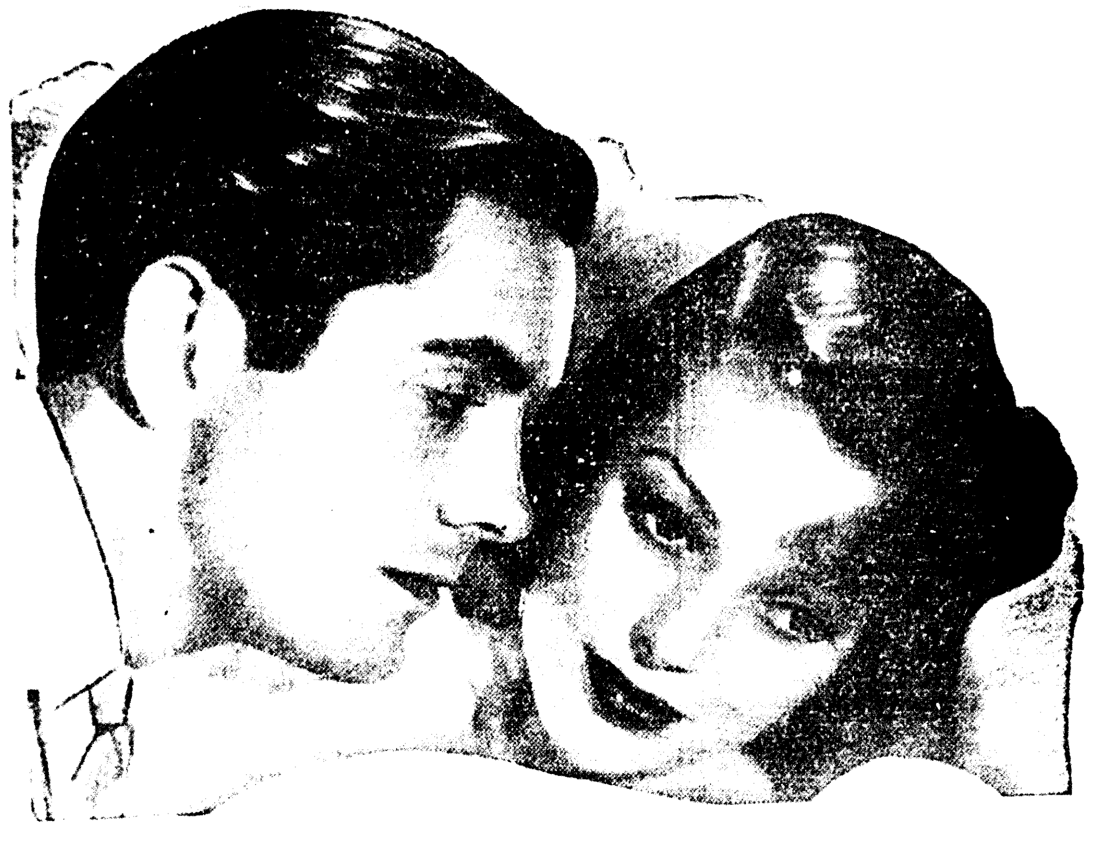
Romance and laughter, those twins of entertainment responsible for many of the top-flight films that come out of Hollywood, Kent Taylor and Nan Grey in "Love in a Bungalow," playing Friday only at the Capitol.

Oh, say, can they sing—and swing! Patricia Ellis, James Melton and Winifred Shaw head the crooning cast of "Melody for Two," a musical battle that will rock the world—with laughter, playing Wednesday only at the Capitol.

Ray Milland and Jean Arthur in a scene from "Easy Living," playing the Capitol theater Tuesday. Ray, the boy [illegible] represents Park avenue while lovely Jean, the girl in the sable, is from Third avenue.

Irene Dunne and Cary Grant in a sample of the mad humor in their first joint venture under the Columbia banner, "The Awful Truth," which plays at the Paramount theater midnight show Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, November 24.

One of the greatest love stories of modern times is dramatically interwoven with desperate adventure and intrigue in the new film "The Prisoner of Zenda." The picture features those incomparable lovers, Ronald Colman and Madeleine Carroll, with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the role of the fighting daredevil, Rupert of Hentzau. The notable supporting cast also includes Mary Astor, C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Massey and David Niven. The producer—David O. Selznick, who gave you "David Copperfield" and "A Star Is Born." "Prisoner of Zenda" plays the Paramount theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.



Acclaimed by increasing numbers of fans with each new picture as the most exciting sweethearts of the screen, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young are co-starred again in "Second Honeymoon," playing Thursday and Friday at the Paramount theater. Already hailed as the merriest, "marry-est" romance of the year, the film is said to be their perfect picture together. Their love is news again, but this time they mean it with all their hearts.

Stellar Cast In 'Danger--- Love At Work'

Ann Sothern, Jack Haley, Mary Boland, Edward Everett Horton Featured

NEW WAYS of loving and newer ways of laughing in the new kind of laugh-hit that is the funniest "commotion-picture" of the year will bring a liberal education in hilarity to the screen of the Paramount theater when "Danger—Love At Work" plays today. Ann Sothern, Jack Haley, Mary Boland and Edward Everett Horton are starred in the daffiest comedy ever produced by the Twentieth Century-Fox merrymakers.

In or out of bedlam no one has ever seen the likes of the frantic romantics and haywire hilarity of this outstanding comedy. In a nutshell (a very fitting place, by the way) this new kind of rib-tickling tale is a simple story (simply devastating) of Girl meets Boy, Boy meets Family, Boy loses Mind! The Girl is Ann Sothern, the daffiest debutante who ever came out—of a trance! The Boy is Jack Haley, the most bewildered Romeo who ever faced a shotgun! The Family is altogether pixilated, with a cuckoo for their crest and a strait-jacket their coat-of-arms! The Mind—well, nobody does, it's all grand fun!

Delirious and de-looney, but, oh, so darned romantic, the screen story by James Edward Grant and Ben Markson despatches poor, sane Jack Haley to the balmy southern plantation of the most pixilated family in Dixie, a happy household run by Mary Boland, a hare-brained dowager who wouldn't recognize an inhibition if she had one. The principal target of her nuptial-making shotgun is Edward Everett Horton, a brain specialist in search of a brain.

Jack has met Ann on the train and when he arrives he is considered the latest in Ann's string of fiances, despite all his protestations that he is a lawyer anxious to have them all sign a document. True, the hapless Jack was a marked man the moment Ann laid eyes on him, but how was he, poor fellow, to know this until too late? Besides, when it was too late, Jack himself was anxious to get Ann to the altar, if only to get away from her family.

Despairing at ever obtaining the signatures of these folks, and afraid of winning the girl of his dreams, Jack departs for New York, only to find Ann hot on his heels and all her daffy relatives following behind. Ann, however, succeeds in getting the valued autographs for her Jack; there remain only those of her two maiden aunts and her uncle Goliath, a millionaire who lives in a cave.

Bing Crosby Film Plays At Capitol

Martha Raye Included In Tuneful New Picture, 'Double Or Nothing'

BING CROSBY and Martha Raye, of "Waikiki Wedding" and "Rhythm on the Range" fame, get together again for another frolic in Paramount's new music and romance comedy, "Double or Nothing," which opens today at the Capitol theater.

The two make music, merriment and millions with a gay abandon that gives this comedy a double dose of what everybody liked best in their first teaming pictures.

It is Bing's smoothest role as troubadour-comedian. Martha springs more tantalizing convolutions than ever convulsed a mirth-seeking audience. Add to these the romantic allure of Mary Carlisle and the comic misery of "gravel-voiced" Andy Devine, not to mention a novelty "Sing Band," a sensational night club show, and one of the most spectacular trick endings that ever came out of Hollywood's sleeve, and you have an idea of one of the most buoyant musical productions of the year.

The fortune-hunters: Bing Crosby, Martha Raye, Andy Devine and William Frawley, get going when a freak will offers a million dollars to the one who can double $5,000 in 30 days. They have to reckon with the not-so-benevolent brother of the will-maker, played by Sam Hinds, who plots to keep the million at home. Hinds uses his daughter, played by Miss Carlisle, as a cat's paw, and, unbeknownst, she picks Bing Crosby as her victim.

Hinds uses phoney stock to entice Frawley to part with his money, and Andy loses his in a hole-in-one golf [illegible] course. Martha Raye, as [illegible] calls in chorus girls to [illegible] and when the fleet comes in [illegible] a sky-rocketing business. This is the cue for the tune [illegible] which sets Martha off on [illegible] tour. A riot squad [illegible] at the million.

Bing Crosby opens a night club and [illegible] the first "Sing Band." It is such a success that he is about to sell [illegible] for $[illegible] when Hinds [illegible] and threatens the [illegible]. Bing [illegible] card with an [illegible] that will probably [illegible] night clubs throughout the country. Mary Carlisle [illegible] just a trifle [illegible].

Romantic Farce Showing Today At Paramount Theater

She's just crazy about him, he's just crazy about her, and her family. . . . "They're Just Crazy!" Ann Sothern and Jack Haley are co-starred in the attraction playing today only at the Paramount theater.

Romance and laughter, those twins of entertainment responsible for many of the top-flight films that come out of Hollywood, Kent Taylor and Nan Grey in "Love in a Bungalow," playing Friday only at the Capitol.

Oh, say, can they sing—and swing! Patricia Ellis, James Melton and Winifred Shaw head the crooning cast of "Melody for Two," a musical battle that will rock the world—with laughter, playing Wednesday only at the Capitol.

Ray Milland and Jean Arthur in a scene from "Easy Living," playing the Capitol theater Tuesday. Ray, the bus boy, represents Park avenue while lovely Jean, the girl in the sable, is from Third avenue.

Irene Dunne and Cary Grant in a sample of the mad humor in their first joint venture under t Columbia banner, "The Awful Truth," which plays at the Paramount theater midnight show Thank giving eve, Wednesday, November 24.

One of the greatest love stories of modern times is dramatically interwoven with desperate adventure and intrigue in the new film, "The Prisoner of Zenda." The picture features those incomparable lovers, Ronald Colman and Madeleine Carroll, with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the role of the fighting daredevil, Rupert of Hentzau. The notable supporting cast also includes Mary Astor, C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Massey and David Niven. The producer—David O. Selznick, who gave you "David Copperfield" and "A Star Is Born." "Prisoner of Zenda" plays the Paramount theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Acclaimed by increasing numbers of fans with each new picture as the most exciting sweethearts of the screen, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young are co-starred again in "Second Honeymoon," playing Thursday and Friday at the Paramount theater. Already hailed as the merriest, "marry-est" romance of the year, the film is said to be their perfect picture together. Their love is news again, but this time they mean it with all their hearts.

Stellar Cast In 'Danger---Love At Work'

Ann Sothern, Jack Haley, Mary Boland, Edward Everett Horton Featured

NEW WAYS of loving and newer ways of laughing in the new kind of laugh-hit that is the funniest "commotion-picture" of the year will bring a liberal education in hilarity to the screen of the Paramount theater when "Danger—Love At Work" plays today. Ann Sothern, Jack Haley, Mary Boland and Edward Everett Horton are starred in the daffiest comedy ever produced by the Twentieth Century-Fox merrymakers.

In or out of bedlam no one has ever seen the likes of the frantic romantics and haywire hilarity of this outstanding comedy. In a nutshell (a very fitting place, by the way) this new kind of rib-tickling tale is a simple story (simply devastating) of Girl meets Boy, Boy meets Family, Boy loses Mind! The Girl is Ann Sothern, the daffiest debutante who ever came out—of a trance! The Boy is Jack Haley, the most bewildered Romeo who ever faced a shotgun! The Family is altogether pixilated, with a cuckoo for their crest and a strait-jacket their coat-of-arms! The Mind—well, nobody does, it's all grand fun!

Delirious and de-looney, but, oh, so darned romantic, the screen story by James Edward Grant and Ben Markson despatches poor, sane Jack Haley to the balmy southern plantation of the most pixilated family in Dixie, a happy household run by Mary Boland, a hare-brained dowager who wouldn't recognize an inhibition if she had one. The principal target of her nuptial-making shotgun is Edward Everett Horton, a brain specialist in search of a brain.

Jack has met Ann on the train and when he arrives he is considered the latest in Ann's string of fiances, despite all his protestations that he is a lawyer anxious to have them all sign a document. True, the hapless Jack was a marked man the moment Ann laid eyes on him, but how was he, poor fellow, to know this until too late? Besides, when it was too late, Jack himself was anxious to get Ann to the altar, if only to get away from her family.

Despairing at ever obtaining the signatures of these folks, and afraid of winning the girl of his dreams, Jack departs for New York, only to find Ann hot on his heels and all her daffy relatives following behind. Ann, however, succeeds in getting the valued autographs for her Jack; there remain only those of her two maiden aunts and her uncle Goliath, a millionaire who lives in a cave.

Bing Crosby Film Plays At Capitol

Martha Raye Included In Tuneful New Picture, 'Double Or Nothing'

BING CROSBY and Martha Raye, of "Waikiki Wedding" and "Rhythm on the Range" fame, get together again for another frolic in Paramount's new music and romance comedy, "Double or Nothing," which opens today at the Capitol theater.

The two make music, merriment and millions with a gay abandon that gives this comedy a double dose of what everybody liked best in their first teaming pictures.

It is Bing's smoothest role as troubadour-comedian. Martha springs more tantalizing convolutions than ever convulsed a mirth-seeking audience. Add to these the romantic allure of Mary Carlisle and the comic misery of "gravel-voiced" Andy Devine, not to mention a novelty "Sing Band," a sensational night club show, and one of the most spectacular trick endings that ever came out of Hollywood's sleeve, and you have an idea of one of the most buoyant musical productions of the year.

The fortune-hunters: Bing Crosby, Martha Raye, Andy Devine and William Frawley, get going when a freak will offers a million dollars to the one who can double $5,000 in 30 days. They have to reckon with the not-so-benevolent brother of the will-maker, played by Sam Hinds, who plots to keep the million at home. Hinds uses his daughter, played by Miss Carlisle, as a cat's paw, and, unbeknownst, she picks Bing Crosby as her victim.

Hinds uses phoney stock to entice Frawley to part with his money, and Andy loses his in a hole-in-one golf course. Martha Raye, as "Liza Lou," the ex-song and dance girl, opens a canoe service, calls in chorus girls to be her pilots, and, when the fleet comes in, is set to do a sky-rocketing business. This is the cue for the tune "It's On, It's Off," which sets Martha off on her maddest tear. A riot squad kills her chance at the million.

Bing Crosby opens a night club and springs the first "Sing Band." It is such a success that he is about to sell an interest for $10,000 when Hinds darkens the scene and threatens the show. Bing plays his ace card with an Aladdin quick-change that will probably set a new style in night clubs throughout the country. Mary Carlisle reaches the crooner's side just a trifle ahead of the fortune.

A great deal of the credit for the high quality of this entertainment must go to Theodore Reed's fast-paced direction.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL WILL GIVE OPERA

Pupils Of Mrs. George Moffett Will Present Musical Program On Tuesday

The seventh grade choral club of the Ouachita Parish Grammar school will present an operetta, "Faraway Friends," at the parish high school auditorium, Tuesday. There will be a matinee at 2:15 p.m., and a night performance at 8:15 o'clock. The operetta cast has been directed by Mrs. George Moffett, of the music department of the parish high school, and there are more than 50 participants.

The operetta is said to be a highly popular production and is by J. Lilian Vandevere.

People of various nations are represented in costumes and songs. The leading parts are taken by David Cantrel, Billie Wilkie and Clarice Slagle.

Groups were listed as follows:

Spanish, Ida Mae Thorn, Billy McCoy, Elaine Burford, David Martin, Happy McDonald and Owen Takewell; Chinese, Marjorie Voss, Martha Nelson, Charlotte Hodges, T. H. Evans, Cortez Wagnon and Bobby Russell; Japanese, Dolly Brown, Connelia McHenry, Ruth Yearger, Dan Pickens, James Montgomery, Elmer Culpepper; Chinese Vandors, Wayne Christman, Jack Hayes, Richard Englerth; Swedish, Vivian Booth, Billy Booth, Mary Lee Gewin, Allen Coates; Russian, Satchie Cooper, Vivian Harper, Betty Ann Taylor, Layton Coates, Gray Wade, Mitford Minor; Dutch, Marie Edelen, Pauline Breard, Gene McCormick, Cecil Johnson, Billy Waldroup, Fred Stricklin; Irish, Marie Brown, Lois Fountain, Elizabeth Humble, Janice Smith; French, Joyce Boyett, Biddy Royce, Sybil Edwards, James Peck, J. E. Freeman and Edward Brown.

The public is invited to attend the night performance. A nominal fee will be asked.

CIVIL SERVICE TO HOLD STEAM FIREMAN EXAMS

The United States civil service commission announces an open competitive examination for positions of steam firemen in the Vicksburg engineer district. Forms for making application for taking the examination (form 6 and supplemental form 2351) may be obtained from Mrs. W. A. O'Kelly, secretary of the board of civil service examiners at the Monroe postoffice.

The forms may also be obtained at any other first class postoffice, or at the government engineer's office at Vicksburg.

Appointments resulting from the examination will be made at a salary of $1.260 to $1,440 per year, less required deductions, it was announced.

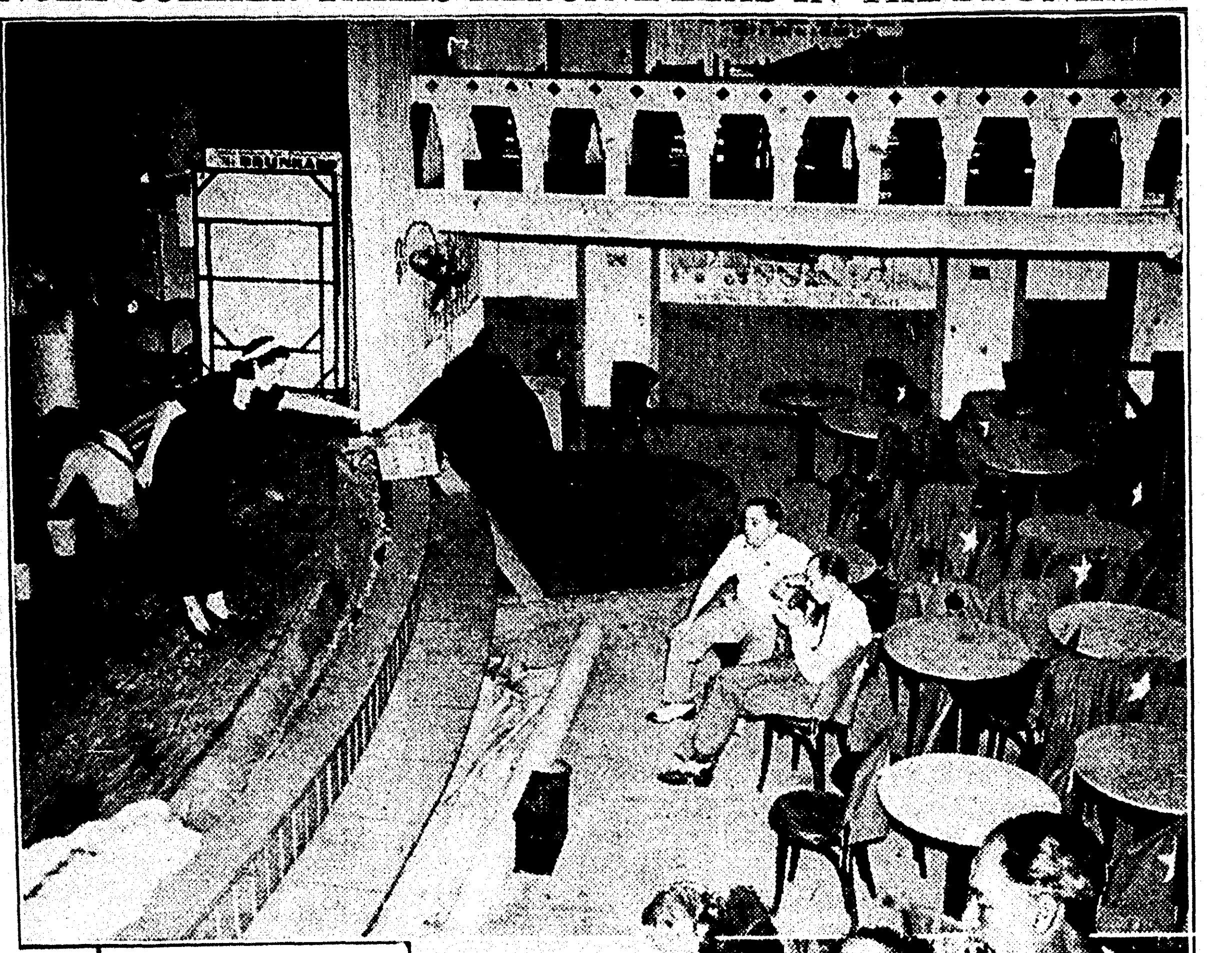
EDITOR WILL ADDRESS AREA RESERVE OFFICERS

A regular session of a reserve officers' school for the Monroe area will be held here at the American Legion home Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. A guest speaker, Fred Williamson, managing editor of the Morning World and News-Star, will address the assembly on the subject, "The Citizen and National Defense."

War veterans and others interested in military studies and national defense are invited to attend the meeting, it was announced in a communication from Colonel William S. Woodruff of Shreveport, district instructor of reserve officers, who directs the study courses of reserve officers of the Monroe area.

NOEL COLLIER TAKES HEROINE LEAD IN 'THE DRUNKARD'



Noel Collier, heroine of "The Drunkard," tries out a saucy song on William J. Collins, director and motion picture advisor, on the immense stage of the company's Hollywood studios, shown above. The same professional Hollywood cast, which thrilled Dallas and its 1936 centennial visitors, and again during this year's Pan-American exposition, will be presented in "The Drunkard" which will be staged at Three Mile inn under the auspices of the Junior Charity league. Beginning Wednesday, the company opens a week's engagement here, and will give two shows nightly at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Gorgeous costumes and stage properties which fill a baggage car will complete the production of this famous play.

The play will be given in a comedy sketch where the audience takes part with "boos" for the villain, and applause for the hero.

(Below) Other members of the cast debate over the gay ninety costumes to be worn in the olio which follows the presentation of "The Drunkard." Neely Edwards will act as master of ceremonies for this part of the show, and Noel Collier and Jean Holmes will be featured in kid songs and dances.

OUT OF THE NIGHT

By MARION WHITE Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER XXV

"This is a surprise," Cilly said to the stalwart figure in the doorway. "I didn't expect to see you again today."

Sergeant Dolan peeled himself out of his dripping raincoat and hung it over the kitchen door.

"I didn't expect to be here," he commented. "Enjoy the picture?"

"Very much, thank you. Except that I missed some visitors by being out this afternoon."

Dolan looked at her shrewdly. "So they muffed it, eh? Well, I might have known . . ."

He walked into the living room, looked around.

Cilly went about lighting the table lamps. It was growing dark quickly.

"So far as your apartment is concerned, yes. But we had much better luck in other quarters."

"Where?"

"At the Ralston."

Cilly started. The Ralston hotel was where Jim lived.

"Did Jim leave a forwarding address at the Ralston?"

"No. He wasn't quite so considerate."

Cilly straightened a chair, sat down, a little fearful. "What did you discover then?" She inquired hesitantly.

Dolan leaned forward.

"Remember what I told you about the bonds stolen by Kerr's father from the Bluefields National bank? That they were still missing? Well, we got a thousand dollars' worth of them this afternoon in young Kerr's room at the Ralston. Funny thing about it—Martin searched that room thoroughly on Monday afternoon, but you know the old saying: if you want to hide something thoroughly, stick it right out where anybody can see it. That's what Kerr did. The bonds were out on a table, carelessly slipped into a magazine. Martin looked through every crack and crevice of that room, into bureau drawers and between the sheets. But he never thought of going through the magazine; that was too obvious.'

"A little too obvious, it seems to me." Cilly retorted. "I'll bet someone put them there."

"Who? Kerr, Senior, stole them; his son is here to dispose of them. I don't know what miracle of fiction you saw this afternoon, but don't ask me to believe that a vindictive, vicious cleaning-woman slipped those bonds into the magazine."

"I won't ask you to believe anything. You're determined to accuse Jim Kerrigan, and you've a one-track mind, sergeant."

"Not at all. But when all the evidence points to one man, we can't overlook him because a certain young lady has responded to his personality."

"All the evidence does not point to Jim."

"Ninety per cent of it does. Kerr's been traveling outside the law these past several months. Naturally, he didn't want you to know that, so to bargain with the girl not to tell, he asked her to meet him up on the roof, where he probably hoped, if she didn't come to terms, that she'd accidentally fall off."

"You told me she was strangled first. . . ."

"So she was. I didn't say he took her up there deliberately to kill her. They were pretty close to each other; perhaps he thought he could reason with her. Then suddenly he lost his head. The first thing he grabbed was a piece of clothesline. Then, frightened at what he'd done, he threw her off the roof, hoping it would look like an accident. I told you it's no new thing for this young man to run amuck. At the trial out in Bluefields they had several demonstrations of his wild temper. I've got the complete file on the Kerr case, if you want to come down and check up on it for yourself."

Cilly was staring out of the window, watching the rain beat against the glass. She turned and looked Dolan calmly in the eye.

"Perhaps I will, some day," she said with deliberation. "If you ever indict Jim Kerrigan for this murder, I'll defend him. And I'll save him, Sergeant Dolan, in spite of you. There's nothing I won't do to free Jim. . . ."

Dolan frowned, surprised at the fierce promise in her words.

"It's not a question of what you can or will do, Miss Pierce," he reminded her. "A jury usually decides whether a man's guilty or not. And with the evidence I've got. . . .Wait! There's something else we found this afternoon at the Ralston."

He dug into his coat pocket, drew forth something wrapped in paper. Handed it to Cilly—a blue belt, a belt from a woman's chiffon dress.

Cilly stifled the cry that came to her lips, her eyes staring hypnotically at this new piece of evidence. The belt belonged to Amy Kerrs blue chiffon dress . . . the one she had taken up on the roof to air!

"You recognize it?"

Cilly did not, could not, answer. This was the last straw, she thought. This was the last link in the chain that was slowly, surely binding Jim to the murder. . . .

Her head spun madly; there was a wild throbbing in her temples, a choking in her throat. She tried to think of an explanation, but her thoughts were a whirlpool of horror and despair. . . .

She was dimly conscious that Dolan was still speaking; she heard his voice, relentlessly pursuing: ". . . . found it in the pocket of one of his jackets . . . probably wore it here. We have the dress down at headquarters. You remember the girl was holding it in her hand. . . ." But the words did not register in her mind.

* * *

Suddenly the throbbing in her temples gave way to a sharp, insistent ringing. Habit, more than understanding, forced her to her feet and propelled her to the telephone. Like a sleepwalker, she picked up the receiver, mumbled a mechanical "hello."

"Hello! Hello, Cilly, darling!"

Her heart stopped.

It was Jim's voice which came over the wire to her!

Jim was home again! Everything would be all right now. . .

But would it? There was Sergeant Dolan watching her like a cat. . . . Dolan who believed Jim guilty in spite of everything. . . .

Why, Jim wouldn't have a chance! Not now, with all this new evidence piling up. . . .

"Hello!" Cilly said again, mechanically, just to hold the connection. She was afraid to say more. Here was Jim, whose voice she'd prayed to hear every minute of the past few days, and she couldn't speak to him! All she could think of was that Jim mustn't come back yet. He couldn't be found until she could disprove some of the damning evidence against him. . . .

"Hello! Cilly, what's the matter? Can't you hear me?"

"Hello." She said it a third time, stupidly, tonelessly. Dolan would think it was a wrong number. . . . If only her knees wouldn't shake so!

"Cilly!" Jim's voice again. "I just got in from Newark Airport. I'm at the Pennsylvania. I'll come right over. . ."

Dolan was on his feet immediately, fire in his eye.

Cilly did not answer.

"So!" he shouted. "You have no idea where the fellow is, but he's near enough to keep in touch with you by telephone. Well, we'll take care of that, young lady. You're coming with me, as a material witness, and I'll put someone else in your apartment to take future messages."

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE TO START

Annual Campaign Will Be Initiated Here On Thanksgiving

A. B. Clarkson, chairman of the annual Christmas seal sale which will start on Thanksgiving day, stated that the outlook for success seems well assured. The little seals this year, which will mark the 30th annual appearance of the custom, depicts a jolly and colorful town bugler, garbed in a warm-caped cloak of blue and with a three-cornered hat. It brings to mind one of the most popular and ancient characters of many lands in the man who went from house to house in small towns and villages warning of danger, spreading the news and protecting householders.

The sale of these seals from year to year has made possible an organized fight against tuberculosis. Each and every letter and package that goes out of the postoffice during the pre-Christmas season should bear Christmas seals, it is urged by Captain G. B. Cooley, president of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association, which is local sponsor of the seal sales.

Money derived from this source will be devoted to the financing of the tuberculosis campaign in Ouachita parish.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL WILL GIVE OPERA

Pupils Of Mrs. George Moffett Will Present Musical Program On Tuesday

The seventh grade choral club of the Ouachita Parish Grammar school will present an operetta, "Faraway Friends," at the parish high school auditorium, Tuesday. There will be a matinee at 2:15 p.m., and a night performance at 8:15 o'clock. The operetta cast has been directed by Mrs. George Moffett, of the music department of the parish high school, and there are more than 50 participants.

The operetta is said to be a highly popular production and is by J. Lilian Vandevere.

People of various nations are represented in costumes and songs. The leading parts are taken by David Cantrel, Billie Wilkie and Clarice Slagle.

Groups were listed as follows:

CIVIL SERVICE TO HOLD STEAM FIREMAN EXAMS

The United States civil service commission announces an open competitive examination for positions of steam firemen in the Vicksburg engineer district. Forms for making application for taking the examination (form 6 and supplemental form 2351) may be obtained from Mrs. W. A. O'Kelly, secretary of the board of civil service examiners at the Monroe postoffice.

The forms may also be obtained at any other first class postoffice, or at the government engineer's office at Vicksburg.

Appointments resulting from the examination will be made at a salary of $1,260 to $1,440 per year, less required deductions, it was announced.

EDITOR WILL ADDRESS AREA RESERVE OFFICERS

A regular session of a reserve officers' school for the Monroe area will be held here at the American Legion home Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. A guest speaker, Fred Williamson, managing editor of the Morning World and News-Star, will address the assembly on the subject, "The Citizen and National Defense."

War veterans and others interested in military studies and national defense are invited to attend the meeting, it was announced in a communication from Colonel William S. Woodruff of Shreveport, district instructor of reserve officers, who directs the study courses of reserve officers of the Monroe area.

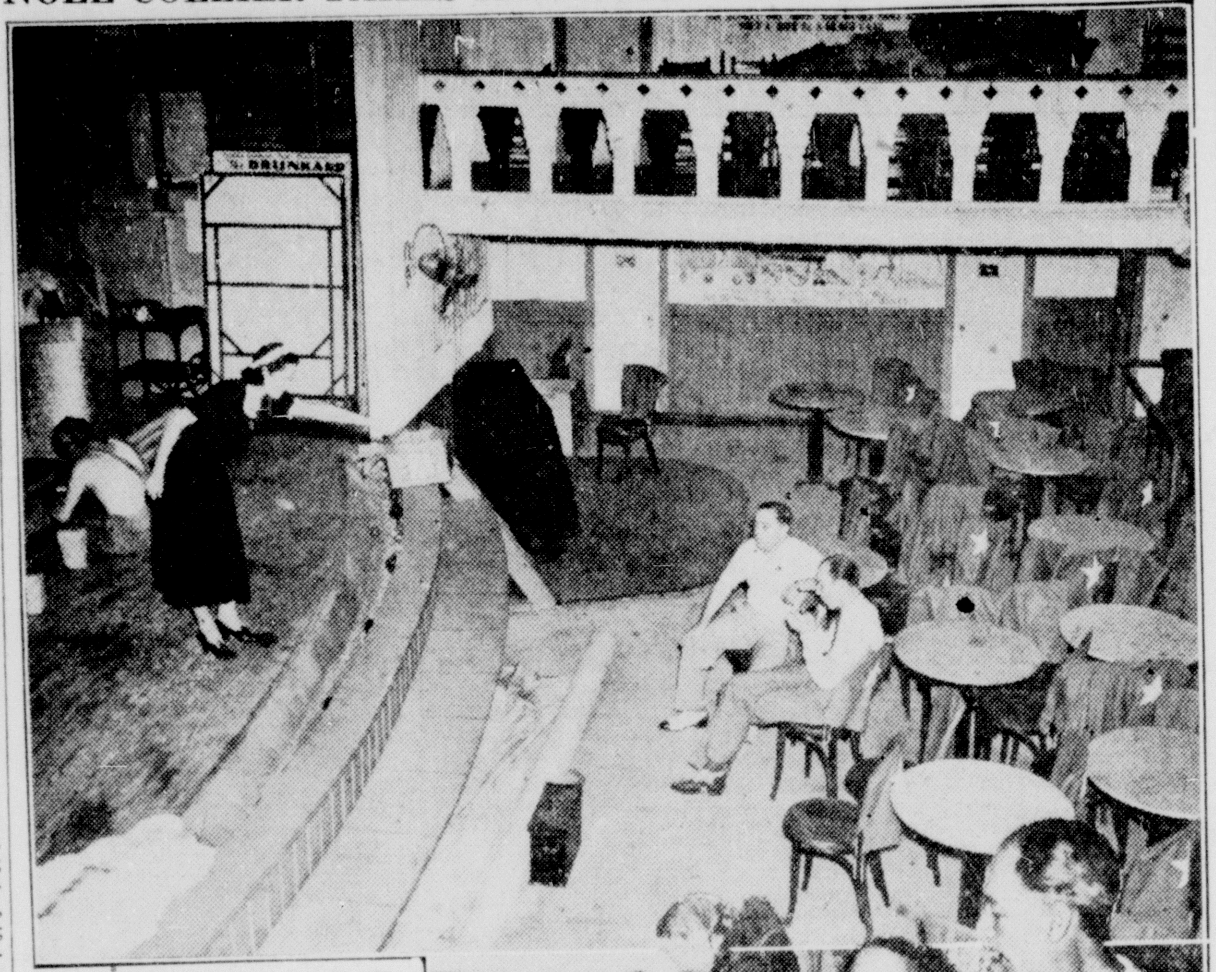
NOEL COLLIER TAKES HEROINE LEAD IN 'THE DRUNKARD'



Noel Collier, heroine of "The Drunkard," tries out a saucy song on William J. Collins, director and motion picture advisor, on the immense stage of the company's Hollywood studios, shown above. The same professional Hollywood cast, which thrilled Dallas and its 1936 centennial visitors, and again during this year's Pan-American exposition, will be presented in "The Drunkard" which will be staged at Three Mile inn under the auspices of the Junior Charity league. Beginning Wednesday, the company opens a week's engagement here, and will give two shows nightly at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Gorgeous costumes and stage properties which fill a baggage car will complete the production of this famous play.

The play will be given in a comedy sketch where the audience takes part with "boos" for the villain, and applause for the hero.

(Below) Other members of the cast debate over the gay ninety costumes to be worn in the olio which follows the presentation of "The Drunkard." Neely Edwards will act as master of ceremonies for this part of the show, and Noel Collier and Jean Holmes will be featured in kid songs and dances.

OUT OF THE NIGHT

CHAPTER XXV

"This is a surprise," Cilly said to the stalwart figure in the doorway. "I didn't expect to see you again today."

Sergeant Dolan peeled himself out of his dripping raincoat and hung it over the kitchen door.

"I didn't expect to be here," he commented. "Enjoy the picture?"

"Very much, thank you. Except that I missed some visitors by being out this afternoon."

Dolan looked at her shrewdly. "So they muffed it, eh? Well, I might have known . . ."

He walked into the living room, looked around.

Cilly went about lighting the table lamps. It was growing dark quickly.

"So far as your apartment is concerned, yes. But we had much better luck in other quarters."

"Where?"

"At the Ralston."

Cilly started. The Ralston hotel was where Jim lived.

"Did Jim leave a forwarding address at the Ralston?"

"No. He wasn't quite so considerate."

Cilly straightened a chair, sat down, a little fearful. "What did you discover then?" She inquired hesitantly.

Dolan leaned forward.

"Remember what I told you about the bonds stolen by Kerr's father from the Bluefields National bank? That they were still missing? Well, we got a thousand dollars' worth of them this afternoon in young Kerr's room at the Ralston. Funny thing about it—Martin searched that room thoroughly on Monday afternoon, but you know the old saying: if you want to hide something thoroughly, stick it right out where anybody can see it. That's what Kerr did. The bonds were out on a table, carelessly slipped into a magazine. Martin looked through every crack and crevice of that room, into bureau drawers and between the sheets. But he never thought of going through the magazine; that was too obvious."

"A little too obvious, it seems to me." Cilly retorted. "I'll bet someone put them there."

"Who? Kerr, Senior, stole them; his son is here to dispose of them. I don't know what miracle of fiction you saw this afternoon, but don't ask me to believe that a vindictive, vicious cleaning-woman slipped those bonds into the magazine."

"I won't ask you to believe anything. You're determined to accuse Jim Kerrigan, and you've a one-track mind, sergeant."

"Not at all. But when all the evidence points to one man, we can't overlook him because a certain young lady has responded to his personality."

"All the evidence does not point to Jim."

"Ninety per cent of it does. Kerr's been traveling outside the law these past several months. Naturally, he didn't want you to know that, so to bargain with the girl not to tell, he asked her to meet him up on the roof, where he probably hoped, if she didn't come to terms, that she'd accidentally fall off."

"You told me she was strangled first. . . ."

"So she was. I didn't say he took her up there deliberately to kill her. They were pretty close to each other; perhaps he thought he could reason with her. Then suddenly he lost his head. The first thing he grabbed was a piece of clothesline. Then, frightened at what he'd done, he threw her off the roof, hoping it would look like an accident. I told you it's no new thing for this young man to run amuck. At the trial out in Bluefields they had several demonstrations of his wild temper. I've got the complete file on the Kerr case, if you want to come down and check up on it for yourself."

Cilly was staring out of the window, watching the rain beat against the glass. She turned and looked Dolan calmly in the eye.

"Perhaps I will, some day," she said with deliberation. "If you ever indict Jim Kerrigan for this murder, I'll defend him. And I'll save him, Sergeant Dolan, in spite of you. There's nothing I won't do to free Jim. . . ."

Dolan frowned, surprised at the fierce promise in her words.

"It's not a question of what you can or will do, Miss Pierce," he reminded her. "A jury usually decides whether a man's guilty or not. And with the evidence I've got. . . .Wait! There's something else we found this afternoon at the Ralston."

He dug into his coat pocket, drew forth something wrapped in paper. Handed it to Cilly—a blue belt, a belt from a woman's chiffon dress.

Cilly stifled the cry that came to her lips, her eyes staring hypnotically at this new piece of evidence. The belt belonged to Amy Kerrs blue chiffon dress . . . the one she had taken up on the roof to air!

"You recognize it?"

Cilly did not, could not, answer. This was the last straw, she thought. This was the last link in the chain that was slowly, surely binding Jim to the murder. . . .

Her head spun madly; there was a wild throbbing in her temples, a choking in her throat. She tried to think of an explanation, but her thoughts were a whirlpool of horror and despair. . . .

She was dimly conscious that Dolan was still speaking; she heard his voice, relentlessly pursuing: ". . . . found it in the pocket of one of his jackets . . . probably wore it here. We have the dress down at headquarters. You remember the girl was holding it in her hand. . . ." But the words did not register in her mind.

* * *

Suddenly the throbbing in her temples gave way to a sharp, insistent ringing. Habit, more than understanding, forced her to her feet and propelled her to the telephone. Like a sleepwalker, she picked up the receiver, mumbled a mechanical "hello."

"Hello! Hello, Cilly, darling!"

Her heart stopped.

It was Jim's voice which came over the wire to her!

Jim was home again! Everything would be all right now. . .

But would it? There was Sergeant Dolan watching her like a cat. . . . Dolan who believed Jim guilty in spite of everything. . . .

Why, Jim wouldn't have a chance! Not now, with all this new evidence piling up. . . .

"Hello!" Cilly said again, mechanically, just to hold the connection. She was afraid to say more. Here was Jim, whose voice she'd prayed to hear every minute of the past few days, and she couldn't speak to him! All she could think of was that Jim mustn't come back yet. He couldn't be found until she could disprove some of the damning evidence against him. . . .

"Hello! Cilly, what's the matter? Can't you hear me?"

"Hello." She said it a third time, stupidly, tonelessly. Dolan would think it was a wrong number. . . . If only her knees wouldn't shake so!

"Cilly!" Jim's voice again. "I just got in from Newark Airport. I'm at the Pennsylvania. I'll come right over. . ."

Instantly, Cilly found her voice. The words tumbled from her lips, fast and decisive, before Dolan could get their full meaning: "You mustn't do that. They're waiting to get you, here in my apartment." She slammed the receiver back on its hook.

Dolan was on his feet immediately, fire in his eye.

"Who was that?" he demanded.

Cilly did not answer.

"So!" he shouted. "You have no idea where the fellow is, but he's near enough to keep in touch with you by telephone. Well, we'll take care of that, young lady. You're coming with me, as a material witness, and I'll put someone else in your apartment to take future messages."

Cilly paid no attention to his words. Let him arrest her. What did it matter? If only Jim would understand and keep away. . . .

I WAS SO SORRY TO HEAR YOU BROKE BOTH OF YOUR LEGS, TOM
YES, IT WAS UNFORTUNATE, BUT A CARPENTER MADE ME SOME NEW ONES
by MARTIN
MY GOODNESS! YOU DON'T SEEM TO FEEL VERY BADLY ABOUT IT
NO INDEED! IT'S A MIGHTY COMFORTABLE FEELING TO HAVE WOODEN DRUM-STICKS, WITH THE HOLIDAYS COMING ON.
WONDER WOT TH' TOM TUCKER THAT YOUNG FELLER'S GONNA DO WITH THEM HOUNDS?
I DUNNO! HE JUST ASKED FER TWO OF TH' MEANEST ONES WE HAD ... AN' HE SURE GOT 'EM
BOY, THIS'S WOT I CALLS A SMART SMATTERIN' OF NOODLE WORK ...... YEAH, MAN!
I'LL TIE ONE OF THESE BABIES ON EACH SIDE OF BOOTS' DOORWAY T'NIGHT ... AN' I'LL BET, BY HECK, NO ROAMIN' ROMEO WILL GET PAST THEM
THIS'S ONCE I'M GONNA SPEND A NICE QUIET P.M. ALONE WITH BOOTS
HEY!! NIX ...... LEGGO!!!
OUCH!
!!! ★☆★
SEVERAL HOURS LATER ON IN BOOTS' LIFE
OH! SO IT'S FERDY!!! WELL, ASK HIM IF HE HAS FORGOTTEN THAT WE HAD A DATE THIS EVENING
HE SAYS, NO MAM ... BUT, HE'S WAY OUT IN DE COUNTRY SOMEWHEAH AN' HE WANTS T'KNOW HOW ABOUT JES' CALLIN' DE WHOLE THING OFF?

CAPTAIN EASY by ROY CRANE
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
SOLDIER OF FORTUNE
I MIGHT O'KNOWN THAT BLASTED JELLYFISH WOULD END UP IN THE GUTTER AGAIN.
LEAVING HOOT, EASY FACES THE PROBLEM OF RETURNING TO U.S., WITHOUT MONEY.
HI HO, SOMETHING'S ALWAYS BOUND TO TURN UP.
SUDDENLY, HE HEARS PISTOL SHOTS FROM BEHIND HIM.
BANG! BANG!
AND A CAR WHIZZES AROUND THE BEND.....
.... SKIDS INTO A BRIDGE.
WHAM!
WELL, YOUNG LADY, I RECKON IT'S FOOLISH TO ASK IF YOU'RE HURT.
I'M OKAY, I THINK.
LET ME HELP YOU.
THANKS, BUT DO YOU REALLY WANT TO HELP ME?
WHY, CERTAINLY I DO!
THEN GET INTO THIS BOAT, ALONE, AND NEVER MENTION WHAT HAS HAPPENED.
BUT....
HURRY, STUPID! THEY'RE AFTER ME!
WELL, IF THAT ISN'T THE CRAZIEST THING I EVER RAN INTO. FIRST THERE ARE PISTOL SHOTS, THEN AN ACCIDENT, AND A GIRL ASKS ME TO HELP HER, BY TAKING A BOAT RIDE.
HELLO, WHAT'S THIS IN MY POCKET?
AN ENVELOPE CONTAINING A PAWN TICKET. NOW, WHERE THE BLAZES DID THIS COME FROM?

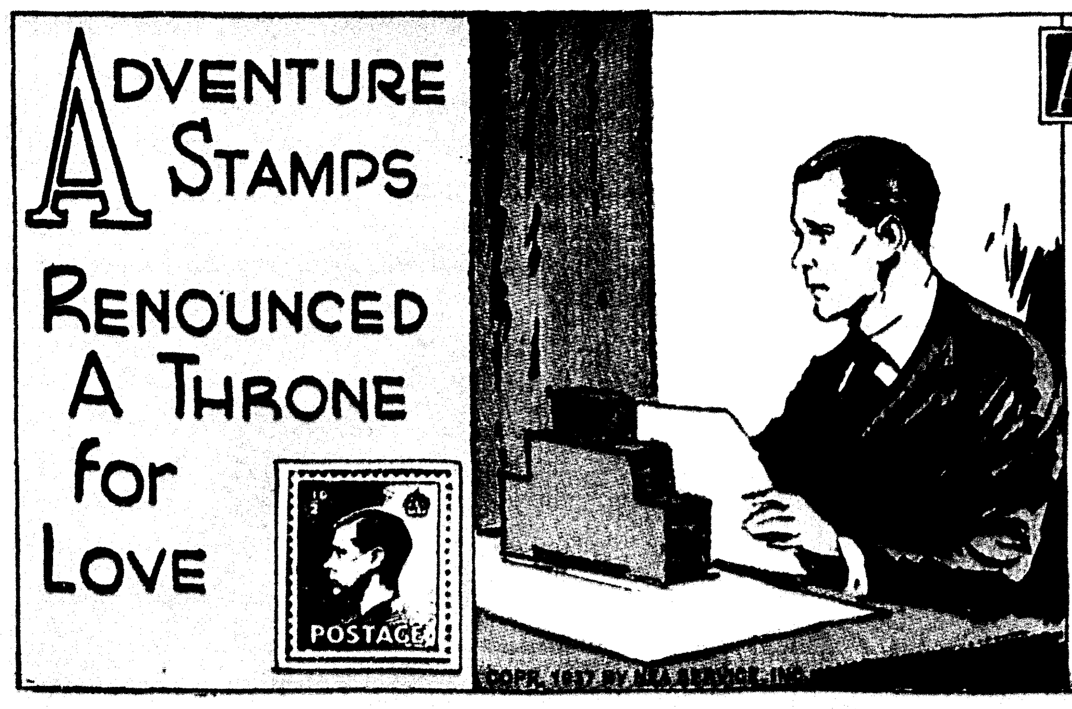
ADVENTURE STAMPS

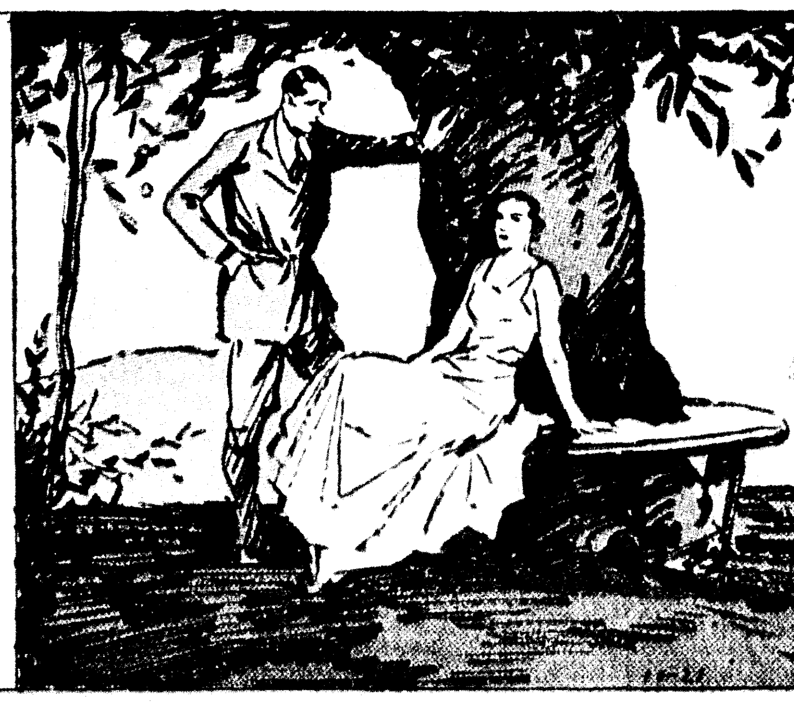
RENOUNCED A THRONE FOR LOVE



POSTAGE
COPR. 1937 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"AT long last," came the ex-king's clear and measured voice, "I am able to say a few words. I have never wanted to withhold anything. . . . But you must believe me when I tell you that I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge my duties as king as I would wish to do without the help and support of the woman I love."

Thus, on Dec. 11, 1936, Edward VIII ceased to be king and emperor and his brother Albert Frederick Arthur George ascended the British throne which Edward had renounced for the hand and heart of American-born Wallis Warfield. Never before had an English monarch abdicated for love.



A few hours later and Edward had set sail for France, there to spend the first days of his unprecedented self-imposed exile. And there too he subsequently joined Wallis Warfield for the first time since the news of their epochal romance had shaken the British empire to its foundations.

The next spring, a few days after the coronation which might have been held for him, Edward, now Duke of Windsor, wed Wallis Warfield at Cannes. Immediately the two retired to the duke's Austrian honeymoon castle. So was culminated one of history's greatest romances. Meanwhile, in Great Britain, postage stamps bearing Edward's likeness continued to circulate even while George VI began his rule.
